CHRISTMAS PARTY —

Mary Lou Pope.

The White House Cafe will serve the turkey dinner in the overall department. In charge of arranging the tables and for the dinner is a committee composed of Rosa Wilkerson, Hattie Bray, Winnie Osborne, and Polly Cannon. Everyone in the department is on the committee to trim the tree.

The cutting room also is following the policy of putting all members on the committee to pitch in and help with the work. Ike Craun has been invited to attend the cutting room party.

Both the dungaree and the pants department are noted for their dinners when they throw a party, and both are planning a bountiful Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. At the pants department Frances Workman, Kathryn Johnson and Annie Hughes are in charge of the food, while the table committee is composed of Adral Thompson, Nell Burroughs, Vallie Boyles, and Betty Saltz. Everyone is going to help trim the tree.

Both of these two big departments already have drawn names for the exchange of gifts. The committee in charge of arrangements for dungaree is Ethel Wise, chairman, Sarah Saintsing, Vada Stiles, Winnie Shirley, Irene Marsh, Mary Sprye, and Faye Frye.

Members of the shirt department will break up into smaller groups for their dinner, but the exchange of gifts will be on a department-wide basis.

town School.

Ethel Wise and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Holland Nance in Lexington Thanksgiving Day.

Velna Hazelwood, with her husband and baby, spent week-end before last in Mt. Airy.

Leota Marie Faulk spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her sister, Mrs. Buck Ashby of Portsmouth, Va.

We would like to welcome Rundenla Rich and Sarah Hill back after being out on leaves of absence.

Eleanor Wood and family spent the week-end in Scottville, Va.

Minnie Snow and family spent a week-end in Mt. Airy.

We would like to welcome our newcomers, Evelyn Peace, Charlotte Redmond, Aurelia Johnson, Ruth Rhymer, Betty Lou Sears, Eleanor Wood and Betty Rickard.

We extend our sympathy to Lucille Cromer in the death of her mother.

Please Park Only Where You Are Assigned Space

The parking lot at the Hudson Division is proving a headache both to the people who drive their cars to work and have parking space assigned to them there, and to the personnel office which has the job of assigning the space.

Employees who drive their cars to work every day have first call on the parking spaces, according to Aline Carter. Many of them have no way of getting to work except in their cars, she pointed out, and there aren't enough spaces to go around among the operators who sometimes drive their cars.

There has been much confusion and irritation caused by drivers who have no space assigned them, parking in a space that has been given to someone else. In an effort to end the confusion, the personnel office last week gave numbered stickers to the drivers who have spaces assigned them in the parking lot. These stickers are to be placed on the rear window, and the number on the sticker must be the same as the number of the space in which the car is parked. Otherwise, the driver of the car will be required to move it.

Paul Frye also is having trouble with people parking in the yard which contains the shipping platform. The big trucks which carry much of our finished goods away from the plant, need room in which to back up to the shipping platform. When cars are parked anywhere except in the marked spaces, they are in the way.

There are eight parking spaces or slots in the shipping yard. Four of these have been assigned, Aline stated, and four must be left vacant for use by employees from the White or the sales divisions who have to come to the Hudson Division on business.

"Please do not pull into a parking space in the shipping yard even if it happens to be vacant at the moment," Aline requests of employees as a whole. "These spaces are reserved for the use of people like Floyd Mehan, Jack Rives, Ossie Wright, members of the engineering office, Reitzel Morgan, Helen Hughes, Clayton Holmes, and Arthur Royals, or of the sales office, Hugh Webster, Ike Craun, Dave Cowan and Ken Poindexter, and supervisors from the White Division."

Some people are like blotters—soak it all in but get it backwards.
