

Dr. Haywood M. Taylor

Dr. Haywood M. Taylor, professor of toxicology and associate professor of biochemistry, died on October 21 in Duke Hospital. A native North Carolinian, Dr. Taylor was born in Edgecombe County, near Tarboro. He attended Pennsylvania State University and the University of North Carolina where he received the Ph.D. in chemistry in 1924. He taught at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine until he became part of the original staff of Duke Medical Center when it opened in 1930.

Auxiliary Members, Attention!

An effort is being made by the Membership Committee to bring up to date the permanent record on active and inactive members. Some records have been misplaced during the last ten years, and the information is, therefore, incomplete. Please look in the permanent record books in the Auxiliary office and fill in, wherever possible, the hours missing from your chart.

What People Are Saying:

From a Durham resident, "I spent some time in your well organized and most efficient Intensive Nursing Unit where I was also greatly impressed by the wonderful and efficient service by all.

"The Ambulatory patients' Dining Room is also another fine accessory that you have to offer and I believe it must mean a great deal to others as it did to me."

An Asheville pastor wrote us, "I know that in your endeavors to serve

there will be occasions when it is impossible to please everyone, but our stay there was not that way. We were highly pleased with the ability and spirit with which everyone did his work."

From a Florida doctor, "As a doctor, I was especially interested in seeing how a diagnostic clinic worked. You people have a wonderful organization to back your excellent doctors."

This 'n' That

New Arrivals

A son was born in October to Sarah Jane Watson (Dr. Leo Pine's former technician) and Jimmie Watson (third year student).

Dr. and Mrs. David Trachtenberg, Psychiatry, a daughter in November.

Dr. Peete's (Surgery) former secretary, Frances Walker, a girl on October 29.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerard Gingras, Psychiatry, a son in October.

The Department of Surgery had a busy two months with a baby girl, Liza Ann born to Dr. and Mrs. Phil Pearce; a girl, Jackie, to Dr. and Mrs. William Houck; and a son, Stuart, to Dr. and Mrs. Elliott Schiffman.

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Hall, a girl, Sandra Lee.

Wedding Bells

Doris Mooney, Department of Psychiatry OPC administrative clerk was married on Thanksgiving Day to Clinton D. Boteler of Washington, D. C.

It will be wedding bells soon for Miss Gladys Smith of the Surgical PDC who became engaged on October 14 to Wallace Shults of Durham.

New Faces and Old

Medicine

Clarence Boone is Dr. Leo Pine's new technician.

Surgery and Surgical PDC

Mrs. Nancy Love is the new SPDC receptionist. Her husband Neil is a senior medical student.

Miss Myrtle Ruth Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Roberts of 2708 Farthing St. is Dr. W. L. Thomas' new secretary.

Dr. Harol Lefkoff will be on the visiting staff in Otolaryngology until July when Dr. William R. Hudson will join the staff.

Mrs. Jennie Paschall is a new part time secretary to Drs. Sealy and Young.

Miss Barbara Williams, from Salt Lake City, is the new ENT Clinic secretary.

Janet Ketner is Dr. Lawton Smith's new secretary. She is from Concord and formerly taught school in Winston-Salem.

Dr. Henry Callaway has finished his training and has gone to Maryville, Tenn., to join his uncle in private practice.

Psychiatry

The Psychiatry department's new secretary is Mrs. Barbara Perryman.