

Elon Baseball Squad Shows Great Improvement Against Last Three Teams Played

BARKER IS GOOD

Holds Carolina Team to 3-2 Score in Ten-Inning Game Against Veteran Bryson.

ALLSTON BACK IN GAME

Team Meets Lynchburg, Wake Forest and Carolina in Games of the Past Week.

The Elon baseball squad has taken on new life in the last few games played. Although losing all three games played during the week the team has given stiff opposition and has fought to the last inning.

Elon met Lynchburg Friday, Wake Forest on Saturday, and Carolina on Monday. The games follow in detail:

Lynchburg Game

Lynchburg College landed on Brown hard in the first inning, scoring 5 runs, and Elon lost, 7 to 4. Clark, pitching his first game, weakened in the 9th and allowed three earned runs. After the initial inning the game was hard and cleanly fought. The score:

R. H. E.

Elon 4 9 2
Lynchburg 7 9 3

Brown and Brown; Clark and Suttentfield.

Wake Forest Game

Wake Forest took a well played game from Elon by a three to nothing score. It was the first game on the home grounds for the Christians, and was by far their best game.

Sorrell and Simmons did mound duty for the Baptists, Simmons relieving Sorrell at the close of the fourth frame. Together they allowed the Christians eight hits but kept them well scattered. While Barker allowed the visitors only seven hits, they came at time when a hit meant a run.

Scoring started in the sixth when Poole hit for two sacks, and tallied on Armstrong's single. Daniels' hit in the seventh coupled with a wild throw and an error gave him a run. Simmons brought in the third marker in the ninth when Greason doubled ahead of him.

bers Take Part.

The Christian Endeavor Society held Sunday night one of the most interesting meetings of the year. The meeting was led by Miss Sallie Mae Oliver. The subject of the meeting was "Decisions." Those discussing the subject were: "What harm comes from indecision," by M. L. Patrick.

"What has prayer to do with wise decisions," by J. L. Lynch.

"What does the Christian decision involve?" by R. M. Hook.

A piano solo was given by Miss Frankye Marshall.

Others speaking were: Miss Paschal, Mr. Abell, Miss Cowing, Dr. Lawrence, and Mr. Lynam. Discussion was made by Dr. W. A. Harper.

REV. T. F. OPIE SPEAKS AT CHAPEL THURSDAY

Speaks on "The Unconquered Empire," Pointing Out to Students the Importance of Self-Mastery.

One of the best addresses given at chapel this year was that delivered Thursday morning by Rev. Thos. F. Opie, rector of the Episcopal church at Burlington, N. C.

Rev. Mr. Opie chose for his subject, "The Unconquered Empire." Man is a conqueror and the whole history of the race shows that they have been conquerors. Man has conquered the three-fold kingdom: Water, air and earth. We conquer the earth by destroying the weeds and making the land to bloom with flowers. The earth contains vast resources of the elements, quite a few haven't been discovered. These elements which are God's wealth have been appropriated by man to make himself king. Distance isn't any concern now. When Columbus and his men crossed the mighty deep there was great fear amongst all as sight of land was lost, but Columbus, the great hero, said, "Sail on! Sail on!" In many places where water was destroying the earth man has turned its course and the water is now used to run machinery. Man has condensed and liquified air. He also flies in the air as if on the wings of eagles.

What is the unconquered empire? "He, who ruleth his own spirit is better than he that taketh a city." We are the unconquered empire. Are we controlling ourselves? What are we doing with our bodies? Suppose we could use our hands as we can use the earth. The church has a task to find consecrated hands to play hymns. We use our hands for ourselves. What are we doing with our tongues as teachers and students? We can consecrate our tongues to God and then not always be singing hymns. "Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control, these three alone lead life to sovereign power." When the world begins to think in these terms we will have world peace. We think ourselves either to heaven or hell. Our destiny is determined by our thinking.

Life is infinitely beautiful to those that have a mind to make it see the beautiful, the good and the true. The world needs men with strong wills to be noble, courageous and Christ-like. The soul of man is like a flower hidden under the leaves, trying to push its way up and out to the light. Man hasn't conquered the earth without tools. An instrument in conquering the spiritual world is religion or Christianity. Have we learned how to use it? Let us consider where we stand spiritually. To conquer the unconquered empire, we must think truly, act rightly, love sincerely, and trust in God securely.

