

SAMPSON, from page 3

the general welfare of the State."

There were constant inquiries from local people on the availability of law courses during evening hours. In 1967, Dean Sampson conducted a survey to determine the need for offering evening courses. Though the Evening Program was not established until much later, this interest was the precursor to that program.

In 1968, on behalf of the Student Bar Association, Dean Sampson petitioned the Executive Committee to change the degree offered from the LL.B. to the J.D. After a series of meetings and working out the procedures for handling the granting of two degrees, the proposal was accepted.

In 1969, Dean Sampson was appointed Legal Assistant to Dr. AN. Whiting, the fourth President of North Carolina College. He was responsible for offering legal advice with respect to the many student demonstrations that were raging across the campus. He represented the Chancellor when students sued the Chancellor for withholding funds for the printing of the Student newspaper. In addition to representing the administration, he offered legal advice without charge to students, faculty, and staff, who requested such assistance.

Dean Sampson's service to the institution in the form of committee assignments is extensive as might be expected of one who has served his institution for three and one-half decades. Among those on which he served for years are: the Student Welfare Committee, Program Committee, Public Relations Committee, the Standards Committee, and the University Parking and Regulations Committee. He also served as Chairman of the Law Dean Search committee in 1980 and was a member of the 1985 Law Dean's Search Committee.

Although Dean Sampson retired from the Law School in 1984, he has maintained his association with the School by serving as adjunct professor since his retirement. He teaches courses in Debtor/Creditor Law and Advanced Torts.

Though Dean Sampson has devoted the majority of his professional life to North Carolina Central University, he has not limited his service to education alone. During the sixties, he worked hard and long researching legal problems as they related to the Civil Rights Movement for the National as well as Local offices. Two well-known cases that he provided the legal research for were The Royal Ice Cream Case (State vs. Clyburn) involving Reverend Douglas E. Moore and five Durham College students who were arrested for trespassing when they sat in the white section of the Royal Ice Cream Company, and State vs. Avent where students from North Carolina College were arrested for civil trespassing at Kress & Company. though Dean Sampson has not "practiced" law in the sense of constant trial practice, he has maintained active membership in the North Carolina Bar Association and has kept financial in his pledges.

Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk

TOP TEN MOST CLUELESS PEOPLE ON EARTH

10. Rainforest chainsaw operator.
9. Millionaires in prison.
8. Drivers with turn signal perpetually on.
7. Las Vegas lounge acts.
6. Unregistered voters.
5. Frozen dinner enthusiasts.
4. Javelin catcher.
3. Someone in express checkout line with eleven items.
2. Chain-smoking gas station attendant.
1. Drug users.

PARTNERSHIP FOR A DRUG-FREE AMERICA

Ad Code DEPN-3012
 Partnership For A Drug-Free America
 Top 10 Most Clueless
 Newspapers—1/4 PG B/W—65 SC
 Prepared by Geer, DuBois Inc., New York

EX Umbra

I Got something to say!!

NCCU students show alumni, faculty, staff and each other your united interest in the liberal arts. Ex Umbra is your student publication, your chance to address the issues of today through your artistic virtuosity and lyrical prowess to an audience greater than 7,000 strong.

So take advantage of this rare opportunity to become a published author, poet, photographer or artist.

For more information
 call John Riddick at 560-6504 or drop it off at the Campus Echo Office (rm. 319) in the Communications Bldg.
 All entries must be in by March 26th

Copies of the Fall 1992 Edition are available at:
 Communications building lobby
 A. Elder Student Union
 all 7 dormitories
 Campus Echo Office
 Law School
 Criminal Justice Building

So get your copy NOW!!!

Cocaine. The Decline of Civilization