WHO AND WHERE

M. J. W. White, Jr., '23, has gone to Baltimore, Md., to make arrangements for entering Johns Hopkins Medical School next fall.

V. M. Rivera, '23, will go to the summer school at Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio., sailing shortly thereafter for Porto Rica.

P. J. Carlton, of Richmond, Va., is in Europe in the interests of the Imperial Tobacco Co.

M. C. Terrell, '21, has been elected, president of the Alamance county organization of Trinity alumni.

Hurley Lashley is in the real estate business. Address, Liberty, N. C.

John J. Ingle, '11, has offices in the Wachovia Bank Building, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Paul Ingle is attending Atlanta Dental College.

Mrs. S. R. Gay (nee Beatrice Mason, '15) writes that she has enjoyed the alumni columns. Mrs. Gay's address is 600 Euclid Ave., Lynchburg, Va.

"The March of Events" in the World's Work for May, under the sub-head of "Renters and Croppers" in the South praises a book of which J. A. Dickey, '12, is co-author. We quote the opening paragraph: "Seldom has a university put forth a more pertinent social study than "How Farm Tenants Live," by J. A. Dickey and E. C. Branson, just issued from the press of the University of North Carolina."

WERE YOU HERE WHEN—

Dr. Harper took over the contract to make Possum Avenue the Prince of Highways?

The inter-class fight occurred to see which class could keep its numerals on the tank? During the excitement the students left the Dining Hall and Bill Scott ate four chocolate pies.

R. S. Rainey created a scene in the Dining Hall by entering with his head shaved?

WITH THE CLUBS

A future issue will carry a report of the organization of the Alumni Club of Suffolk, Va.

Norfolk, Va., expects to have its first meeting in the near future.

THE IDEAL ALUMNUS

It may be that no man lives who typifies the Ideal Alumnus. Yet, in any alumni body, there are those who so closely resemble the ideal that their attitude is an inspiration to all the rest. What, then are the attributes of the Ideal Alumnus?

He is the one who realizes that the measure of success which he has attained is not due entirely to inherent genius, but in a large part, to the knowledge and inspiration which he gained during his college years.

He cherishes the memories of those college years as a fundamental asset to the enjoyment of his maturity and old age.

He obliterates from his memory whatever there may have been of petty grievances and fancied injustice toward him during his college course.

He sees the faults of his Alma Mater, but instead of growling about them, he seeks some measure by which they can be remedied.

He realizes that to be of the greatest service to the institution and to each other, the alumni must be effectively organized. He supports the Alumni Association by attending its meetings when possible, by paying the nominal dues, and by subscribing to its publications.

He lends his knowledge and judgment to the formulating of sound policies for the administration of the association and the college.

Finally, the Ideal Alumnus sees the need of interesting young men in securing an education. He knows the high quality of the education which is offered at his Alma Mater and so goes out of his way to urge ambitious youths to follow his footsteps.—Worcester Polytechnic Institute Journal.