LENOIR AND ELON WIN IN INTER-COLLEGIATE DEBATE HELD FRIDAY

Elon Wins 3-0 Here, Loses 2-1 at Lenoir—Peel, Atkinson Terrell and Patrick Represent Elon.

WAR DEBTS IS THE QUERY

The second inter-collegiate debate between Elon and Lenoir Colleges was held Friday night. The question for discussion was, "Resolved, That the Inter-Alleged War Debts Should be Cancelled."

Elon upheld the negative side at home and the affirmative at Lenoir.

Henry Peel and J. O. Atkinson, Jr., were the Elon negative speakers, while W. B. Terrell and M. L. Patrick defended the affirmative at Lenoir.

Elon won at home by a three to nothing vote, while Lenoir won over Elon by a two to one count.

The judges at Elon were D. J. Walker, E. N. Caldwell and S. J. Hinsdale. The marshals were S. H. Abell, Clark Hook, Ruby Rowland, and Clarine Linclon.

It was a forensic battle of the first magnitude. The affirmative centered their arguments upon three points: 1. Conditions require cancellation; 2. Cancellation would be good business for all concerned; and 3. The United States is morally bound to cancel the debts.

In an able endeavor to prove the first two points, Mr. Rhyne stated that Europe was not able to return to pre-war stability. This, he asserted, was due to the unequal exchange rate. Moreover this unstable exchange rate prohibited trade between the United States and Europe. Europe is able to pay only in goods. But America wishes to sell, not buy. Therefore, Mr. Rhyne argued that if America did not buy, the allies could not pay and the debts must be cancelled, or they would be repudiated. America, averred Mr. Rhyne, would gain far more by the resumption of trade which would follow the cancellation than she would lose by cancelling the debt.

Mr. Ritchie in a speech which was oratorical as well as fact-laden, affirmed that the war was our war and that the money loaned the allies was merely to pay them to fight our war until we entered it with men and arms. In glowing terms he lauded America's former policy of helping distressed and down-trodden humanity. We failed to keep our promise made to the allies at Versailles, he stated, and this desertion on America's part justified France in her stupendous military career which has made her unable to pay. Now, concluded Mr. Ritchie, if the United States demands payment, she will be acting the part of Shylock toward the broken allies, the faith of the thousands who now lay dead on Flanders field will be broken, and the noble ideals of America's former policy toward suffering, calamity stricken humanity will die an ignominious death.

The negative, however, did not so readily agree with the statements of the affirmative as the allies might desire.

Mr. Peel, opening for the negative, asserted that the allies are able to pay and that each of them have foreign investments, the value of which greatly exceed the debt which they wish to be cancelled. In further protest of the allies' inability to pay, he quoted statistics to prove that each of them had spent for military purposes since the war, from one and one-fourth to six times as much as they owe America. He affirmed that the allies are not trying to pay. Instead they are investing their money in military equipment and foreign securities. In reply to the assumption that we cannot receive this enormous amount of gold, he

M. W. HOOK RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE

M. W. Hook, president of Bethlehem College, Wadley, Alabama, has resigned his work there, his resignation to take effect at the close of this term of school. This is a Junior College and is just finishing its first year of work.

President Hook is a graduate of Elon of the Class of 1922, and has taken post-graduate work at Yale University. He married Miss Minnie Edge, a graduate of Elon in 1923 and she is also teaching at Bethlehem College this year.

EASTER PERIOD TO BE BUSY TIME THIS YEAR

Debate, Play, Easter Service, Ball Game and Other Activities to Take Place for Students.

The Easter season will be fittingly observed on the Elon campus, the activities beginning on Friday night with the annual Freshman-Sophomore debate. This will be followed on Saturday night by the annual entertainment of the Psi-Phi-Lian Literary Society. On Sunday and Monday the various religious organizations of the campus will hold appropriate Easter services, which will include an Easter egg hunt for the children of the orphanage here, and the activities will be completed with the ball game between Elon and Guilford in Greensboro on Monday afternoon.

