

Karenga Views Negro Colleges

By John M. Brewer

North Carolina College students have reached a peak of what most people term "hopeless students." The hopeless student has been characterized in seven specific categories by nationalist Ron Karenga. In case you have not heard of this man, it will be interesting to note his past.

Ron Karenga is the founder of the Black Panther Party. Brother Karenga is an intellectual who was a teacher at San Francisco State College. Ron Karenga did extensive reading for 12 years and mastered such theories as Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto, Hegelian theory, and theories of countless black and white intellectuals of the past and present.

Karenga then turned his attention to not only to youth on the street, but youth in the classroom. Ron Karenga then taught all of the black brothers to enlighten themselves and get a book-reading education. "Negro Colleges," stated Karenga, "are geared to serve as the stepping stone to economic slavery."

Karenga also contends unless Negro colleges begin to identify with their own kind, the continuation of white oriented colleges will persist. Negro colleges must first strive to become Black Institutions. The purpose of a Black Institution is to create, spawn, and direct the black resources available from within. Debrainwashing must occur first and the emphasis on a black education must take precedence over the white power structure.

In addition, Negro teachers who are in fact "NEEGROWES" must scrape off the pseudo idea of professional faggots to baboon stereotype students. Moreover, "NEEGROWE" STUDENTS make it their business to conduct their learning experience at Negro colleges as a cow would conduct eating grass. Mr. Karenga further professed to the idea that all Negroes are potential blacks . . .

Ron Karenga explained the current myth called "humanity." Humanity is something that no one has ever seen but, the white power structure talks about it. The white power structure states that when they kill millions of black people throughout the world, it is in the faith of interest of humanity. Where is humanity? Does humanity exist as a community, town, nation, or tangible world?

In conclusion, Mr. Karenga commanded that institutions, such as our college, direct themselves down the road toward a black institution. This black institution does not exist today, but the effort must be exerted now toward a black institution! Hence forth, this white oriented college which is a lot worse than all Negro colleges, must first strive to debrainwash, then, and only then must we work toward a better and black oriented college.

MISS VETERAN, MISS MARY ANN WRIGHT

Veterans Elect Miss Veteran

Miss Mary Ann Wright, a senior from Henderson, N. C., has been chosen to reign as "Miss Veterans" for 1968-69. She is a recreation major. Miss Wright's hobbies include bowling, horseback riding, sewing and, believe it or not, auto racing.

A committee of five was appointed by the club to select a group of finalists to run for "Miss Veteran." The finalists were selected on the basis of character, personality, and beauty.

The finalists who were running with Miss Wright were Muriel Sharpe, Rosalyn Hagan, Mary Thomas, and Peggy Ann Watson.

The four runners-up were made honorary members of the club.

College professors know us as the fastest "niggers" on campus and do not talk to other blacks. They congratulate us for winning, but never for academic performance or merit.

On The Line

By Pinky

Deck the halls with balls of holly. Tra la la la la la la la. Yes, it's the blessed season of Christmas once again. Good will to men flourishes everywhere. Tra la la la la la la la. Teachers will be a little meaner as they check their texts and find that they have tarried too long and must now cram the remaining material. Tra la la la la la la la. There will be exams en masses and papers lying everywhere, but students will care a little less than usual. Tra la la la la la la la. Thanksgiving, whether it was good or bad socially, put school back in its proper perspective academically. Joy to the world. The dorm halls will resound with Christmas carols as well as "Soul," and by December 20 all will have incorporated the festive mood quite completely. 'Tis the season to be jolly!

Peace on earth. Good will among men. In Viet Nam, Thieu. Johnson, and Ho Chi Minh will representatively sit at the conference table. These three kings of Orient are, puffing on rubber cigars. In France, President de Gaulle, suffering his long range stinkship, has the world's worst monetary crisis under his Christmas tree. Rudolf the Red-Nose Reindeer had a very shiny nose. Czechoslovakia decided to experiment with a new more democratic Communism only to find one morning that the Russian army had come upon a midnight clear.

In the U.S., Silent Night, Holy Night, all is calm-between long hot summers of racial turmoil. Let us not forget that this was an election year. Angels we have heard on high. There was even a modern day Scrooge as President Johnson, visited by the Christmas spirit of the past, the present and the future, declined to run for re-election. For 11 months, the country heard Wallace chant, oh come all ye faithful as he entertained dreams of a White Christmas. Then too, you'd better not shout, you'd better not cry, you'd better not pout, I'm telling you why—Tricky Dick needs only be President for four years.

Parents will be humming "I'm getting nothing for Christmas" since the year gave birth to a 10% surcharge tax with inflation getting quite out of hand as the dollar buys less and less. Last but not least, there was our own Little Town of Bethlehem in the form of Resurrection City.

It didn't take long, however, for an unsympathetic populace and Congress to misconstrue its beautiful and symbolic representation with petty cries of maladministration.

So smile a warm Christmas smile. Fill your heart and your egg nog with Christmas spirit. Exist in a state of suspension thinking neither of the bad of the past or the goodies the next year has yet to bring. Tra la la la la la la la. Enjoy it while it lasts for it will last but so long, and as Tiny Tim says, "Merry Christmas, and God Bless us all, everyone!"

Veterans Club Formed At NCC

A newly formed organization, The Veterans Club adds its charter to the collection of the old established organizations on the North Carolina College campus.

Since Ex-G. I.'s are beginning to make up a significant part of the NCC student body, the Ex-G. I.'s have gotten together and formed the club. The club membership consists of veterans currently enrolled at NCC.

The Veterans Club was officially organized as a bona fide organization on September 27, 1968. After the constitution of the club was written and presented to and approved by the Dean of Students, the club held its first official meeting to elect officers and to discuss other new business.

Forensics Squad Set Up At NCC

By GLADYS RICHARDSON

There is a new organization on campus this year to which little or no attention has been given by the NCC faculty or student body. The name of the organization is the North Carolina College Forensics Squad. The purpose of the organization is to promote understanding of national topics, oratory, interpretive reading, extemporaneous and impromptu speaking.

The Forensics Squad, sometimes referred to as the debate team, was formed by Mrs. Karen Godwin, one of the new speech and tutorial instructors. Mrs. Godwin debated or four years during her undergraduate work at Pacific University in Oregon and coached debate during her graduate studies at the University of New Mexico.

According to Mrs. Godwin, the squad has 17 members, ten of them active. The officers are Ida R. Page, president; Harvey White, vice president; Gladys Richardson, secretary-treasurer; and David Turrentine, assistant tournament coach.

Members of the squad have attended two tournaments this year. The squad won three out of twelve rounds at Wake Forest University and two out of twelve at the University of South Carolina.

The national topic on which the debate is based this year is: Resolved that executive control of United States foreign policy should be significantly curtailed. Mrs. Godwin states that the students put in about ten hours of work in doing research on the topic. "It gives the students a chance to understand policy making, international law, economics and the powers of the president." She added, "Every year there's a different kind of topic. It gives debaters a chance to be well versed in foreign policy this year; next year, maybe public works or welfare."

Mrs. Godwin has high hopes for the Forensics Squad. "There are potential thinkers on campus. I hope to develop a good team and maybe we can make the national championship tournament at West Point."

The next debate tournament for the NCC Forensics Squad will be at the University of Georgia, January 9-11. Meanwhile the squad will be participating in public debates on various topics with Duke University. The public debates will be given in high schools in the region and civic organizations.
