NUMBER 3

J. MARK McADAMS TO LEAD FOOTBALL SQUAD

Popular Athlete Chosen Captain—Coach Corboy Again to Train Football Team.

J. Mark McAdams will lead the 1923 football team. Mr. McAdams is an athlete of exceptional ability and personality. He has been with the Elon College football team for the past three years, and the captaincy of the team came to him as a regard for his fine work on the team. He will be a member of the senior class.

Mark, as the students know him, is one of the most likeable men on the Hill, and he has the art of handling men. He understands the game, and will put into every contest the very best that is in him.

Football under such a leader as McAdams and with Coach F. B. Corboy to train the team ought to mean a great year for Elon in this field of sport. Coach Corboy is especially fitted for the teaching of football, and is one of the authorities of the state on football. He is a member of the national association of football coaches, being with the Fetzer brothers of the University of North Carolina, the three N. C. coaches now holding membership in this association.

Captain McAdams and Mr. Corboy are men with whom every high school boy with athletic aspirations and a love for clean, manly sportsmanship, will be proud to be associated.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION TO BE STRESSED NEXT YEAR

Program Now Being Worked Out by Coach Corboy—Interesting Features.

Athletics and physical education play a great and important part in the program here, and one that is given great stress. Every student entering the institution must take part in some sort of physical work.

Intercollegiate athletics have always played an important part at Elon and in the past three years under the tutelage of Coach Corboy our teams have ranked favorably with the other colleges of the state. Our football team of last year was one of the wonders of the sport-loving followers, and although handicapped by an exceptionally small squad and injuries to members of it, it acquitted itself in such a manner that it was the joy of the student body and friends of Elon, and feared by all who met it.

The basketball team started like a whirlwind, but here again disaster in the way of sickness overtook us and we had to be content with a little better than an even break in games won and lost, but it demonstrated that it was all that its followers claimed for it when it gave the Davidson Wildcats a trimming on their floor in the closing game of the season.

Baseball was at the lowest ebb this year due to the fact that practically

MISSIONS STRESSED ON CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Dr. Atkinson and Mrs. Morrill to Conduct Classes—Every Need to Be Studied.

There will be two classes from 12 to 1 o'clock each day which will be distinctively missionary in their teaching.

Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D., of Elon College, Field Secretary of Missions of the Southern Christian Convention, will lead the group which chooses the great subject of "Stewardship," using Ralph Cushman's book, "The Message of Stewardship," as textbook for the course. Dr. Atkinson is well known in every part of the Christian Church, and those who have heard him will look forward to this week spent with him in consideration of "Stewardship."

Mrs. M. T. Morrill, of Defiance, Ohio, Field Worker of the Woman's Mission Board of the Christian Church, will teach a class which will especially attract the interest of women and young people eager to conduct Mission Study Classes in their own communities next year. Mrs. Morrill will take up the books for next winter's study, and discussing them in her own helpful way, prepare leaders to carry them back to larger groups at home. She will use "Creative Forces in Japan" by Galen Fisher, a book especially suited for adult study classes, and "The Woman and the Leaven in Japan," by Charlotte Deforest, especially for program meetings. One session will be given to the junior books, "The Honorable Japanese Fan," and a Handbook on Japan which contains stories, suggestions for worship, dramatization, class projects, service, activities, etc. Another day

DR. HARPER DISCUSSES VITAL CRISIS IN STATE

Points Out Danger of Education Without Religion and Urges Remedial Measures.

We have a situation in North Carolina that needs most careful consideration and that demands remedial measures forthwith. I refer to provision for religious instruction at our tax-supported institutions of higher learning.

We are all gratified at the growth and progress of our three state institutions of standard grade—the University, State College, and the Normal College. The prospect is that the attendance on these institutions will continue to grow. The day is not far distant when these schools will enroll more pupils than the Christian colleges of the State. The most impressive fact about higher education the nation over is the phenomenal growth of State institutions of higher education. It will continue so in North Carolina, as in other states.

