

Junior-Senior Reception Is One of the Most Beautiful Social Occasions of Season

HELD FRIDAY P.M.

W. B. Terrell is Toastmaster and Welcomes Guests—Lynam Responds for Senior Class.

COLORSCHEME HANDSOME

Toasts, Readings, Music and Jokes Make Evening Enjoyable for All Those Present.

The annual Junior-Senior reception is an event in the Elon College life which is eagerly looked forward to by both Juniors and Seniors. It is significant in that it is the only time in the lives of two classes at which the Junior class can be host to the Senior class—the class which had so royally welcomed and entertained it upon its first arrival on the hill. The reception given Friday evening, March 21, by the class of '25 in honor of the class of '24, was an event which will long be a happy memory with all those who were present.

A part of the girls' gymnasium had been partitioned off and was artistically draped with fluted strands of green and gold crepe paper. The paper was fastened in the center to the ceiling, and being fastened low on the walls it gave the interior a tent-like appearance, oblong in shape. The color scheme of green and gold, the colors of the present Senior class, was carried out in all the decorations, in the lighting system and in the menu.

One electric lamp hung low in the center of the room and this was draped in the crepe paper in the two-tone effect. On each table two candles—one green and the other gold—were burning. The tables themselves were covered with gold crepe paper having strips of the green running across them.

The guests found their places at the tables by means of attractive placards, Aladdin's lamp done in gold, the emblem of the Senior class. The favors were dainty baskets of green and gold paper filled with peanuts.

When the guests had found their places, Mr. W. B. Terrell, president of the Junior class, gave the Seniors and their guests a most cordial welcome. Mr. S. M. Lynam, a member of the Senior class, made a very appropriate response to this address of welcome. Mr. J. N. Denton gave a toast to the Seniors which was responded to by Miss Lucy Austin. A toast to Professor Greenwood, sponsor of the class of '24, was given by Miss Kate Strader. Readings were given by Misses Mammie Sockwell and Jennie Gunter and Mr. Leon Williams. Vocal and piano music was furnished by Misses Madge Moffitt and Mary Lee Foster. Mrs. A. H. Hook, and Mr. C. P. Flynn. Jokes, rich, varied and spicy, were used throughout the evening.

The menu, which formed an important part of the program for the evening, consisted in punch, veal salad with saltines, Neapolitan ice cream in green and gold and kisses.

Those to whose hospitality this very enjoyable event was due are: S. H. Abell, W. J. Apple, York Brannock, Archie Braxton, Margaret L. Corbitt, J. H. Dollar, C. H. Dunn, Winnie Durant, W. C. Elder, C. P. Flynn, Mary Lee Foster, Lillian Harrell, Nettie Harris, Bertha Isley, Chiyo Ito, Gordon Kirkland, Annie Mae Lackey, Dorothy Lowe, Frankye Marshall, Bessie Martin, Dwight

WORK ON AUDITORIUM BUILDING BEING RUSHED

The work on the new buildings is going along fine since the warm weather opened. The work on the auditorium building is being rushed and the prospects are that it will be near enough complete to use for the commencement exercises in May. The floors are being poured and the plasterers are busy with the walls. The electricians are finishing their part of the work. The big dome which contains about 50 lights, has already been lighted up and is very beautiful. All the lights are to be concealed in this building.

This building is to be known as the Whitley Memorial Building and is given by J. M. Darden, of Suffolk, Va.

PSYKALEONS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS MONDAY

Miss Lillian Harrell is New President; Good Program Rendered—To Give Open Program.

The Psykaleon Literary Society met in regular session Monday evening in the Society Hall. After the regular business transacted, the important ceremony of installing the new officers elected at the last meeting followed. These officers are as follows:

Lillian Harrell, president; Rose Howell, vice president; Louise Watkins, secretary; Elizabeth McCollum, treasurer; Mabel Wright, supervisor, Frankye Marshall, senior critic; Margaret Corbitt, junior critic; Annie Simpson, Maroon and Gold reporter.

