Dean Allen Cordts Looks Toward Progressive Year

By GARY CHRISTOPHER

DECREE: In the past few years under various deanships the college has been under the philosophy of "Freedom with Responsibility." Will your office continue under this particular philosophy?

Cordts: I think it's an excellent philosophy one that I ascribe to also, and I have no intention of modifying that in any way. The only point that I think needs underlining is that responsibility also includes

NCW Theater Presents A Man For All Seasons

Auditions for the fall production, A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS, will be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the experimental theatre. The announcement came from the office of Anthony Dingman, associate professor of drama and director of the production.

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS,

written by Robert Bolt, was first performed in England in 1960. It is the story of the conflict between Sir Thomas More and King Henry VIII. The action of the play covers approximately the first thirty years of the sixteenth century, culminating with the death of Sir Thomas. The play has been classified as a drama with several comic moments. It is not a tragedy in the same sense that THE CRUCIBLE is.

Richard Bolt divided the play into two acts with seven and nine scenes, respectively. There are fourteen roles to be filled, none of which have been precast. Eleven of the fourteen are male roles. The parts range in length from those requiring only a few minutes on stage with very few lines to major roles which require almost constant on-stage participation.

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS is scheduled for presentation on the stage of Everett Theatre on November 5, 6, and 7. Commenting on the play, Mr. Dingman said, "I believe that this play is on the same level of importance, relevance, and quality as both THE CRUCIBLE and MAN OF LA MANCHA. Consequently, the production style may appear similar in certain aspects."

Richard Kagey, Wesleyan's newly-acquired scenic designer and technical director has announced that there are a large number of openings for technical crews, especially in the area of costuming. A large number of sewers will be necessary as the costumes for this play will be made rather than rented. Lists for crews are posted in room 231. Interested students can contact Mr. Kagey.

The rehearsal schedule and audition hints are also posted in room 231. The rehearsal schedule for this year has been changed, so interested persons should consult the materials posted. Scripts are on reserve in the library. Those wishing to audition should familiarize themselves with the plays prior to Tuesday night tryouts.

being familiar with the nature of the institutional community. Sometimes the freedom part of that couplet is thought of first and the responsibility part second. These two must go together, weighed equally.

DECREE: Do you have any particular hopes or aspirations which you hope to accomplish this year?

Cordts: On a short term basis, there is one job that we'll have to tackle. This concerns the evaluation of instruction. The Southern Association team that was here last spring made a very strong point about this. In their words, "a consistent, college-wide, evaluation of instruction by students and by division chairmen should be instituted as soon as possible."

DECREE: Last year many strides were made in terms of getting students involved in many of the faculty and administrative committees and councils. Will this continue?

Cordts: I'm sure this will become a more prominent aspect not only in this college community but also in many others. It's something long overdue.

DECREE: The Bishop's LAW is very explicit on a wide spectrum of rules and regulations, though some are enforced while others go rather lax. In the past it has been claimed that this is due to the fine lines of interpretation by the Dean's

Nursing Program To Be Introduced

By STAN GRAY

This year's fall freshmen have an opportunity to enroll in a nursing program offered by Wesleyan and Atlantic Christian College. The program involves a two year pre-nursing period here followed by two years at Atlantic Christian. The graduate earns a B. S. degree in nursing.

Freshman requirements are biology, math 9 or 13, and the regular freshman requirements. In the sophomore year, physiology and microbiology should be taken.

Upon completion of the sophomore year, the student transfers to Atlantic Christian. There is no loss of credits during the transfer. The nursing major can then be earned in two years. During the two year academic program, clinical experience is gained at nearby hospitals and health departments.

The financial requirements are approximately the same at both institutions; however, a scholarship program and two loan programs are offered at Atlantic Christian for the nursing student. All interested students are urged to contact Dean Moore or Dr. Wilde.

Library Acquires New Microfilm Equipment

Additional storage space for microfilm reels as well as more space for filing catalog cards is available in the library this fall as a result of the library's recent acquisition of two items.

The items are (a) a 15-tray card catalog cabinet with top and base and (b) 9-drawer, 4-compartment filing cabinet for microfilm storage. Each of the 15 trays in the card catalog can accommodate approximately 1200 cards. The filing cabinet, which is being used for storage of the New York Times on microfilm, has a capacity of 612 reels. The catalog cabinet is being used to house author-title cards.

Noting the advantage of microfilm over hard copy in terms of savings in both space and money, librarian A. W. Stewart declared, "At present almost 1/4 of our periodical collection is on microfilm. In 10 years, it is likely that 50 percent of our periodicals will be on film."

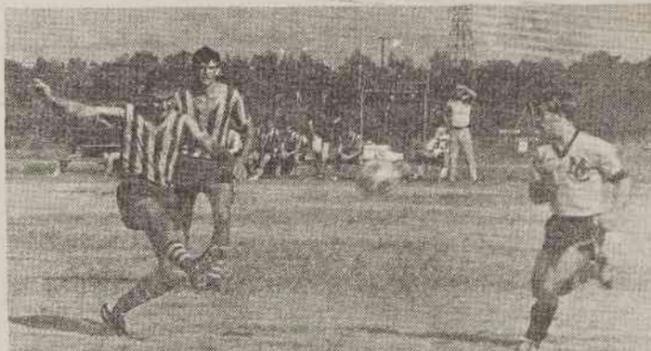

The library has two microfilm readers - a compact University Microfilms model and a larger Recordak reader.
