Tom Wells, shipping room clerk at TexElastic's Archdale plant, admires the new supply room recently set up with the assistance of Joe Schrader, director of corporate purchasing. A supply room is also being readied for the Raeford plant.

The supply rooms set up at TexElastic are the first to be placed in operation in Adams-Millis Corporation. Such a corporate-wide arrangement will benefit both the company and its employees by centralizing all maintenance, repair and operating supplies. Each plant and division will benefit from the development of the most economical means of purchasing and controlling supplies.
