

Greek Organizations Plan '60 And '61 Activities

Omega Psi Phi

The Tau Psi Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity Incorporated, has formulated its program for 1960-61.

Tau Psi plans to be on the go as never before in attempting to make its numerous civic and social projects successful. One such project of the fraternity will be the urging of registration and voting in the Durham Negro community. Another project of Tau Psi will be the lending of its avid financial and moral support to the United Fund Drive. Still another project will take place during the winter months as the North Carolina College Chapter of Omega Psi Phi will urge more citizens to join the NAACP.

Graduate brothers Aubrey Lowe, a graduate of North Carolina College attending Law School; Carlton Pettway, a graduate from Tennessee A&I attending law school; Garland Brown, a graduate of Shaw University studying for a Master's degree in history; and Clarence Ellis, a graduate of North Carolina College working in Duke's Biochemistry laboratories are contributing their ideas, experiences, and talents to Tau Psi. Also, Brother Lawrence Thompson, a junior who transferred from Fayetteville State, is giving Tau Psi extra impetus.

Although five of the seven Omegas who graduated last year did not return, Tau Psi is still twenty-four strong. The Omega men in Tau Psi Chapter are Robert Brown, Garland Brown, Antenor Adam, James Alston, Charles Gilchrist, Randolph Bunch, Harold Smith, Douglas Whitaker, Joseph Hoffer, Edgar Morris, Wilbur Hankins, Joseph Small, Lawrence Thompson, Carlton Pettway, Ellis Smith, William Crowder, Wendell Peery, Paul Wallace, Cephas Jackson, Clayton McCoy, Timothy McIntosh, Lacy Street-er, Clarence Ellis, and Aubrey Lowe.

The Lampodas Club is composed of Nathan Cook, William Evans, Nathaniel Morehead, Robert Parks, Joel Smith, Cleveland Strickland, and Alton Kirk.

Zeta News

The Gamma Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Incorporated entertained upperclass women with a predominantly Blue and White Fashion Revue on Sunday, October 9. Progressive Jazz was the musical background for the show in the recreation room of the Old Senior Dormitory. The Archonian Club, an organization of little sisters of the Zetas, and the sorors themselves modeled new fashions that brought applause from the audience.

The show was highlighted by a royal blue coat accented by white pearl buttons modeled by Soror Gloria Haynes. An exclusive line of hats modeled by Soror Geraldine Broadnax captured the attention of the audience. Outstanding among these was a cloche hat of genuine mink. The coeds present were the first to see the Archonian fall and winter outfit, royal blue skirt and sweater with white scarf, as modeled by Rosetta Jackson, an Archonian. Lillie Sauls, also an Archonian, modeled a royal blue bouffant cocktail dress with white accessories.

The mistress of ceremonies for the program was Soror Prestina Williamson.

Following the traditional sorority pep songs and the hymn, the guests were served refreshments.

The officers who will lead the group this year are: Edith Sutton, president; Geraldine Broadnax, vice-president and dean of pledges; Prestina Williamson, secretary; Joan Finney, financial secretary, and Gloria Haynes, treasurer.

Sigma In Full Operation

The Gamma Gamma Chapter of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Incorporated, the newest Greek fraternal organization of North Carolina College, announced its 1960-61 plans today.

With its ranks riddled by graduation, the remaining members swung into full-scale operation with the annual Sigma Smoker. This Smoker, held on October 14 in the Chidley Hall recreation room, was given in order to acquaint the potential Crescents with the program of Sigma. At the meeting approximately 25 men were furnished information, refreshments, and entertainment by the fraternity, and as a result of the meeting, ten of these men joined the Crescent Club of the fraternity. These men are Donnie D. Bellamy, Randolph Bullock, Thurman Chestnut, George T. Dunlap, James Johnson, John Magnus, Calvin Nelson, Clifford Outlaw, James E. Pointer, and John Stith.

Reactivated only last year by the initiation of charter members Willie Stewart, Robert Lofton, Bennie Wyatt, and Willie Hall, Sigma is shattering the ranks of tradition as it adopts a 1960-61 theme of "The Modern Fraternity."

According to Sigma President Ira Williams, under this new theme the fraternity will place less emphasis on "Hell Week," the rugged initiation period for all North Carolina College fraternal pledges. "Rather," stated Williams in an interview, "Sigma will concentrate on the whole person, and will attempt to develop its Crescents in all fields of endeavor." "Furthermore," Williams continued, "Sigma deems it necessary to effect this break with tradition because it believes that many of the 'Hell Week' rituals are relics of the barbaric Middle Ages which should have been abolished long ago." When pressed for more details Williams declined further comment.

Top office holders in the North Carolina College Chapter of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity are Ira Williams, president; Robert Lofton, vice-president; and Willie Hall, secretary-treasurer.

