

MED STUDENTS PRESENT — Paying tribute to "what we hold most sacred," this year's Medical Student-Faculty Show offered songs in praise of the wonders of new life ("Catching My Baby"), the PDC, the state of North Carolina and Pabst Blue Ribbon beer (which was not the brand supplied to the audience). There also was a time of confession, a musical debate concerning "Girl Doctors," an expression of the thrill of making the "Cover of the NEJM" and other features including those pictured on this page. At left, Arn Eliasson renders "Hooked on the Ceiling." In the skit at right, outgoing Dean Bradford, played by Kurt Newman, receives a farewell salute from incoming Dean Spanarkel, played by Jim Spanarkel. (Photos by John Becton)

CHORAL RESPONSES were offered throughout the show by this group, rumored to be the Salzburg Choir, but looking like a group of medical students in unusual lab coats.

Duke in health fair

The Pediatric Recreation Therapy Program will participate in a mini-health fair for Head Start parents tomorrow. The fair is sponsored by Operation Breakthrough and will be held from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. at Whitted Junior High School on the corner of Roxboro and Umstead Streets.

The health fair will feature booths from a variety of local health organizations. Duke recreation therapists Sue Hodges, Nina Burkhill, Loretta Crawford and Vivian Lewis will take turns staffing the booth.

Found

A sorority pin with the initials V.H. was found on the walk in front of the hospital recently. The owner may claim it at the information desk.
