

Delta Epsilon

Delta Epsilon brothers.

By Sammie Hudler
Delta Epsilon Fraternity is sponsoring its winter rush Thursday, January 28 at the Fraternity House at 106 East Lewis St., Whiteville. Anyone interested in pledging should contact any fraternity member or attend the meeting Thursday night at 8:00.

Delta Epsilon was chartered by students of SCC in 1969. Since it's founding, it has held various projects and activities.

The most recent of these was a toy and clothing drive for needy children at Christmas. Also, they planted azaleas on the lawn of SCC.

However, Delta Epsilon is not under the supervision of the SCC Senate or it's officials. It is solely a private organization comprised of SCC students.

SDS loses suit

SDS Loses Suit. A federal judge in Hartford has denied the right of "official campus recognition" to a Students for a Democratic Society group at Central Connecticut State College. The ruling, the first of its kind by a federal court, could affect the official status of other SDS groups on campuses. Judge T. Emmet Clarie said testimony by students did not convince him the group would be peaceful and would conform to college requirements for an approved organization.

"The streets of our country are in turmoil. The Universities are filled with students rebelling and rioting. Communists are seeking to destroy our country. Russia is threatening us with her might. And the republic is in danger. Yes danger from within and without. We need law and order! ...Without law and order our nation can not survive..."

Interviews by Dick Barnes

Do you think people should kill animals only for their skins, trophies, or for ornamentation?

No. I think if a person kills an animal he should do something with the meat because it's inhumane to kill something for their heads only.

Lewis Keith
Freshman

I think that the slaughtering of any big game animal simply for his pelt is a shameful waste. It should be stopped by law.

Jay Barrington
Sophomore

Ecologically speaking, we've made a mess. For example, around the turn of the century exotic plumes were used in women's hats from birds like the ostrich and the cockatoo—and even rarer species which because of this are now extinct. Certain big members of the cat family—the jaguar and the tiger—are now on the verge of extinction because of their skins being used in women's coats. A $100,000 coat doesn't keep a woman any warmer than a $100 coat. I'm against it.

J.M. Martin
Chemistry Instructor

No. Animals don't mount human heads. So humans shouldn't mount animal heads, although sometimes I think it might be a good idea.

Phil McPherson
Freshman

No! It's inhuman. Animals have feelings.

Why?

- Why aren't there any Black or Red faculty members?
- Why do we have to swim to class when it rains.
- Why hasn't Macke been closed before now?
- Why don't we have a new grand piano?
- Why is there no heat in the lobby of the auditorium?
- Why do people make noise in the library?
- Why is Columbus County politics dishonest?
- Why do high schools try to degrade the rams horn?
- Why must we do self-study packages?
- Why do we not have more dances?
- Why are we in Cambodia?
- Why Womens Lib?

Why don't you write a letter to the Editor?

Body Language—Think twice before you cross that leg! Your body movements speak louder than words, according to Julius Fast's new book, "Body Language." The way a man rearranges his own appearance and his display of little gestures may term him "sexy" by some women. A person with arms clasped defensively may be saying "Stay away from me," or "No, I don't agree with you."

From such an examination, we think, will come a clearer understanding of the problems that have occasioned and surrounded campus protest, and, we hope, also the beginnings of recognition or development of widespread agreement, where such agreement already exists unperceived or is developable, concerning solutions to the problems."
