

Volume XXIV - Number 4

Durham, North Carolina, December, 1964

Price 10c

TENNIS TECHNIQUES—Dr. J. A. Frederick, chairman of the Physical Education Department at Duke University, demonstrates the proper grip for a tennis racket during a special meeting of the Physical Education Majors Club at North Carolina College.

On the left are Audrey Bowden, senior of Charleston, South

On the left are Audrey Bowden, senior of Charleston, South Carolina, and Mrs. Lavonia Allison, assistant professor of physical education, and education, and Physical Education Majors Club advisor. Bob Johnson, senior of Charleston, South Carolina, is president of the PEM Club.

NCC-U. Of Wis. Exchange Planned

A new plan for inter-regional, of Wisconsin in Madison are the inter-cultural, and inter-racial participating northern schools. exchange of students and facul
In an interview after his return to Milwaukee, he commented that the three schools have well prepared faculty whose

background and experience

would benefit UWM or any other university. "The Exchange

Program, as presently constituted, puts the heavy emphasis upon providing opportunities for Negro faculty from the participating southern universities to come to Wisconsin. Dr. How-grams in progress at the southern institutions to assist high school students in their transition to the freshman year of college. "These programs, linked with similar UWM projects,

yield valuable gains for all con-

The plan would free sorely needed professors for advanced teaching of freshman and closer supervision of freshmen classes.

It would also provide intern

teaching opportunities for Wisconsin graduate students, he reciprocal inter-cultural exchange makes possible are an exciting potential of the program," commented Dr. Howard.

"The research possibilities a cerned," Howard said.

He also cited a variety of pro-

ard said.

exchange of students and faculty, is presently in the planning stages at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

Dr. Lawrence Howard, director of the Institute of Human Relations at UWM, recently completed a trip to two southern colleges and a southern university to study the possibility of a reciprocal exchange of faculty and students under a Carnegie sponsored Exchange Program. Each southern school has predominately Negro student bodies and liberally integrated faculties.

Participating schools are Texas Southern University, Houston, Texas; North Carolina A and T, Greensboro, North Carolina; and North Carolina College, Durham, North Carolina. UWM and the University

Omegas Hold Charity Dance

The Tau Psi Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity held a charity dance in the Women's Gymnasium, Saturday, November 14. In their continuing drive for community service, the Brothers of Tau Psi presented the charity dance for the benefit of the needy families in the North Carolina College Community.

The admission to the dance was one item of canned or packaged food. More than 500 Eagles attended the dance and brought a variety of food items. Vice Basileus Clark Scales said that they brought ". . .everything from apricots to 'zesta' crackers." Medium sized cans of peaches, beets, orange juice, tuna fish, potatoes, cranberry sauce, soups, string beans, spaghetti, corn spinach, and luncheon meats were among the foods collected.

The most numerous items were six dozen cans of pork and beans and four dozen packs of one-serving breakfast cereals.

VFW Auxiliary Sponsors Contest

In an effort to encourage youth of America and to stimulate their ideals into the meaning of patriotism and good citizenship, the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars announced recently a new annual Americanism Award competition open to high school and college students. A total of $2,000 in cash and three gold medals will go to three top national winners. Citations will be given to ten other participants.

Any student between the ages of 16 and 19 years who attends a private, parochial, public high school or college may enter the award contest.

Each entrant must fill out an application to be obtained through the local Auxiliary and submit in writing not more than 300 words on the subject, "In Education Rests the Future of America."

The recipient of an award will be selected on the basis of his or her keen sense of purpose and worthiness as an in-

(See Contest, Page 3)

NCC Teachers Publish Articles

Three North Carolina College teachers are authors of articles and reviews appearing in current scholarly journals.

Dr. Joseph S. Himes, professor of sociology, is author of an article "Some Cultural Deprivations of Young Negro Workers," appearing in the November issue of The Journal of Marriage and the Family—a special issue devoted to deprived families.

"Toxoplasmosis Tests in The Public Health Laboratory" by Dr. Nell Hirschberg, professor of biology, is included in the October issue of The Public Health Laboratory.

