

Honor and Affection Mark Davison Tribute

Set aside by the Medical Center and the University to pay tribute to Dr. W. C. Davison, the schedule of events October 4-8 was marked by a blending of honor and affection.

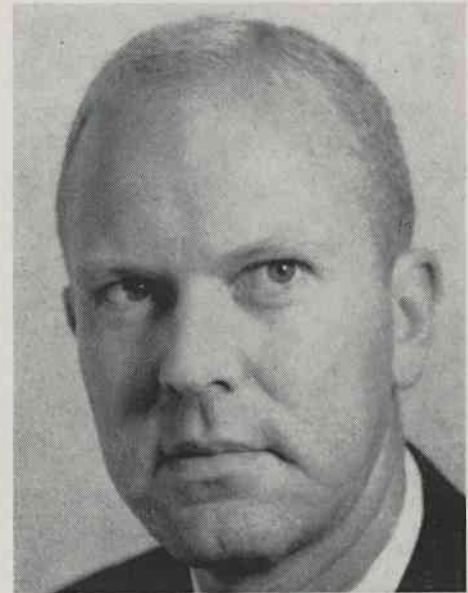

The central theme of the celebration was the symposium on The Commonwealth of Children. The symposium program, arranged by Dr. Jerome Harris, included excellent speakers from a number of disciplines and from various parts of the world. It was designed for a lay as well as professional audience, and underlined Dr. Davison's lifelong concern for the welfare of children everywhere.

The extra-curricular highlight of the weekend was a dinner in the Indoor Stadium attended by 974 guests. Amid affectionate testimony to his work and influence in many areas, Dr. Davison was presented with gifts: from alumni and friends, a Duke blue

Lincoln Continental, a check for $7,000 to be used in the Medical School as Dr. Davison wishes, and a scroll of the donors' names; and from the medical students, $500 to establish a Davison Scholar program to allow one medical student a year to spend a quarter in a foreign medical school.

At a University convocation Dr. Davison received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. At this convocation President Hart announced that by unanimous vote of the University Board of Trustees the medical school building will be named the Davison Building.

The symposium concluded with Sunday morning Chapel service. Dr. James Cleland delivered the sermon on "Spiritual Aspects of the Commonwealth of Children."

Coordinator of Rehabilitation

DR. ROBERT A. GREGG has joined the Duke University Medical Center faculty as coordinator of rehabilitation with the academic rank of associate professor of physical medicine. Dr. Gregg will head the teaching program supported by the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Dr. James H. Semans, chairman of the Duke Medical Center's rehabilitation committee, said that Dr. Gregg will be responsible for coordinating and implementing the teaching of rehabilitation to medical students and will act as consultant to the various departments of the Medical Center.

Before joining the Duke faculty, Dr. Gregg served some two years as medical director of the Central Carolina Rehabilitation Hospital in Greensboro. He fills a position left vacant at Duke since the resignation of Dr. William D. deGravelles in 1958.

This 'n' That

New Arrivals

Dr. Elizabeth Hart King, Assistant Resident in Otolaryngology, a son, Deryl Hart King, October 28.

Betty Williamson, Medical PDC, a son Lee, August 17.

Introducing Your Reporters

If you like to read the department news in InterCom, get in touch with your reporter and pass on the "tips!"

Department of Medicine
Medical PDC Lab
SPDC

Department of Pediatrics
Physical Therapy and
Occupational Therapy

Department of Surgery
Nursing Department

Department of Anesthesia
Department of Physiology and Pharmacology

Department of Pathology
Department of Anatomy
Hospital Business Office

Medical Record Library
Housekeeping Department
Hospital Laundry
X-ray

Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology
Department of Bacteriology
Dietetics

Department of Psychiatry
Medical PDC

Hospital Personnel Department
Multilith Department and Hospital
Post Office

Storeroom
Out-Patient Dispensary
Clinical Research Unit
Office of the Dean

Mrs. Bess Cebe
Mrs. Ann Yergan
Miss Nelle O'Briant
Mrs. Margaret Hazard
Mrs. Constance W. Teake

Miss Lucy Harms
Miss Lelia Clark
Mrs. Judy Simpson

Mrs. Betty Farmer
Mrs. Gene Winders
Mrs. May King
Miss Nina Waite
Mrs. Je Bufkin and staff
Mrs. Martha Scoggins
Mr. E. T. Parrish
Mrs. Barbara DeBank
Mrs. Josephine H. Thompson
Mrs. Cotty S. Kale
Miss Esther Ratliff
Mrs. Ann Rimmer
Miss Madge Blackley
Mrs. Marie Jourdan
Mr. N. Flinton Carden, Jr.

Mr. Warren E. Wagner
Mr. Ralph Drake
Mrs. Jacqueline McKeighan
Mrs. Helen Thomas