viewed by the SGA president, and individually elected by 2/3 majority vote of the Senate. The disturbing factor of this provision is that it robs the student of his right to elect justices of his choice. Since the Supreme Court is designed to mete out punishments to students, we feel that students should have a direct say in who the justices should be. Objections were raised by certain senators against student participation in selection of justices on the assumption that Wesleyan students are too apathetic to take an active responsibility of electing their court justices. We realize that apathy is a problem on campus, however we feel there may be too much power in the hands of some short bridge music, and discovered "Maria Elena." The tune was played frequently on the program and enquiries started pouring in. RCA Records reissued the track as a single record and it became a best seller. This led to the re-release of the album (under the same title) and that, too, shot to the top of the best seller charts.

RCA Records then started searching for Natalico and Antenor and found them living on a farm sixty miles out of Rio. They recorded a new album, "Always In My Heart," and their new and permanently successful career was launched. Other LP's issued since then include: "The Mellow Guitar Moods of Los Indios Tabajaras"; "The Many Slendored Guitars of Los Indios Tabajaras"; "Casually Classic"; and "Twin Guitars - In A Mood For Love".

They then made another European tour and appeared with great success at the Olympia in Paris and with the Concertgebouw Orchestra in Amsterdam. Early in 1966, they returned to the United States with their own families to set up permanent residence.

Their hectic schedule of personal appearances will take them, in the fall of 1970 to practically every state in the U. S. when they begin their third consecutive college campus tour of the U. S. and Canada.

As the two senators in opposition to the proposed amendment, we advise all students to take particular notice of Section 2, topic A, sub-topics 1 and 2, and we urge you to vote NOT to accept the recommended constitutional revisions of the Student Supreme Court.

Dear Editor,

I hope you will excuse my slowness in communicating with you about the events surrounding us these days. There are a lot of things to do and obviously not enough time in which to do them.

We are still in the process of filling all of our elective offices. There are several offices of importance, standing empty at the moment.

Three very important vacancies have occurred. These are the positions for student representatives on the standing Board of Trustees committees. For the first time this year, we as students will have eyes, ears, and voices in these committees. These must and will be nominated in the Senate by specification of the Board of Trustees, and elected by the student body this month. A second very important vacancy has occurred in the Board of Directors-- This group was organized last year. It serves as the executive branch for dealing with food services. Composed of the Dean of Students, the Student Government President, the Head of the Senate Food Services Committee and a student representative from the student body at large. It presently lacks the student representative.

The last post, filled by a temporary appointee at this time, is the ASPECTS--editorship. Applications became available last week for this position. The election will be held within the next two weeks.

Let me encourage you to participate as candidates for and voters in these elections.

You are, I am sure, by this time aware of the questionnaire dealing with dormitory regulations. Hopefully as many of you as possible have expressed yourselves honestly as to your opinions on these questionnaires. They will be compiled during this coming week in preparation for a proposal for actual changes. I hope to communicate with you the probable contents of such a proposal by this time next week. Your patience and support will be extremely necessary during this next week.

I will understand and share your disappointment and wrath if we find our hopes unfulfilled after such compilation and proposals has been made.

Please contact me or any of our student government officers if you wish further information here.

Sincerely,
Bob Leyda
S. G. A. President

in convocation two years ago on the topic of race relations --the time of a few days ended this controversy. Yet with pride Wesleyan students talk of the Upward Bound Program and the achievements of Wesleyan in this area.

From the beginnings of this year a challenging change added flavor to the life of Wesleyan. To drop a foreign language requirement, to put into non-existence a failure system and to allow students to linger in school for 5, 6 or as many years as possible to achieve their aims may unjustly, but for this writing does sum up the questions of concern among the faculty and students, as to the new challenge of Wesleyan as an academic community. You had better believe students want to see the foreign language requirement go. And you had better believe a no-failure, no-D-system would be much appreciated. Yet what is the major concern of Wesleyan, its faculty, its administration and its students?

The ideas behind the no-failure, no-D-system are good, the ideas behind the no foreign language requirements are good, and the idea is that students could concern themselves with majors and experimentation that is essential to college life. Yet the standards of these ideas need not be set up and judged for our students have already shown their inability to cope with these situations. To perceive the strength of Wesleyan the community must perceive an ever more responsible and intelligent student body. Where does the concern of our average student lie?

Ann Rand's Unspeakable word and word that build an ever growing world was EGO. The ego of Wesleyan could use a little inflation--not to destroy as a nationalistic or fascist ego might do, but rather an ego that will make Wesleyan not just a community of students bickering over Rocky Mount but a concerned group of people involved in America and the World.
