Moylan Tapped

Moylan plans to be meeting with representatives of local and state agencies involved in emergency care and emergency transportation to become better acquainted with services and facilities throughout North Carolina.

Davison Clubbers Meet Tomorrow

Members of the medical center's Davison Club will be meeting here for their annual business session and scientific program tomorrow.

Members of the Davison Club pledge a minimum of $1,000 each annually to the School of Medicine.

Living members currently total 151. R.C. (Bucky) Waters, assistant to the vice president for health affairs, is the executive director of the Davison Club. Approximately 50 members have been added over the past two years.

Saturday's scientific program in the Surgical PDC reception area will be moderated by Dr. Ewald W. Busse, director of medical and allied health education.

Members will hear a presentation by Dr. Arthur C. Chandler Jr., associate professor of ophthalmology, who will discuss "Cataract Extraction — Is the New Really Better?"

The second speaker will be Dr. Herbert A. Saltzman, professor of medicine and co-director of the F.G. Hall Laboratory for Environmental Research (hyperbaric chamber). Saltzman's talk will be "Hyperbaric and Diving Medicine."

The program will conclude with a business session and election of officers. Current officers are Dr. A.J. Tannenbaum of Greensboro (M.D. '35), president; Dr. Donald H. Tucker of Greenville, N.C. (M.D. '58), vice president; and Dr. Emile L. Gebel of Shelby (M.D. '62), secretary-treasurer.

"There has been both county and state interest and progress in emergency care in recent years," Moylan noted.

"The second necessary element," Moylan continued, "is the hospital care itself in the form of health professionals trained in emergency care."

This means, he said, not only an emergency department team "trained to an advanced level in treatment of trauma," but also an inpatient service team specially trained to care for the patient once he is admitted to the hospital. These people will staff the Trauma Unit the surgery chairman said would be established.

Courses in treatment of trauma are not included in most medical school curriculums, Moylan said. This was one of his priorities when he joined the faculty here, and a course already has been included in the School of Medicine this year as an elective for fourth-year students. Trauma seminars for others interested also are being planned.

As a major emergency treatment center locally and a referral center for the Southeast, Duke last year treated 38,838 patients, or more than one patient every 15 minutes around the clock, in its Emergency Department.

Moylan earned his A.B. degree at Fairfield (Conn.) University and received his M.D. in 1964 at Boston University. He served his internship in Seattle and was on the faculty at the University of Washington before going to Wisconsin.

During service with the U.S. Army, he was chief of the Clinical Division of the Army Burn Center at Brooke Army Medical Center in Texas.

WHAT'S YOUR AVERAGE

The best hitters in professional baseball have batting averages of between .300 and .400. This means that, out of every 10 times they have come up to the plate, they have to hit safely three or four times. And that's hitting!

But look at it another way. These great batters fail to hit more often than they hit. Time after time, they step up to the plate and hit a grounder to the infielder or fly out to an outfielder or strike out.

All of which means one thing: success isn't figured by averages. Nobody will remember the times you struck out in the early innings — if you hit a home run with the bases full in the ninth.

Retirement Program Organizes Today

The Pre-Retirement Planning and Counseling Program is beginning another program of seminars designed "to increase each person's potential for living a good, satisfying life at retirement and afterwards," according to Lee Elmore, the program's director.

"Much work and effort have gone into preparing the latest research findings in various life areas for the people at Duke," she said.

Employees due to retire between November, 1975 and July 1, 1977 are invited to attend the organizational meeting today at 11 a.m., in Rm 1504, Gerontology Bldg (blue zone).

Ms. Elmore said the hour of meeting time is guaranteed to employees by the university upon proper notification of supervisors. For additional information, call Ms. Elmore at 286-7942 or 286-4715.