The main item of these activities, however, is the entertainment by the Literary Society, which this year is to be in the form of a play entitled, "The Lady of the Library," by Edith F. A. W. Panton. Coaching and directing this play are Dr. Anna Helfenstein, Misses Mamie Sockwell and Mary Graham Lawrence. Those taking part in the entertainment are: Mary Hall Stryker, Marjorie Burton, Doris McLean, Bessie Martin, Alice Weber, Arline Lindsey, Nannie Aldridge, Clara Tuck, Annie Lee Floyd, Margaret Rowland, Rose Fulghum, Louise Home-wood, Fannie Glen Elder, Della Cotten, Essie Cotten, Madge Moffitt, Kate Strader, Mary Addie White, Victoria Adams, Gwendolyn Patton, Ruby Rowland, and Chiyo Ito.

The entertainment will be given in the graded school auditorium, because the society hall is not suitably arranged for giving plays.

EASTER CANTATA TO BE GIVEN HERE ON SUNDAY

Held at 8 P. M. Here—Be Given at Burlington Monday Night, Under Direction of Prof. Greenwood.

There will be an Easter Cantata given here Easter Sunday at 8 o'clock p. m., under the direction of Prof. Walter F. Greenwood. The cantata is "From Death To Life" by J. C. Bartlett and is considered his masterpiece. Mr. Bartlett is well known as a great writer of church music.

The chorus has been training for some time under Prof. Greenwood and this will no doubt be a treat for those who hear it. The chorus will be assisted by six soloists and an eight-piece orchestra.

There will be a devotional service preceding the cantata here at Elon Sunday.

This cantata will also be given at the First Christian church, Burlington, N. C., on Monday at 8 o'clock p. m. They will be assisted there by members of some of the church choirs of Burlington. Some members of the Burlington churches will also be present here Sunday to assist in the cantata.

INTERESTING CANVASS MADE OF MEMBERS OF SENIOR CLASS AT ELON

Class Has Forty Members Who Express Choice for Life Work; Teaching Profession Leads.

MINISTRY COMES SECOND

(By S. M. LYNAM)

A personal canvass of the Senior class here reveals some interesting information. Forty Seniors, twenty men and the same number of women have personally expressed their intended choices of life work. The choices vary widely, including eighteen different fields.

The teaching profession leads with eleven, seven women and four men, who are planning to give their lives to teaching. The Christian ministry runs second with seven, all men, who will fill pulpits. This is the largest number of ministers ever graduated at a single time by Elon College. Six of these men will work in the Christian church to which the college belongs, and one is a pastor in the M. E. Church, South. Missions and business tie for the third place, having three each. The future missionaries are all women while those going into just business are all men. Two women, one married and the other to be married, expressed themselves as planning to make homes. There are two physicians in the class, one man and one woman.

The remaining twelve fields are represented by one each. The educational field seems to predominate here since there is one who plans to devote herself to public school music, and another to the teaching of art in connection with its commercial value. One man is going into the educational field other than teaching, and one woman is to be a religious education director.

Science seems to be equally popular. There is to be one electrical engineer, a civil engineer, and a soil expert. A fourth is going into some form of scientific work. All the aspirants to the scientific field are men. One young woman plans to enter the nursing profession. She believes that it holds opportunities for a college woman larger than the profession of the physician, and appeals to her more.

One woman is planning to be a public accountant, another is to devote herself to the work of an accompanist for a voice teacher. One of the women of the class plans, after a brief teaching career to study law, and devote her energies to the Juvenile court work.

All the women members of the Senior class express themselves favorably toward

NEW CATALOGUES ARE NOW BEING DISTRIBUTED

Few Changes Are Made—All Departments Are Retained—School Opens September 3rd.

A few of the new catalogues for 1924-25 have been distributed already and it is expected that the distribution will increase rapidly in the next few days.

This number of the college bulletin has been carefully prepared and is quite an improvement over last year's issue.

The catalogue for the most part gives an insight into the college affairs. There are a few changes, however. The School of Religious Education will be broader than it has been heretofore and will offer more courses.

School will open September 3 for the next session and all the departments will be retained.
