Nevertheless the NCC aggregation is holding its gun "because we have the strongest claim," a spokesman said last week. "We know there's no such thing as a National Negro Championship, but each year that title goes to the team with the best record against top competition," he continued. "Neither Florida, Southern, nor Prairie View, teams whose only stiff competition is with each other, can boast a record equal to ours."

In a similar vein, Coach Riddick told the ECHO, "The record speaks for itself."

Christmas

Christmas. It is in this act of giving that the Christmas Spirit is fulfilled. We as adults feel compelled to give at this season. We give to our children, our family, our friends, to all who are or who seem to be in need. We conceive of giving as one of the basic actions of man. We teach it to our children and all those about us. The spirit of Christmas is the spirit of giving. Because of it, merchants are able to turn Christmas into wanting and having. The commercialized nature of Christmas depends upon Christmas' altruistic nature for its survival. The spirit of wanting and having is merely the turning of the spirit of giving inward toward the self, and not outward toward others. Without giving, there could be no wanting or having.

But why do we teach giving? Why does it so pervade us at Christmas? The answer is simple. The Christmas Spirit is the spirit of Christ and of God. Giving predominates because God gave to mankind his son, and because that Son, like the Father, gave his all to man. Man gives at Christmas because of the example of God and of Christ. And no matter how selfish, mean, or cruel we are, the Tiny Tim will out at Christmas in our response to the gift of God and Christ.

What, then, is the Christmas Spirit? It is the desire to want and to love, to feel ourselves apart of the human family, loved and cared for by family, friends, and even mother nature, to give of our best to bring happiness and joy to others. The Christmas Spirit is the Spirit of merriment and joy received through the satisfaction of our desires, by participating in a community of friends, by giving gifts to others. The Christmas Spirit is a response to the fact that God has blessed us, every one, in the gift of his Son, Christ Jesus Our Lord.

IT'S A FACT! College smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands—and by a wide margin—according to the latest, greatest coast-to-coast college survey. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Now for the Droodle above, titled: Inept smoke ring blown by ept smoker. He's ept, of course, because he smokes Luckies. Be ept yourself and enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.
