SGA Establishes Board Determine Food Policy

The SGA office met with Dr. Thomas A. Collins, Mr. Floyd Sawyer, Dr. Sim O. Wilde, and Mrs. Mozelle Batchelor because students' voices were not heard when we decided to rid ourselves of the cafeteria food. Representing the student body, John Roberts, president, presented a Food Service Proposal whereby Dean Sim O. Wilde and three students will have the power to deal with food service in the cafeteria and make suggestions. This action was taken by the SGA as a result of the none-changing food situation in the cafeteria.

It is outlined as the following:

February 5, 1970

The Student Government Association of N. C. Wesleyan College submits the following proposal for approval:

1. That the policy control of food services at the college be placed under the office of the Dean of Students with a student advisory board to be known as the Board of Directors.

(a) The Board of Directors shall consist of:

(1) The Dean of Students who shall be chairman

(2) A student appointed by and from the Student Senate

(3) The President of the SGA

(4) A Student elected at large from the resident student body.

(b) The Board of Directors shall have the following powers:

(1) To deal directly with the food services management in regard to preparation and service of food, attitude and actions of staff members, and types of menus planned.

(2) To make recommendations to the President concerning any action that needs to be taken in regard to these matters including any disciplinary

WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW

By JOHN HINNANT

President Nixon received a note from Russian Premier Alexie N. Kosygin Saturday in which Kosygin charged the U.S. for supporting Israel's attacks on Egypt and other Arab countries. The Russian Premier warned that if such strikes continue, his country would increase military aid to the Arab countries. President Nixon conferred with the governments of Britain, France, and Israel before replying to the note.

Senator J. William Fulbright-D, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reopened hearings on the Vietnam war. Fulbright questions the feasibility and implications of the President's "Vietnamization" policy. Another committee man, Senator Charles E. Goodell-R-New York, states, "Vietnamization has been a great public relations success (but) is not a true policy of disengagement." Senator Harold Hughes-D, Iowa, charged Vietnamization was "a semantic hoax--what it denotes is simply an extension of the Johnson foreign policy." In response to the hearing, Vice President Agnew accused Democrats of "casting about aimlessly" for a way to discredit the administration.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will head a cabinet-level committee to help achieve integration "in the least disruptive way." The committee will consist of the Vice President, Attorney General John W. Mitchell, HEW Robert H. French and a top aid from the White House.

President Nixon issued an executive order last Wednesday that would give federal agencies three years and $359 million dollars to stop water and air pollution. Nixon stated further that these funds could not be used for any other purpose.

Hon. Cooley Speaks On World Food Supply

By BECKY FRANKEL

Harold Cooley, an authority on the American and world's Food Supply Problem spoke at the February 5 convocation program.

Mr. Cooley, now a resident of Nashville, N. C., was the congressman representing the 4th Congressional District from 1934-1966. During this time he served as the Democratic chairman of the House Agricultural Committee.

Cooley's talk, which was interspersed with amusing anecdotes, centered around the theme of the problem of supplying the world with food, and the importance of agriculture in solving this problem. As a Congressman, Cooley encouraged legislation abolishing a "controlled agriculture". He stated
