

This 'n' That

had an exciting trip to New York City July Fourth weekend.

Others who enjoyed vacations were Mrs. Mary Davis, Mrs. Alice Spruell, Mrs. Ethel Odum, Mrs. Pearlly Lyon, Mrs. Pauline Corbin, and John Adams.

Medical Record Library

Lena Mae Burroughs (on the admission unit) and Marshall Ellis walked down orange blossom aisle Friday evening, July 22 at 7:30 o'clock.

Eddie Lou Horton Tilley, IBM operator, welcomed a daughter, Joanne Fay, on May 16, and Ann Winters Rich, secretary to the department, became the proud parent of a boy, Richard Wyn, on June 16.

Margaret Christian, former Assistant Record Librarian, has accepted a position as Chief Librarian at Lynchburg General Hospital in Lynchburg, Va. Patricia Trotter has returned to Duke Hospital as secretary to Dr. Deryl Hart, Chief of Surgery. Both Margaret and Trish were graduates of the Medical Record Science class, October 1954.

Elizabeth Corcoran, a graduate of the medical record library course in 1953, will replace Mrs. Christian.

Miss Harned entertained at her home on Tuesday, July 12 in honor of the students and at that time Ann Jacob was presented her certificate for completion of the course in the Medical Record Library Science. Miss Jacobs plans to accept a position in Huntington, West Va.—Je Harned.

Dean's Office

Judy Vann of the Dean's office, spent her vacation with her family in Abingdon, Virginia and looked forward to a week of cool mountain air, combined with plenty of swimming and water skiing.

Mrs. Beverly Bearden Thrasher, Mrs. Swett's former secretary, who now lives in Norfolk, Va., remembered many of her friends here this week with lovely gladioluses from her husband's nurseries, Greenbrier Farms. The "glads" were much appreciated and enjoyed by all.—Mrs. Helen M. Thomas.

Anesthesiology

Dr. Albert Warshauer, who was a chief of Section in Anesthesiology at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, has accepted the position of Assistant Professor here at Duke and Dr. Sara J. Dent, who completed her residency in Anesthesiology here on June 30th, has joined the staff also.

Two of our Residents are no longer with us; Dr. R. H. Cole has returned to his home in Canada and Dr. Hans Leen has gone to Cleveland, Ohio for further study.

Miss Emma Balazs, Virginia Crandall and Marjorie Nellis completed the course in Anesthesia for Nurses on July 31st.

The three new Residents to join our house staff on July 1st are Dr. George W. Farris from Chattanooga, Tennessee, Dr. Annabelle T. Craddock of Burlington, North Carolina and Dr. Koji Takeshima from Hiroshima, Japan.—Inez F. Champion.

I Remember When

ings maybe five or ten years apart tend to run together.

Who can forget the round-the-clock sessions in the old intern's lounge when the family was small enough so that almost all the House Staff and even occasional upper staff could be found there between calls. . . . We played everything, but nothing ever quite equalled the zest with which Watt Eagle and Oscar Hansen led us through sessions of spank-tail-hearts.

It is too bad that most of the stories told of the old intern's quarters or its successor at Cary Crutchfield's can't be printed here, but many legends have grown up around such characters as Peck Freeman, Jim Wilson, "Cold-Dope" Parrish, Roland Bellows, "Pop" Joyner and many others too numerous to mention. . . . Remember Dr. Davison's comment to the shocked campus policeman who telephoned the Dean at home to report finding a bottle, of all things, in an intern's room?

No mention of the lighter side of the development of the Hospital and Medical School is complete without mentioning another institution which has continued throughout almost the same span of years and has contributed so many pleasant hours to so many of us. Josh Turnage, a legend in himself, rightly considered himself almost a part of our organization. He catered faithfully to our taste for pig and trimmings until his death and his nephew Jimmy Warren continues in his footsteps. . . . No small addition to our enjoyment at Turnages for many years was the singing of our group of orderlies known as "The Four Internes." They set a standard for close harmonizing which continues to be a tradition among graduates of our Administrative Program wherever they meet together; even today.

Remember some of the big parties and dances? Particularly the P.D.C. ones before the family became so large we couldn't have them anymore . . . and the super-colossal one we had to send off the 65th for their long "vegetating" period—at Fort Bragg. Those were the days, all right, but it is doubtful whether we could live through them again, or not.

Yes, the first quarter century has been fun and we all have memories of big things and little things which belong to us alone. The good part is; that this is only the beginning. We continue to share with a constantly renewing group the same ideals and purposes and a new set of experiences which will look as good to us after a second quarter century as the first ones do now.

From the Auxiliary

sons who do volunteer work in these United States.

Auxiliary members will miss seeing Lizzie, our faithful maid during the month of August. Lizzie went into Duke for surgery on Wednesday, July 27—our best wishes.

Looking toward the fall, the National Convention of Hospital Auxiliaries will be held at Atlantic City, N. J., September 19-22. Our delegates will be Mrs. Julian Ruffin and Mrs. Sam Harper. Have a good vacation.