It was decided that the first of the open society meetings should be held next Monday evening. The public is cordially invited to this meeting, which is a "Woodrow Wilson" program and begins at 8 o'clock.

An exceptionally good program was then rendered. The work given shows a decided improvement over the work done in the fall. All the numbers on the program were enjoyed thoroughly by the society, but Miss Foster's solo deserves special notice. The beautiful selection she had chosen made a most delightful composition.

The program was as follows: Life of Zane Grey and Criticism of Some of His Works, Myrtle Somers. Synopsis of "Almayer's Folly," Rose Howell. Reading, "A Case of Fits," Isabella Cannon. Fashion Hints, Bessie Hudson. "What My Dog Has Taught Me," Frances Hook. Vocal solo, "Mighty Lak a Rose," Mary Lee Foster.

The judges decided that the three best numbers on the program were those rendered by Misses Hook, Howell, and Foster.

Those visiting their homes during the week-end were: Misses Louise Homewood, Lillie Pace, Julia Yarborough, Nell Orr, Eunice Phillips, Nannie L. Aldridge, Eva Graham, Hazel Auman, Lena Russell, Lou Heritage, Callie Isley and Frances Turner.

Misses Anne Grace Von Cannon and Irene Stephens, of High Point, N. C., visited Miss Ruth Von Cannon here Sunday and Monday.

SENIOR GIRLS ARE GIVEN AN ENJOYABLE SURPRISE

Sophomore Girls Give "Colonial Party" to Girls of Sister Class on Thursday Night.

One of the most exciting and altogether enjoyable occasions of the year, occurred Thursday night in the West Dormitory Annex.

To begin with, the Senior girls were all invited, but even curiosity—that predominating element in a woman's make-up, had been unable to ferret out who the givers of the party were. The invitations read, "A Colonial Party," and on the back of each card was found the name of one of our famous American men of colonial days. There was also the request "R. S. V. P." to Box 314, which, upon investigation, was found to be Miss Morrow's and Mrs. Rungee's. They merely smiled when questioned and kept their peace.

The rumors were thick and many. The Faculty, the Sophomores, Mrs. Kirkland were all accused, but all of them said they had not been invited.

Thursday night came. Colonial costumes, with their ruffles and flounces, paraded through the halls. Eighty-three came. Simultaneously on numerous doors knocks were heard and colonial gentlemen with their wigs and laces entered, claiming their lady friends. They were the Sophomore girls. With a sigh of relief at their gratified curiosity, the Seniors prepared to have a good time. They were led to the Art Studio with much old-time courtesy, and there found a room transformed by decoration of red and black.

Formality was soon abandoned and many games, both of the past and present, were played. "It" and "Wink" were the favorites and the fun of being little girls once more entered into the spirit of all.

Mrs. William Penn (Mary Graham Lawrence) was kind enough to sing "Mary Had a Little Lamb," a la grand opera. Mrs. Robert Morris (Jennie Gunter) gave a wonderful imitation of Charley Chaplin, while Mrs. Thomas Jefferson (Madge Moffitt) gave some lessons in love making. George Washington (Florence Massey) naturally was a favorite and he capped the climax of his popularity with the "Hatchet Song." Two contests were played, Mrs. Alexander Hamilton (Della Cotten) being the winner of the automobile contest and receiving an automobile as a prize. Mrs. James Madison (Lucy Austin) winning "The Floral Romance" received a doll as a prize. Mrs. Alexander Hamilton (Della Cotten) also delighted us with the old song, "When you and I were young, Maggie."

Delicious refreshments consisting of punch and sandwiches, were served. Then by general agreement George Washington (Florence Moseley) was picked out as the favorite man; Sir Walter Raleigh (Lois Hartman) as the best looking, while Mrs. James Monroe (Bessie Cotten), and Mde Lafayette (Victoria Adams) were considered the prettiest ladies, and Mrs. Roger Clark (Nannie Aldridge) as having the funniest costume. The Seniors also decided that they had "the best sister-class ever."

