

This 'n' That has become Registrar in the Surgical Clinic, replacing Lillie Bryant who transferred to Radiation Therapy.

Nursing Service

We welcome three nurses who come to us through the Exchange Visitor Program for professional nurses, sponsored by the International Council of Nurses. Miss Valmai Hardy, Sister Tutor from Adelaide, Australia, will work in medical nursing; Miss Valda Morrison, Melbourne, Australia, in pediatrics; Miss Elaine Keith, Daglish, Australia, in the operating room. Miss Else Kjaergaard, Copenhagen, Denmark, who came July 1, 1961 in surgical nursing will remain until this coming July and then tour the U. S. for a month before returning home.

Physical Therapy

Carol Bankson, Pittsburgh, Pa., will serve as visiting lecturer during the month of May. Her subject: "Facilitation Techniques."

Carolyn and Buzzie Gibbs move to Washington, D. C., in April. We shall miss them.

Duke Hospital Durham, N. C.

The department marked North Carolina Physical Therapy week with two television programs and an invitation to all interested persons to observe the department at first hand.

Psychiatry

Martie Barnes has moved to Mocksville, N. C., where her husband, Fred, has accepted the position as pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Carolyn Roberts and Mrs. Sally Kolde have joined the departmental secretarial staff.

In the EEG lab technicians Lou Knott and Linda Rogers have resigned to be married. New technicians are Mrs. Lynne Erwin, Mrs. Frederica Amstey and Mrs. Mary Jane Wells.

Dietetics

Patricia Jennings, wife of Ralph Jennings, administrative assistant, joined the staff February 1. A native of Lansing, Michigan, and graduate of Michigan State, she completed her dietetic internship at Duke in 1955.

Mrs. Richard Riggins, for more than three years dietitian in the Nutrition Clinic, has moved to Williamson, West Virginia. Her husband is a graduate of Duke Medical School, and had his internship and residency here. Son John was born here January 19.

Judith Nittka, who completed her dietetic internship here last September, has accepted a temporary position in the Nutrition Clinic.

Anatomy

Recently received: two 18-page letters from Dr. Fred Becker and family. They are spending a two-year leave of absence in Thailand where Dr. Becker is serving as advisor to the new department of anatomy at the Medical School and Chieng Mai Hospital in northern Thailand.

Dr. John Everett heads for Milano, Italy, and the International Congress on Hormonal Steroids in May.

Here from London, as visiting investigator in Dr. Montrose Moses' lab, is Dr. Dennis Lacy, head of the Department of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy at St. Bartholomew's Medical College, University of London.

Orthopaedic resident fellow in Anatomy for the next six months is Dr. Olgard Dabbert.

Congratulations to Dr. Andrew Gabor who recently passed the final examination for his Ph.D. degree in anatomy.
