

NEW BLOUSE — Linda Gardner's blonde beauty sets off this new blouse printed in shades of blue, to perfection. This number, which now is in the Spring line, features a modified spread collar, short sleeves with narrow cuff, yoke and pearl buttons. The shilhouette print is a geometric design and also comes in pink and aqua. This same blouse is available in chambray in solid shades of blue, aqua, yellow and copper. Linda has been with Anvil Brand two years and works in finishing at White. She lives in Jamestown.

Third of the Day

Today Anvil Branders are receiving a little booklet entitled "A Third of the Day."

The booklet was written to help you take a look at things that affect the way you feel and the way you work with others — on the job and away from it.

There is a lot of valuable information in this book. Make a note to read it.

Intolerance, and racial and religious discrimination, are not the by-products of any particular kind of working condition, wage-classification, or economic group. They are germs which do their damage in every type of human being, and they are just as contagious and indiscriminate as chicken-pox, while having a mortality factor more closely resembling that of cancer and tuberculosis.

—Charles E. Wilson

Has not God borne with you these many years? Be ye tolerant to others.

—Hosea Ballou

Brotherhood Week Starts Sun.

By Cornelia Otis Skinner

This is published in the interest of Brotherhood Week, February 19-26, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The fact that racial and religious prejudice should, in any form, exist in a great democracy, is an incredible mockery of the very word democracy. It should be considered in the light of a personal disgrace to every citizen of that same democracy. A disgrace as shocking and as tragic as that of the discovery that a near and dear member of one's family has become a hardened criminal. For prejudice is a crime. It is a crime against the democratic ideal, a crime against the teachings of Christianity, Judaism and the other great religions, a crime against human decency and a crime against just plain common sense. Furthermore, it is a crime for which every American citizen, directly or indirectly, is responsible, if not for its inception, at least for the continuance of its presence in our world today.

We are responsible because of our apathy in side-stepping the issue, because of our outmoded give-it-time-it-will-cure-itself attitude, because of our kidding ourselves with the preposterous fable that it is a special problem to be solved by the special persons affected. The problem is our problem, and, as long as prejudice exists in our land, we are the persons affected.

The solving of it must be done by us all, each and every man, woman and child of this nation, of every walk of life and of every race, creed or color. It must be solved by our actions, by our words and by our thinking. And if we and our children are to survive as living creatures worthy of the name of human beings, it must be solved not in a theoretical future, not tomorrow, but now, this very instant.

The great secret is not having bad manners or good manners or any other particular sort of manners, but having the same manners for all human souls.

—George Bernard Shaw

From where I'm sitting tolerance is just a big word for peace. War can't get going where there's a sympathetic understanding of nation for nation, man for man, and creed for creed.

GOODBYE TO LEAH — Leah Rhodes' co-workers at Sherrod arranged a farewell luncheon for her recently, prior to her leaving the company. Everybody ate a lot of good food and had a good time. Leah is sitting at the table and behind her are Irene Linthicum, left, and Bessie Farmer.
