Dr. Anlyan New Vice President

DR. ANLYAN

Dr. William G. Anlyan, dean of the School of Medicine since 1964 and associate provost for medical affairs since January, has been named vice president for health affairs by the University Board of Trustees.

Announcement of the creation of the post and Dr. Anlyan's appointment to it was made June 16 by Dr. Barnes Woodhall, chancellor pro tem of the University.

Dr. Anlyan retains his position as professor of surgery.

In his new role, Dr. Anlyan is responsible for the affairs of the entire medical center including the schools of medicine and nursing, Duke Hospital, and the allied health professions.

As the chief executive officer of the medical center, Vice-president Anlyan will report to the chancellor of the University on all but academic affairs where he will report to the provost.

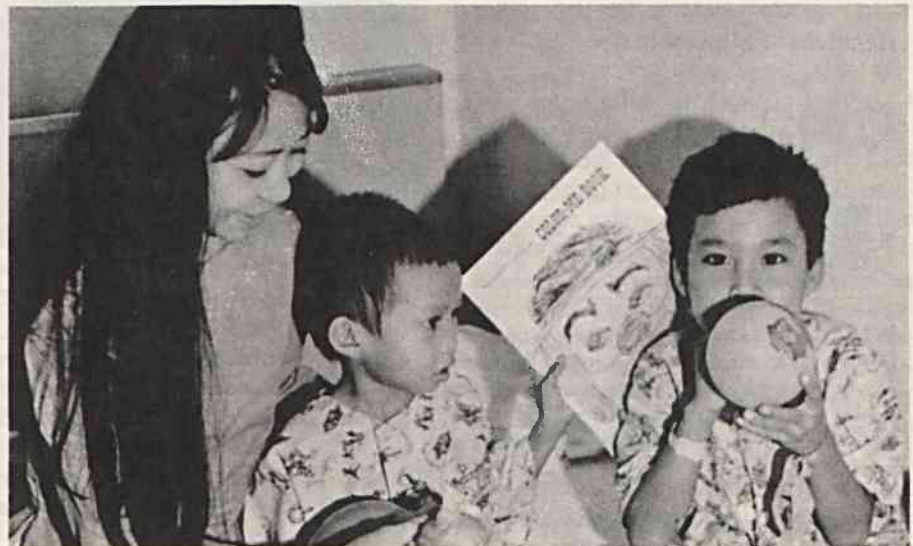

His responsibilities include the operational and financial aspects of education, research and patient care within the medical center, plus supervision of cooperative ventures with Watts, Lincoln, and the Veterans' Administration hospitals here. Highland Hospital in Asheville, and Sea Level General and Children's Hospital in Sea Level, N. C.

In addition, Dr. Anlyan coordinates Duke's connection with the North Carolina Regional Medical Program for Heart, Cancer and Stroke, and, through his membership on the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning, is involved in Duke's cooperative efforts with medical facilities throughout the state.

Dr. Anlyan took the position as dean of the School of Medicine in 1964, the third man to fill that post. Dr. W. C. Davison, who organized the school from 1927 to 1930 served as dean until his retirement in 1960. He was succeeded by Dr. Woodhall, who left the position in 1964 when he became associate provost for medical affairs.

A LONG WAY FROM THE WAR—These two Vietnamese children, Pham Thi Huong, a 6-year-old girl (center), and 10-year-old Ngo Long, have been brought to Duke for treatment of leg injuries received in the war that's raging in their land. With the children is Miss Bui Thi Ngoc Nga, a Vietnamese social worker who also serves as interpreter. They were brought to Duke by the Durham-Chapel Hill chapter of the Committee of Responsibility for War-Burned and War-Injured Vietnamese Children. Duke doctors have pledged their services to the children free. (photo by Tom Glendenning)
