New Deadline Set For Fund Drive; $4,000 In

A new deadline of December 3 has been set for final United Fund Reports.

The United Fund is the City of Durham's effort to pool all welfare contributions into one fund. The UF replaces the Community Chest plan of solicitation.

At its report on November 19, the North Carolina College chapter subscribed 103.5% of its quota of $4,000. According to Dr. Charles A. Ray, North Carolina College's "colonel" in the UF campaign, this is "100% more than the Community Chest contribution of $2,000 in 1952."

Colonels

However, Dr. Ray said, "We are earnestly trying to get 100% cooperation of faculty, staff, and students in this cooperative community effort."

Miss Helen V. McLean, student assistant in the News Bureau, and Miss Yvonne Scruggs, ECHO editor in chief, are in charge of the student division with rank of "lieutenant colonel"

Complimented

Dr. Ray said the 1953 staff of solicitors have "Done a tremendous job in public relations in putting the UF campaign over the top. Considerable credit must also be given our faculty, staff, and student contributors who have demonstrated their mature awareness of our institution's civic responsibility in the UF campaign."

Omegas Sponsor Two Programs

Campus Omegas, the Tau Psi chapter, celebrated National Achievement Week with two programs—a forum on current problems and an award ceremony.

On November 5, the group presented four persons in a round table forum on current problems affecting the Negro. Speakers were Dr. Helen Edmonds, Mr. R. N. Harris, and Mr. Arthur Banks. Dr. Charles A. Ray was master of ceremonies. The group discussed "The Negro's Position in an Integrated America," "The Negro Press," and "The Sacrifices and Responsibilities of Securing Social, Economic and Political Equality."

The question and answer period that followed the discussions brought out numerous points of interest affecting the problems outlined in formal presentations by panel members.

In special ceremonies on Sunday, November 8, the group presented its Achievement Award to J. H. Wheeler, president of the Mechanics and Farmers Bank. Mr. Wheeler responded with an address from the subject "Opportunities and Responsibilities of Integrated Citizenship in Our Democracy."

Other activities of the year for Tau Psi chapter include its "Night in Harlem" social and the annual smoker for freshmen men, both given earlier in the year. The smoker was held at the Algonquin Club House

Trustees Name Durham Dentist

Dr. J. M. Hubbard, prominent Durham dentist, was reelected secretary of the integrated North Carolina College Trustee Board for the fifth time here last week.

Other officers named included R. M. Gantt, Durham lawyer, who was reelected chairman of the board; and Bascom Baynes, president of Home Security Life Insurance Company in Durham, who was named vice-chairman. Gantt has been ill for several months and the active leadership is expected to center in Baynes' hands.

Ernest B. Johnson, outstanding Winston-Salem businessman, was among five new trustees meeting with the group last Tuesday. Other new trustees include: C. A. Dandelake, Tarboro; T. W. Ellis, Jr., Henderson; State Senator Nelson Woodson, Banks Wilkins, Sanford; and Salisbury.

House And Senate Pass Bills Sponsored By NCC

FEPC Bill Pushed By A. & T. College

The 17th annual North Carolina State Student Legislative Assembly passed a "dynamite bill" last Friday, calling for the elimination of all unfair employment practices in the State of North Carolina. The bill was introduced in both the Senate and the House of Representatives by delegates from North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College.

An award made by the Interim Council to the school sponsoring the best prepared bill or resolution was received by the A. and T. delegation for this FEPC legislation as introduced and amended in the Senate. The bill was not amended in the House. The award consisted of a certificate commending the school for its preparation of the bill.

Two items of legislation presented by the delegation from North Carolina College were passed by the Senate and House of Representatives of the North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly at their 17th annual session in the State Capitol Building in Raleigh, November 19-21.

Richard Fuller from North Carolina State was elected President and Yvonne Scruggs, North Carolina College, was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Interim Council at the joint meeting of both Houses Saturday. The Interim Council is composed of two representatives from each participating school and is the governing body of NCCSLA. NCC's two Interim Council representatives are Beatrice Cogdell and Sherman Perry.

Two Bills

A bill "To Make All Counties in North Carolina Wet" introduced by Ernest Ward in the House and Thelma Melvin in the Senate was accepted without changes by both Houses. A Resolution to Guarantee Teachers Academic Freedom introduced by Samuel Chess was amended and passed in the Senate. This same resolution introduced by Sherman Perry in the House was passed by acclamation.

Officers for both bodies were elected by the first session of the Senate and the House. Wade Kornegay and Yvonne Scruggs, (Continued on Page 8)

'Victory Fever' Grips Campus

A holiday atmosphere pervaded the campus throughout the week as students made preparations to descend in droves upon Greensboro for the annual Turkey Day gridiron tangle with the Aggies of North Carolina A. and T. College. Cries of "On to A. and T." and "Down with the Aggies" were heard in pep rallies, and placards with similar slogans flooded the campus.

The climax comes today when busses and cars bearing hundreds of students, faculty members and Durhamites set out for Greensboro and the 20th renewal of the annual fall classic.

Victory Dance

Surrounding the main attraction is a series of dances and parties in Greensboro which will also be attended by visiting Durhamites. The leading social affair will be the ball on A. and T.'s campus Thursday night. However, numerous other dances and parties are expected to take place, including a "victory celebration." According to one NCC player, "This Victory celebration will definitely include us."

Student Government president Elliott B. Palmer predicted that the campus will look like a "ghost town" on Thursday after busses and cars have set out for Greensboro. And Dean of Men J. L. Stewart said Childley Hall will be virtually uninhabited. "Practically every man living here will be in Greensboro," he said.

NCC Favored

The same situation will obtain among the women, according to Dean Latham, who expects that "most of the girls will be at the game." "They have been making preparations for a long time," she said.

3 Colleges Form Bi-Race NAACP

In an effort to work more nearly in harmony with the organization's integration objectives, NAACP chapters at North Carolina College, Duke University and the University of North Carolina recently formed a consolidated NAACP chapter. Officers and members represent the three schools.

The consolidated group was congratulated on the merger and addressed recently by Mr. Herbert Wright, National Office Youth Secretary of the NAACP, in the B. N. Duke Auditorium. Mr. Wright pointed out that the NAACP is constantly endeavoring to give Negroes opportunities of employment in highly specialized areas such as International Law and urged the Negro students to prepare themselves to take advantage of these new opportunities.

Speaker

Mr. Wright also discussed some of the advantages offered by Youth Program of the NAACP, citing summer camp employment, industrial educational employment and scholarships.

Irmenia Davis of NCC is president of the new consolidated group. The vice-president is Bernice Whitehead, also of NCC, and the second vice-president is Jolee Fritz, a student at Duke. Other officers are Lorraine James, NCC secretary; Bernice Sawyer, NCC, assistant secretary; and Laquitta Hall, NCC, treasurer.
