

English Majors and Minors

Mandatory exam program for sophomores begun

To assure that you have sufficient command of writing and reading skills to continue profitably in English, a test on grammar and literature will be offered in April. If you are a sophomore and have not received a grade of C or above in the sections of English 1100 or 1200 (English Composition) designated for English Majors and Minors, you are asked to take the grammar and composition test at 10:00 A.M.-12:30 P.M. on Saturday, April 4, 1981 in Room 302 of the Farrison-Newton Building.

If you are a sophomore and have not received a grade of C or above in the sections of English 1300 and 1400 (Introduction to Literature) designated for English Majors and Minors, you are asked to take the literature test at 10:00 A.M.-12:00 Noon on Saturday April 11, 1981 in Room 302 of the Farrison-Newton Building.

Comprehensive study for the tests should not be necessary. A list of the categories to guide your review for the grammar and composition test and a list of considerations to assist you in preparing for the literature test may be picked up at the English Office (Room 307 of the Farrison-Newton Building) beginning on Wednesday, February 25, 1981.

For further information, please see Dr. Arthrell Sanders or Mr. Tom Evans regarding the grammar-composition test and Dr. Muriel Mellown, Mrs. Thomasenia Shaw or Dr. Jean Scales concerning the literature test.

The scholarships are part of the Aid to Education program of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company Foundation of Akron, Ohio, and are awarded to students in the accounting and chemistry departments on the recommendations of the department chairmen. The scholarships are based on need and academic performance.

Announcements

Black awareness program tonight

By Donna Marie Lee

At 7:00 p.m. tonight, the Academic Skills Center will present a black awareness program in the Student Union. The theme of the event will be the Black Experience in America: trials and tribulations of a people.

Ms. Joyce Blackwell-Little, a history instructor in the center, is serving as chairperson for the program. Students at Central and members of the Durham community will also contribute their services.

The program will include narrative and poetic readings, dramatic interpretations and skits depicting the life of black people from 1619 to 1970.

Frank Poinsetta, a native of Durham, will be guest soloist for the program along with Richard Massey and Group, presenting spiritual selections depicting black religion through these years.

All English majors and minors are asked to attend a meeting in the Lounge, third floor of the Farrison-Newton Communications Building, on Tuesday, March 3, 1981 at 10:40 A.M.

The topic of discussion at the meeting will be the grammar and composition examination of April 4, 1981 and the literature examination of April 11, 1981. The recently announced tests are designed to assist English majors and minors in assessing whether they have sufficient command of writing and reading skills to continue profitably in English. Those who are to take the grammar and composition examination are those who have not received a grade of C or above in the sections of English 1100 and 1200 designated for English majors and minors. Those who are to take the literature examination are those who have not received a grade of C or above in the sections of English 1300 or 1400 designated for English majors and minors. This group includes all those who have taken these courses in non-majors sections, regardless of grade.

An open letter to the bomber.
I know you got the idea from watching Danger UXB on "Masterpiece Theatre" but you missed the point. In order for the brave men of the bomb disposal squad to go to work there needs to be a bomb, preferably no puny home-made job either, but a five hundred pounder at least, with tricky fuses and the danger of the blitz for background. Bombs are no cheap thrill and they are certainly misused for pretty revenge. For revenge, a letter would do much better, or an angry look. And if it is pranks you want, jion a frat. I hear they have plenty-of them.

Tammie,
Congratulations! How does it feel to be a TV star.

Karen,
I still love you very much. Will come visit me during your spring break, because I really want to introduce you to all my friends. I can hardly wait to see you.
