this subject being his specialty. His most widely known accomplishment was his pointing out to automobile manufacturers the need for seat belts and shoulder harness.

He further pointed out that advertising leaves much to be desired in that the managers only advertise the appearances of cars. He used the examples such as, "When you drive a Cougar you prowl." He went on to say that sex is a promonent feature in the advertis-

Nader implied that is partially the fault of the people in that they do not demand to know about the durability of the cars they purchase.

Continuing his speech, Nader talked about food products. He mentioned that many processors pump water into poultry to add weight and consequently receive more money for less meat.
