

Students Display Fellowships For Arts In Exhibit

The Art Department opened its sixth annual art exhibit on Sunday, May 15. Featured in the show were paintings, drawings, sculpture, ceramics, and designs by the students in the department.

Mr. Wilson, head of the Art Department, explained that "the department is guiding the student performers in the general area of contemporary abstraction with a strong attempt to indicate the 'geometric esthetic' of African primitive sculpture." This aim was defined in part by the nature of the student works on exhibit.

Exhibiting students were James Colt, Jack Johnson, Wilma Little, Judith Moore, Julia Booker, Ben Peterson, Carl Hawthorne, Earnest Barnes, Harvey Ramseur, Dollie Graham, Herman Aldridge, Willie McAllister, Bernard Fletcher, and Ellis Smith.

According to quantity, Carl Hawthorne, who has withdrawn from the College, Dollie Graham, Earnest Barnes were the chief exhibitors.

Dollie Graham presented several drawings, one of which was a self portrait. This drawing was accomplished with the use of a mirror. Miss Graham also exhibited paintings among which was an abstract representation of a table, a goat's skull, a flask, and a steering wheel.

Hawthorne, who was studying to be a designer, showed several paintings and drawings. He employed the use of color to achieve various effects.

Earnest Barnes exhibited several different styles of paintings. One painting was a representation of football players during a game on O'Kelly Field.

Another interesting painting by Barnes was a form he called "Apartheid." Within the frame were the colors Black, white, and red. This painting probably was representative of the Negro, the whites, and blood from the result of a clash of ideals.

The exhibit closed Wednesday. Another is planned for next year.

CYNTHIA McDONALD

Publisher Buys Coed's Stories

Lindell McLeod, a NCC coed, sold two stories to a national publishing company as a result of her efforts to write short stories in her spare time. The works were of the romantic magazine type and were sold to Good Publishing Company, of Fort Worth, Texas for a sum of $50.00.

Lindell, a freshman psychology major and sociology minor from Southern Pines, writes as a pastime. She stated that although she will not receive a by-line the company sent her a check to cover the stories to be published. The stories were actually done during the summer of 1959, she revealed to an Echo reporter.

Don't Patronize The Big Three

ECHO SWEETHEART

CYNTHIA EXCELS IN EVERYTHING

By Cynthia Jarman

Still water runs deep! This saying, however trite and overworked, has never been more true than when applied to Cynthia Ann McDonald, potential graduate, president of the Women's Student Government, and president of Alpha Kappa Mu, to name but a few of her positions on the NCC campus.

Looking backward over her record since her enrollment at NCC, it becomes rather hard to fit such a mildly fantastic record of achievement in with Cynthia's personality, which seems (if Cynthia will excuse this statement) anything but fantastic at first glance!

Cynthia McDonald is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd G. McDonald of Southern Pines, N. C. She entered the gates of North Carolina College at the age of 16 years in September of 1956. During her freshman year, she was elected to the House Council, joined the Thespians Club, the Campus Echo staff, the Intercollegiate Fellowship and the Ivy Leaf Club.

In her sophomore year Cynthia was elected president of the House-Council, representative of the Student Congress, and became a member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

Following this highly activated program, Cynthia joined three honor societies during her junior year, namely: Alpha Kappa Mu, Kappa Delta Sociological Society, and Pi Gamma Mu. Along with these she joined the NAACP, and served as Parliamentarian of the AKA sorority.

It is said that the senior year is a year of confusion, of indecision and all around chaos. If this is true, then it is nothing short of a miracle how this rising senior kept up with or upped the pace she had set during her senior year. She was voted senior-at-large, president of Alpha Kappa Mu, became a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, the ranking student in both of her major areas, English and sociology, and won the Hamilton Watch Award. She also contributed greatly to the calibre of the Campus Echo by serving as its Literary Editor. Because of her service, her charm and grace, she was chosen by the Campus Echo Staff to be the Sweetheart of the Campus Echo.

One fact that is not surprising is the variety in the list of extracurricular pastimes that Miss McDonald enjoys. Our Literary Editor likes to read novels and observe people. She engages in reflective thinking usually on the existing and changing social conditions. She takes an active part in dramatics and has played lead roles in many of the productions given by the Thespian Club. Like many coeds, Cynthia is a TV fiend. She likes movies but refrains from attending them because of the segregated policies.

When asked about her future plans, Cynthia says she would like to continue her studies in English and social work.

Cynthia, our pacific senior, has this "well worth taking" advice for her fellow classmates: "Don't spread yourself too thin. To the freshmen, choose the major with which you, and expressly you, will be happier. After making your choice, work diligently. Make up your mind without assistance from the masses."

Alphas Elect 1960-61 New Officers

The brothers of the Gamma Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity recently elected officers and a sweetheart for the next school term.

Carl E. High, newly elected vice-president of the Student Government, is the new president of the fraternity. Serving with him are: Edward Hall, vice president; Donald Cooper, recording secretary; Thomas Lee Cameron, corresponding secretary; Edward Johnson, treasurer; Aaron Knight, dean of pledges; Willard Chambers, co-dean of pledges; Chester Mallory, chaplain; James L. Bryant, historian; and David Burton, sergeant-at-arms.

Miss Lyons, next year's sweetheart, is a rising junior and a member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. The Greensboro mathematics major and French and general science minor says that her interests outside of classes are reading, sewing, and listening to music.