The November issue of the Business Education Forum carries an article, "Guidance in

(See Teachers, Page 3)

LADIES' CHOICES—John Taylor, a North Carolina College freshman from Weldon, North Carolina, appears to be allowing two coeds their choices of Christmas gifts, part of a collection on special display in the college's canteen.

The hopeful ladies are, left, Joyce Donaldson, a junior from Wilmington, North Carolina, and Jacqueline White, a senior from Sanford, North Carolina.

'KING LEAR' STAGED AT NCC—Some of the cast in the Thespians' production of Shakespeare's tragedy "King Lear" are shown during a dress rehearsal prior to the play December 3.

From left: Bruce Smith (Gloucester), John Litaker (Albany), Walter Brame (Corwall), Norma Sutton (Regan), Shade Green (Edgar), and Hilton Cobb (King Lear).

Miss Mary L. Bohanon, chairman of the NCC Department of Dramatic Art, directed the production.

History Society To Hold Initiation

Initiation into the North Carolina College Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the national History Honor Society, will be held Friday, 8:00 p.m., January 8, 1965, according to an announcement made recently by Caulbert L. Jones, faculty adviser to this organization. The initiation will be followed by a banquet, at which time a scholarly paper will be read.

Students, to be eligible, must have a junior or senior standing, a minimum of 12 semester hours in history, and at least a "B" a erage in history, plus a "B" in two-thirds of their other courses.

Interested students or faculty members should contact either Mr. Jones or Dr. Earlie E. Thorpe, Acting Chairman of the Department of History and Social Science.

35 Seniors In Student Teaching

Thirty-five North Carolina College seniors recently began a ten-week period of student teaching in 26 North Carolina elementary and secondary schools, a report by Dr. Walter M. Brown, the college's director of student teaching, reveals.

Scheduled to end this phase of their teacher preparation on January 22, the students are pursuing majors in seven academic areas, with the largest number (17) in business education. Other majors represented by the group are music (6), home economics (6), art (1), English (1), physical education (3), and French (1).

Students are assigned to the following schools: Merrick-Moore High, Durham: Evelyn B. Battle, home economics; Charles W. Cameron, English; Sue Jackson, business education; Donald Thomas, physical education; and Miriam T. Simmons, home economics.

Other Durham area assignments: Burnette D. Bell, business education, and Hormon L. Walker, business education, Hillside High Durham; Velma A. Ballard, music, Spaulding, Durham; Kathynel A. Blair, music, Pearson School, Durham; Clara P. Bowling, music, East End School, Durham; Barbara Lewis, music, Lyon Park and Walltown School, Durham; Brenda V. Williams, home economics, Little River School, Bahama; Wade Matthews, physical education, Shepard Junior High School, Durham; Linda C. Kennedy, home economics, and Carol A. Murdock, business education, Lincoln High School Chapel Hill; Regina Budd, business education, Mary Potter High School, Oxford; Kenneth Froneberger, physical education, and Tommie Ross, music, Whitted School Durham.

Other assignments: Lois J. Brown, art, and Clinton C. Wilson, music, Ligon High, Raleigh; Betty D. Dunn, business education, William Penn High Point; Mattie Sharpless, business education, Atkins High, Winston-Salem; Beverly A. Page, home economics, Central High, Hillsboro; Zulla M. Farrar, business education, Fuquay Spring Consolidated School, Fuquay Springs; Ethel F. Godette, business education, Darden High, Wilson; Faye L. Robinson, business education, and Mary A. Spivery, business education, B. T. Washington High, Reidsville.

Rose M. Kidd, business education, Ralph Bunche High, Weldondon; Mary S. Gore, business education, B. T. Washington High,, Wilmington; Valeria N. Haskins, business education,

(Please turn to page 3)

(出版学の記念の記念)

To The Students of North Carolina College

As 1964 fades into history, carrying with it, among other things, the memory of an inauguration, increased improvement toward our goal of quality education, passage of the Civil Rights Bill, increased education and employment opportunities, the 1964 "Eagle" and a fine Homecoming parade, and as we move into 1965 with its new opportunities Mrs. Massie, our sons, and Jet wish for all of you a Joyous Holiday Season. We hope that 1965 brings you many of the things you want and richly deserve.

Merry Christmas. Samuel P. Massie President

