

This Issue

Students speak out on Apartheid, Interviews with the SGA President, and Miss NCCU

Also Music reviews, faculty profiles, and more ....

THE CAMPUS ECHO

Number Two

Wednesday Oct. 23, 1985

Though deadline near

Consent Decree provisions to be continued after 1986

By Quentin Sinclair

The consent decree, aimed at desegregating the UNC system, will end on Dec. 31, 1986.

Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs, Cecil L. Patterson said its provisions will continue to be observed. Among them, a university cannot offer tenure to anyone without a Ph.D or terminal degree. NCCU has to maintain a 15 non-black student enrollment. $400 million was granted to UNC system to improve college facilities. This funding has resulted in the new law building and the new gym.

After 1986 the Eastern district court will keep the UNC system under scrutiny until 1988, after which, the accomplishments of the consent decree will be maintained.

Multi—million athletic facility near completion

By Kimberly Y. Horne

The new multi-purpose, physical and recreational facility at N.C. Central University is almost complete. "Three of the four sections are open and the fourth section is scheduled to open within the next few months," said Dr. Carey Hughley, chairman of the physical education/recreation department.

Section A consists of a gymnastics gymnasium and eight handball/racquetball courts. At the present time, anybody can use the courts, but there will be a user fee for the faculty in the future, according to Hughley.

Section B is divided into two levels. The first level houses the instructional recreational gymnasium, which consists of basketball, badminton, volleyball, and indoor tennis. The second level houses a dance studio, indoor archery, a golf range, an adapted physical education lab, an exercise physiology lab, a weight room, and a 200-seat lecture auditorium.

Section C consists of three levels. The first level houses locker rooms and storage space. The second level houses faculty offices, seminar rooms, a faculty lounge, a conference room, and a slimnastics/weight control classroom. The third level houses a student lounge, seven classrooms, and a reading room.

Section D consists of a 50-meter pool, which will be divided into three separate teaching stations. "Section D will hopefully be completed within the next few months," said Hughley.

Hughley noted that Section B's gymnasium only has a seating capacity of 1500, because it is "designed for instructional purposes."

HOMEcomings: The sizzling and sexy Warner Bros. recording artist—Chaka Khan will appear in the McDougal Gymnasium, Nov 2.

Chancellor, vice chancellors get complimentary car stickers

By Crystal D. Frazier

Students pay $35 for parking stickers. Faculty members pay $50 for parking stickers. But how much do the chancellor and four vice chancellors pay for parking stickers?

$0.

Dr. Tyrone Baines implemented this complimentary act when he became vice chancellor for University Relations three years ago at N.C. Central University. He explained, "People should be proud to honor their leaders; we do not do this enough and besides it's nice to honor leaders."

Many things that "came along with the job" were given to Baines in his other places of employment, he noted. "This is one way for the university to show its appreciation for the chancellor's and the vice chancellors' services; it's a small token," said Baines.

Baines explained that there was no intent to single himself out. If he had, he could then see reason for "folks to wonder. It was not meant to be secretive," Baines commented.

Baines feels that he deserves this complimentary gift. After all, he comes in early and leaves later than others, he said.

Tyrone Baines

Dr. James E. Shepard stands in proud awe of the history that has come from this great university which can be reviewed in a special supplement by Dr. Earl E. Thorpe inside this issue.