WHAT TO DO TILL THE PSYCHIATRIST COMES

Once upon a time at the University of Virginia there was a coed named, oddly enough, Virginia University who was handsome and kindly and intelligent and ingeniously constructed and majoring in psychology. Virginia went steady with a young man on campus named, oddly enough, Oddly Enough who was supple and fair and lithe and animated and majoring in phys ed.

Virginia and Oddly enjoyed a romance that was as idyllic as a summer day, as placid as a millpond. Never did they fight—never, never, never!—because Virginia, who was majoring in psychology, did not believe in fighting. "Fighting," she often said, "settles nothing. The scientific way is to look calmly for the cause of the friction."

So whenever she and Oddly were on the verge of a quarrel, she used to whip out a series of ink blot tests and they would discover the true underlying cause of their dispute and deal with it in an enlightened, dispassionate manner. Then, the irritant removed, their romance would resume its tranquil, serene, unruffled course.

After six months of this sedate liaison, Oddly was so bored he could spit. He loved Virginia well enough, but he also believed that people in love ought to fight now and then. "It opens the pores," he said. "And besides, it's so much fun making up afterwards."

But Virginia would not be provoked into a quarrel. One night Oddly tried very hard. "Hey," he said to her, "your nose looks like a banana, and your ears look like radar antenna, and your face looks like a pan of worms."

"My goodness, we're hostile tonight!" said Virginia cheerfully and whipped 120 Rorschach cards out of her reticule. "Come," she said, "let us examine your psychic apparatus."

Oddly tried again. "You're fat and dumb and disagreeable," he said, "and you'll be bald before you're thirty."

"Hmm," said Virginia thoughtfully and lit a cigarette. "This sounds like an anxiety neurosis with totemism, anagogic trauma, and a belt in the back."

"I hate you," said Oddly. "I hate your looks and your clothes and your toenails and your relatives and the cigarettes you smoke."

"Now, hold on, buster!" cried Virginia, her eyes crackling, her color mounting, her nostrils aflame. "Just keep a civil tongue in your stupid head when you talk about Marlboro! Nobody's knocking that filter, that flavor, that pack or flip-top box while there's breath in my body! It's a full-flavored smoke, it's a doozy, it's a dilly, it's a gas—and anybody who says a word against it gets this."

By "this" Virginia meant a series of combinations to the head and liver, which she now delivered to Oddly and turned on her heel and stormed away.

Oddly brought her down with a flying tackle. "I love you with all my heart," he said.

"And Marlboro?" said she.

"And Marlboro even more," said he.

And they kissed and plaited love knots in one another's hair and were married at Whitsuntide and smoked happily ever after.

© 1960 Max Shulman

You too can smoke happily—with Marlboro, or with Marlboro's unfiltered companion cigarette, Philip Morris—available in regular size or the sensational new king size Commander. Have a Commander—welcome aboard!

Cartoon Feature Added By Echo

By Harold Foster

As an added feature for its readers, the Campus Echo has named Little Man On Campus as a regular cartoon.

L.M.O.C. is popular on most college campuses in the Nation. It features a buck-tooth, rumple-haired, down-trodden little man who is flunking biology, continually late for classes, and appears to be headed for graduation by the process of osmosis. His name is "Worthal," his creator is cartoonist Dick Bibler. They both have an extraordinary sense of humor.

No one could look more desperate than this little man Worthal, as he flips his coin during the true and false examination or gets ground into the sidewalk during the 12:00 o'clock rush by the campus wheels. But he continually bobs up again, each time with a wicked gleam in his eyes to ogle the girls, poke fun at ancient Latin professors, college administrators, college athletes, or smooch with his girl, Freda, in the library archives between Robinson Crusoe and Patterns of Culture.

From his drawing board, Bibler uses a double-edged blade, cutting at both college students and faculty with Worthal, and his sadistic nemesis, Professor Snarf. There is something heroic about their undaunted struggle, something touching about Snarf's willingness to suffer to make others suffer.

In creating Worthal, Bibler says that he gets his ideas from "phone books, catalogs, and listening to what people do and say all the time." He felt that he himself had been a "little man on campus," labeling most of his college life as quite teeny-tiny.

With this issue of the Echo, we present for your humor, the hilarious-Little Man On Campus.

(see page 8)

DUKE POWER COMPANY

Electric Household Appliances

Steam and Dry - Irons - Hair Dryers

Mixers - Toasters - Coffee Makers

Waffle Irons - Griddles - Deep Fat Fryers

TELEPHONE 2-1151

Corner Mangum and Parrish Streets

Durham, North Carolina

4%

OUR CURRENT
DIVIDEND RATE

MUTUAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

PHONE 4953

112 W. Parrish Street

Durham, N. C.