But there is one thing we must keep steadily in mind—that education without religion is a dangerous experiment. And our State institutions cannot teach religion. The doctrine of the separation of Church and State makes that impossible in North Carolina. The solution of this problem calls for the wisest statesmanship we can bring to bear upon any educational problem. A democracy, which I define as the principles of the Christian religion applied to the political problem, cannot continue with a people one-half Christian and the other half pagan. This is particularly true of the leadership of a democracy, which leadership experience shows must come from those with college and university training. For the Church therefore to lose contact with thousands of the future leaders of the State during the four years of their training in our State institutions is to invite disaster. The rocks lie ahead, immediately ahead, unless we can keep the contact clear at this point and bring religion as a constructive force to bear on the life of those young men and young women who elect to go to the State schools rather than to our Christian schools.

What are we going to do about it? It is useless to criticize our State schools. They cannot remedy the situation. It is the duty of the churches

PENNSYLVANIA WORKER TO ATTEND CHAUTAUQUA

Miss Emma G. Lemen to Instruct in Children's Work During the Week.

From 9 o'clock to 10 each morning, beginning July 31, Miss Emma G. Lemen, Children's Division Superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, will conduct a class especially planned for workers with children under 12 years of age.

Miss Lemen is well qualified for this work. She is a graduate of Shortridge, and Indianapolis Normal Training School, and of the Geneva International Training School. For seven years she was Superintendent of Children's Work in the Indiana State Association, and for three years she has been connected with the Pennsylvania work. Her record in both states for constructive work has been splendid. She has spent much time in summer schools both as instructor and scholar.

Mr. Walter E. Myers, Pennsylvania's State Secretary, speaks very highly of Miss Lemen's work, and her work will doubtless be a very great contribution to the Chautauqua program.

MISS EMMA G. LEMEN

America has always preferred to take her great men from the soil. Rarely has she bestowed her choice on those nourished where city pavements separate them from the mother of us all.—Calvin Coolidge.

There are mighty few "easy marks" living in "Easy Street."

Your friends come in without knocking; your enemies knock without coming in.

HERMON ELDREDGE TO TEACH IN CHAUTAUQUA

Young Peoples' Specialist to Conduct Classes—"Youth of the Church" Is Subject.

Ever since the beginning of the Chautauqua and School of Methods, Mr. Hermon Eldredge has been interested in its work and progress, serving as vice-president for a number of years, and appearing on the program at several sessions. Mr. Eldredge is a leading layman in the Christian Church of the United States, and has long been identified with her work. For two years he served as Field Worker of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, and then entered the Erie, Pennsylvania Young Men's Christian Association as Religious Work Director and Executive Secretary of the Erie Men's Inter-Church Federation. During the war he served as Y. M. C. A. Secretary at the Officers' Training Camp at Fort Niagara, N. Y., at the regular army camp at Syracuse, N. Y., and as General Secretary of the work at Camp Upton, Long Island. On January 1 of this year, Mr. Eldredge began work for the Christian Church as Field Secretary of Young People's Work of the Board of Christian Education, and Editor of Young People's literature. He comes to the Chautauqua at Elon after visiting and teaching in summer schools in Palmer College, Mo., and Union Christian College, Indiana, and with a knowledge of the work of the Christian Church gained from his extensive travels.

"Youth and the Church" by Cynthia Maus will be the textbook which Mr. Eldredge will use in his class at Elon, a class in which young people and leaders of young people will be especially interested.

DR. ROWLAND TO CONDUCT CHAUTAUQUA SERVICES

Franklin Pastor to Be in Charge of Morning Worship and Church Services.

"The Church" will be the general theme of the periods of morning worship which will open the Chautauqua day under the leadership of Rev. C. H. Rowland, D. D., of Franklin, Virginia, former President of the Chautauqua. The five themes chosen are as follows: (1) The Living Church, (2) The Working Church, (3) The Power of the Church, (4) The Vision of the Church, and (5) The Hope of the Church.

These will be times of rich spiritual meditation and worship. Very fitting is it to open the day with the thought of the Church, whose program the whole gathering is met to further.

Dr. Rowland will preach at the Sunday morning service on "Chautauqua Sunday," August 5,