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams (Myrtle Somers and Fannie Glen Elder), Marquis and Mde Lafayette (Victoria Adams and Alma Smith), Mr. and Mrs. George Mason (Louise Homewood and Violet McCollum), Mr. and Mrs. James Madison (Lucy Austin and Annie Simpson), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris (Jennie Gunter and Margaret Bowman), Mr. and Mrs.

PSIPHELIANS' REGULAR PROGRAM IS GOOD ONE

Many Girls Take Part on Program Wednesday Night and Do Very Good Work.

A very interesting program was given by the Psiphelian Literary Society at its regular meeting on Wednesday night. The following program was rendered:

Miss Margaret Bowman gave briefly, but very interesting a sketch of the "Life of Booth Tarkington."

Miss Rose Fulghum gave an excellent synopsis of "Alice Adams," by Booth Tarkington.

Miss Mary Addie White furnished current events. She had a large range of events which were very interesting and informational.

Miss Victoria Adams gave an exceedingly humorous reading, "Jimmie's Prompt Obedience." It was excellently presented.

Miss Mabel Alcorn read a paper on "The Life of Iforace Mann." She gave the most important incidents concerning his life which were very interesting.

Humor, by Miss Dorothy Lowe, was very good. The local touch in her jokes added much to their interest.

Miss Gretchen Lamm read a very interesting story.

Those receiving special mention were: Misses Bowman, Fulghum, White, Adams, Alcorn and Lowe.

Misses Maude Graham, Lyde Bingham and Beulah Hammer have been very ill with measles. Misses Bingham and Hammer are at their respective homes.

JOINT MEETING IS HELD ON LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

Y. W. and Y. M. Hold Meeting Together—Miss Adams is Leader; Topic, "Good Womanhood."

A joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. was held Sunday night. The Y. M. being the guest of the Y. W. This was the first meeting of the kind held during the year, and as it proved to be a very interesting and helpful one, it is hoped that there may be similar meetings.

The topic for the evening was, "Good Womanhood," with Miss Victoria Adams as leader. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me," was quoted as the scripture lesson by Miss Adams and she gave some good comments upon it. After this Mr. R. H. Gunn led in prayer.

Miss Adams welcomed the Y. M. C. A. boys in behalf of the Y. W. C. A., to which Mr. P. D. Rudd responded in a few words, expressing their appreciation of being able to meet with the Y. W.

An article, "If I had been born a girl," by H. H. Horne, was read by Miss Frankye Marshall. This was an excellent article, and it brought out the value of an education, dress as an expression of personality, the need of being a Christian, our opportunity to serve, the evils of dance, and how we should guard against unclean speech.

Miss Lucy Austin read two poems, "Worth While," and "Appreciation." These poems expressed the characteristics of "Good Womanhood."

Mark Twain's response to a toast on women, "The Ladies," was read by Mr. R. H. Gunn. Miss Elena Tavara sang a very beautiful solo, "Twilight."

After these special numbers the meeting was thrown open for discussion and remarks. Quite a few boys and girls took part. Several quotations were cited which brought out the traits of beautiful womanhood, as well as the traits of good manhood. In reply to some of these quotations cited by the young men, Miss Austin read a poem, "The Welcomed Man." The man who can deliver the goods is always the welcomed man.

F. L. GIBBS REPRESENTS ELON AT HIGH SCHOOL

Speaks at "Stay in School and Go to College Social"—Other Schools Have Representatives.

Elon was represented at the "Stay In School and Go To College" night held at the Burlington High School last Friday night by F. L. Gibbs. Mr. Gibbs spoke on "Why Stay in School?" and pointed out reasons why one should go to college; also how to act after one gets to college and many interesting things about college life.

This idea was started by the Burlington school several years ago and has been of great benefit as is shown by the number of its students going to college. Many other schools have adopted this plan. The University and six colleges of the State had representatives present. They were: University, Wake Forest, N. C. State, Davidson, Trinity, Guilford and Elon.

After the speeches a social was enjoyed. Refreshments were served and games and boxing were in the evening's fun.

Miss Mabel Wright was the guest of Miss Frances Turner, Reidsville, N. C., during Saturday and Sunday.
