Five of the medical center's best bowlers were named league team champions for the year at the annual Medical Center Bowling League banquet May 6.

The women, all members of the Highballers, defeated the Bowlerettes team in a four-game roll-off.

Also presented at the banquet were a number of other individual and team awards. George Mack, assistant director of the hospital, and Frank Gay, director of employment for the University, served as masters of ceremonies.

Members of the Highballers are Dorothy Goodin, Carolyn Goodin, Polly Jordan, Marge Stinnett and Gwen Wood. The Bowlerettes, who received second-place trophies, include Betty Crabtree, Mary Ann Dotson, Jeep O'Briant, Susie Schrack and Sheila Smith.

Carol Hill won the award for the most improved bowler. Her average jumped from an 88 at the beginning of the season to a final 102.

High game honors went to Mary Ann Lucas for her scratch game of 235 and to Foye Hurst for the best handicap game of 269.

Gwen Wood won the high scratch series title with a 565 score, while high handicap series honors went to Peggy Williamson for a 649.

Marge Stinnett won the trophy for the best average at 156, while the sportsmanship award went to Lessie Wilborn.

In addition, recognition trophies for 200 games, perfect attendance and participation were made. Members of the last-place team, known as "next year's winners" were also given appropriate trophies.

Anyone interested in joining the bowling league may call Polly Jordan at 2891.

1932 Graduate Dies

A member of the first graduating class of the Duke School of Medicine died early last month in West Virginia.

Dr. William E. Wilkinson, who received his M.D. degree from Duke in 1932, died May 5 following a long illness.

He had served an internship and residency in surgery at Duke from 1932 to 1935 and had returned from 1949 to 1953 for a residency in psychiatry and neurology. He had been chief of psychiatric services at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C. until 1955.

Dr. Wilkinson is survived by his wife, two children, his stepmother, one brother and five sisters, including Miss Dorothy Wilkinson, house counselor at the Duke School of Nursing.

Health Forum Held

Duke was the meeting place again last month for many of the nation's top hospital and health care people who attended the fifth annual National Forum on Hospital and Health Affairs.

The meeting, sponsored each year by the Duke Endowment and conducted by Duke's Graduate Program in Hospital Administration, centered on the theme, "The Changing Composition of the Hospital System."

Discussions touched on almost every type of hospital-charity, mental, VA denominational, university, proprietary, specialty and hospitals serving the inner city.
