

DR. KENNETH E. PENROD, professor of physiology and assistant dean of the Duke University Medical School, has been chosen to head the staff of West Virginia University's new Medical Center in Morgantown. His appointment as coordinator of Medical Center affairs at West Virginia becomes effective July 1. Dr. Penrod has been a member of the Duke medical faculty since 1950.

Crenshaw and Sykes Appointed

Roy N. Crenshaw has been named business manager of the surgical division of Duke Hospital's Private Diagnostic Clinic. He succeeds Mr. Edward S. Raper, who died suddenly in October. Prior to his new appointment, Mr. Crenshaw had served as assistant business manager of Surgical P.D.C. for 13 years. Born in Elberton, Georgia, and reared in Monroe, North Carolina, Mr. Crenshaw attended North Carolina State College. He is married and has two children.

Lewis W. Sykes, a Duke Hospital staff member since June 1957, has been named assistant business manager, to fill the post left vacant by Mr. Crenshaw.

Dr. Osterhout Named Markle Scholar

Dr. Suydam Osterhout has been named a Markle Scholar in Medical Science and will receive a grant of $30,000 to support his research activities over a five-year period. Dr. Osterhout joined the Duke medical faculty in 1953. For the past three years he has been a graduate fellow in virology and infectious diseases at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in New York. He will return to Duke next July as an associate in medicine and instructor in microbiology.

The Markle Scholarships were established in 1948 by the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation to "strengthen medical education by offering academic security and financial help to teachers and investigators in medical schools early in their careers." Dr. Osterhout is the tenth Duke Medical Center doctor to receive a Markle Scholarship. Other recipients, listed with their present positions, have been: Dr. Ivan Brown, Associate Professor of Surgery; Dr. William Anlyan, Assistant Professor of Surgery; Dr. William Lynn, Associate Professor of Medicine; Dr. Wayland Hull, Assistant Professor of Physiology; Dr. William De Maria,

(Continued on page 8)

Dr. Suydam Osterhout

DR. GEORGE MARGOLIS, Duke University Medical Center pathologist, will join the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond as professor and chairman of the pathology department, effective July 1. Dr. Margolis has been a member of the Duke faculty for 12 years and a full professor since 1955.

Hospital-Press Guide Prepared

A new step in the direction of better hospital-press relations has been taken at Duke University with the preparation of a booklet entitled "Doctors and Reporters." The seven page guide is designed primarily to assist admitting officers and other Duke Medical Center personnel who may be asked to provide information for news media. Prepared by the Duke University Bureau of Public Information in cooperation with the Duke University Medical Center, the booklet is based upon precedents that have proved successful at Duke and elsewhere. The booklet has been distributed to local-area newspapers and radio and TV stations as well as to key personnel throughout the Duke Medical Center.