PROFESSIONAL NEWS

After reading the newspapers for the past two weeks, Dr. James Glenn has decided to cancel his trip to Vietnam; the State Dept. concurred with his decision. Dr. J. Leonard Goldner, of the Duke Orthopaedic Surgery Division, has been named President-Elect of the American Society for Surgery of the Hand. He also will continue as Chairman of the Residency Training Program Committee of the same society. Dr. Madison S. Spach has been promoted from Associate Professor to Professor of Pediatrics in the Department of Pediatrics. New appointees to the Medical Center faculty are Mrs. Margretta M. Styles, as Associate Professor of Nursing and Director of Undergraduate Studies in the School of Nursing; Dr. Alden W. Dudley, Jr., Assistant Professor of Pathology; Dr. Peter William Gage, Assistant Professor of Physiology; Dr. Peter K. Lauf, Assistant Professor of Biochemistry; Dr. James A. McFarland, Assistant Professor of Community Health Sciences; and Dr. Peter B. Rowe, Assistant Professor of Medicine.

Dr. Eric Pfeiffer, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, has written a book, "Disordered Behavior: Basic Concepts in Clinical Psychiatry," to be published by the Oxford University Press in New York early in March. Dr. J. Lamar Callaway, Chairman of the Department of Dermatology, has been named Chairman of the 1968 Heart Fund Campaign in Durham. Dr. D. Graham Slaughter, Assistant Resident, Neurosurgery, has received notification of the fact that he has won the Residents' Paper Award, given by the Southern Neurosurgical Society, for the best paper, "A Stereotactic Approach to the Human Dentate Nucleus", presented by Dr. Slaughter at the annual meeting of the Society in New Orleans, Feb. 15-17, 1968.

Dr. Herbert O. Sieker, Professor of Medicine, was elected President of the Southern Society for Clinical Investigation at its meeting in New Orleans. Dr. Morton D. Bogdonoff, Professor of Medicine at Duke University, has been appointed Assistant Dean at the School of Medicine for graduate medical education, a newly created position. A special dedication service will be held here next month to pay tribute to a Duke University psychologist, Dr. Karl E. Zener, who pioneered in studies of motivation and its relation to learning. The auditorium of the Psychology-Sociology Building on West Campus will be named for Dr. Zener, who died in 1964 after 36 years of teaching and research at Duke. Dr. Patrick D. Kenan, Assistant Professor in the Department of Otolaryngology, published the article, "Extracranial Causes of Headache" in the January 1968 issue of The North Carolina Medical Journal.

Report from The Planning Office

In a recent interview with Mr. Louis Swanson, Director of Planning, INTERCOM learned of many new projects now underway in the Medical Center. One of these is called Renovation Program I. It is a nine-part package plan totaling approximately $900,000. It's a package because it is being designed by an architectural firm, Six Associates of Asheville, T.C. Cook Engineers downtown, and the work is being done by the Muirhead Construction Company.

The first of the nine parts is the renovation of Meyer, Drake, Cabell, and Welch (that's old Williams) wards. This part will cost about $615,000. The second part is the renovation of the existing X-ray department. Third, is the Photography Patient Studio, which will be moved from where it is now to a portion of the old Radiology Department, in order to better coordinate patient service facilities. Number four is the chapel in the lobby. There was a delay in the plans and in getting the bid for the contractor, but the authorization has been given and work is now underway.

Number five is the construction of a commercial bank where the old snack bar used to be. And six is Dr. Thier's Clinical Chemistry Lab, which is running a little behind schedule right now. The renovation of Welch Ward, which is called the Acute Care Unit is number seven. It combines seven acute care beds with the present Recovery Room. Number eight is the Heart Catheter Lab, which is going to be put on the present Cardiac Care Unit. And nine is the construction of new facilities for the Nuclear Medicine Division of Radiology.

The schedule for completion of these nine parts is flexible, but hopefully, Meyer Ward will be done sometime in late February or early March; Welch next, then Cabell, then Drake, the last one of these being completed sometime in May. X-ray will probably be completed in late May, followed by Photography. Of course, all of these dates are subject to change, and INTERCOM will keep you posted.

Clark Speaks at Auxiliary Luncheon

On January 24th, Elon Clark, Professor of Medical Art and Coordinator of the Medical Art Facility of the Division of Audiovisual Education, spoke to the Women's Auxiliary at the Holiday Inn Downtown on "Medical Illustration." He gave the history of his subject and described the growth of this department at Duke using slides to show how the artist can aid the physician in the diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation of the patient.

Besides Prof. Clark's talk, Mrs. Julian Ruffin installed the new Women's Auxiliary officers for the new year. Mrs. Harold Silberman installed as President, and on the official slate with her are Mrs. George Maddox, Vice President, Mrs. Blaine Nashold, Recording Secretary, Mrs. Sherwood Githens, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. T.W. Minah, Treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Bowers, Historian. Then, Mrs. Alan K. Manchester reported for the Chapel Committee and a luncheon followed. "The meeting was a big success," Mary Daugherty said. "We had the largest attendance in a long time."
