CHARMING PARTY GIVEN GIRLS SATURDAY NIGHT

Misses Sterrett and Cooper Are Hostesses to Friends at Party in West Dormitory

Another charming party was given in West Dormitory last Tuesday evening. Mysterious blue print invitations were received by several of the girls on third floor saying that Miss Frances Sterrett and Miss Lillian Cooper would be at home that evening. Nine-thirty found the recipients of these invitations being ushered into a small unused room on third floor. The room had been artistically arranged with pillows, rugs and banners, with only one tall red candle to furnish light. After the girls were seated, a short program was enjoyed. Miss Ada McIntyre delighted her audience by giving a very amusing reading. After which a bountiful luncheon was served, which consisted of fruit salad, potato chips, olives and pickles, assorted sandwiches, cinnamon buns, cheese wafers and punch.

The guests of the evening were: Gladys Holt, Elsie Jones, Bab Gatewood, Ruth Horne, Lillie Horne, Emily Midyette, Madge Woods, Bessie Culpepper, Ada McIntyre, Carona Walker and Hatsu O'Hara.

Time for departing for their various rooms came too soon, for the girls. But it was voted as one of the nicest "northern parties" these southern girls had ever attended.

NEVELE CLUB HOLDS AN INTERESTING MEETING

Thursday evening there gathered round the cheery open fire in West Dormitory reception room, the members of the Nevele Club.

All were exceedingly interested in looking over the new books for the year. The selections seemed to be excellent.

Much amusement was furnished the club by a complaint having been made against Chief High Ret. It seems she had been negligent of her club duties. As it was her first offense, it was decided not to dispose her from office. At the next meeting Mrs. Barney will review Pollyanna of the Orange Blossoms, by Smith; Mrs. Alexander, Grey's "Call of the Canyon."

At the end of a very pleasant evening our hostess, Mrs. Kirkland served a dainty lunch.

THE CHAMPION

We were all interested in the outcome of the Olympic games. We were all interested in the World Series—and here's three cheers for our Capital City. We are as much interested in our football team. But speaking of champions—few people know that there is one in our midst all the time.

A boy who eats at one time—

One pound of sausage,

One pound of cheese—not Limberger,

One pound of crackers,

Ten green apples,

One bunch of celery, (unwashed.)

And still lives—

NEW MEMBERS FEATURE PSIPHELIAN'S PROGRAM

Program Covers Wide Range of Subjects. Misses Roney, Oliver and Tyerly Mentioned.

The best portion of the Psiphelian program this last week was the admirable work of those new members appearing on the program. Every one was self poised and showed no signs of uneasiness commonly spoken of as stage fright. The program was as follows:

I. Life Story of Harriet Beecher Stowe—Ruth Lyerly.

Miss Lyerly was thoroughly familiar with her subject and discussed freely the various incidents in the life of this Southern author.

II. Humor, by Doris McLean
Unusually good. She had many new jokes on various members of the student body and faculty.

III. Short Story—Mae Oliver.

A romance of a war hero and the nurse who saved his life was vividly portrayed. Of course they had the usual disagreements and misunderstandings. The author proved herself almost a genius by the unique and pleasant finale.

IV. Essay—The New South—Kathryn Roney.

This was a delightful contrast of the present South and that of forty years ago. The subject was treated under the divisions: economic, educational, social, and political. An interesting but little known fact that Miss Roney brought out in her paper is that the first steam railroad engine was used in South Carolina. The phenomenal expansion along educational lines was shown in a concise manner by a few well selected figures.

V. Piano Solo—Traumeri—Margaret Rowland.

This universally popular selection by Schumann was played sweetly and gracefully. Miss Rowland's interpretation was excellent.

VI. Current Events—Louise Caston.

They were both local and foreign, covering many important and interesting events before the public today.

VII. Reading—"Man O' Deeds"—Corinna Walker.

This comical selection was well received by the audience. Roney, Oliver and Lyerly, all new members were chosen as the best three on the program.

M. G. WICKER ELECTED STUDENT CHEER LEADER

M. G. Wicker, member of the Junior class has been elected chief cheer leader for the year to succeed J. H. Dollar who resigned last Saturday morning at a "pep" meeting held by the students.

Mr. Dollar's reasons for resigning is that he has church work on Sunday and in leading yells at games on Saturdays it hurts his throat and causes it to be sore on Sunday.

Mr. Wicker took charge at the game Saturday afternoon and led the yells and songs.

W. H. CARROLL SPEAKS TO LARGE AUDIENCE ON RECENT TRIP TO EUROPE

Prominent Burlington Attorney Speaks Here Wednesday Night On His Experiences Abroad.

INTERESTING MESSAGE

(By W. B. Terrell)

Hon. W. H. Carroll, prominent lawyer of Burlington and Alamance County, lectured to the students here last Wednesday evening on his recent trip to Europe.

Mr. Carroll and his wife visited Europe with a party of the American Bar Association as the guest of the Bar Association of Canada and England. They left home July 2, and went to New York where they visited the city and then sailed for Europe.

In opening his address Mr. Carroll said that it was good to visit other countries and see what they are doing. He said the country over there is the home of our ancestors. That Rome was the center of our civilization and religion. He said that the best time to visit Europe was soon after college course is finished. He pointed out that the trip would broaden education, would make people appreciate their libraries more. Mr. Carroll said that 90 per cent of all the guests in the hotels were Americans and that they were always glad to see each other.

Before telling of his experiences abroad Mr. Carroll gave his audience some good advice about the necessary preparation for such a trip. He said a person should map out tours, know where they are going. The best way was to get with a touring party and they would save a lot of trouble.

After arranging with touring party he explained the necessary procedure to secure a passport, and what it meant to a person to have one. Then the matter of money was discussed. He advised the buying of American Express Company checks because they were good anywhere on earth, and further that a person should not have any more money than they actually needed in traveling for in going from one country to another it was necessary to exchange the money and often times it cost a good bit in exchanging.

Mr. Carroll described some of the wonderful things he saw in New York City before he sailed. Among these was the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, which will be the largest in the world when completed. He also described the parting scenes at the harbor and of how he felt as the Statue of Liberty faded into the distance.

The first two days and nights out were peaceful. However when they were about 800 miles out they hit a storm for 48 hours. Mr. Carroll in describing this storm said that in making preparation for such a trip it was well to be able to say in times like this "Thy will be done."

He said the presence of other ships was a comfort to them. After the storm the trip was very calm.

When they were about 600 miles from land Mr. Carroll said thousands of sea gulls came out and followed their ships in. He said they would dip in behind the ship and then dip in front of it. He said this gave him a queer feeling.

After being on the water ten days the party landed at Le Havre. Here they passed through the custom houses and went through the formalities there. From Le Havre they took a train for Paris. Mr. Carroll said that the harbor at Le Havre was beautiful, that the
