MANY ON PROGRAM AT CLIO WEEKLY MEETING

for this and the literary session which followed gave rise to the following program:

Three States to Divide a River—D. W. Jones.

Mr. Jones gave some interesting facts, regarding this subject and brought out many items of interest regarding the contested river.

Humor—G. C. White.

Mr. White brought spice into the program with some timely jokes and spiced with some choice wit.

Clio Day—H. Richardson.

Mr. Richardson gave some interesting facts concerning Clio Day, as it was this year, as it has been in the past and as it is expected to be in the future.

Debate: Resolved, that war spreads civilization more than commerce.

D. L. Harrell, A. N. Greene, and Johnnie Lankford upheld the affirmative, while C. W. Dunn, A. H. Clark and E. L. Parkerson upheld the negative.

The debate was hotly contested by both sides. Many points of history were brought out. In fact, the burden (?) of the proof, on both sides was historical.

Programs such as this one make the society feel that it is fulfilling its mission of training its members in parliamentary law and in speaking ability.

The critic's report revealed the fact that all committed errors, but that improvement was easily noticed. The judges' report showed that the debate was won by the affirmative, that G. C. White was the best on the program and that A. N. Greene and E. L. Parkerson were the best on their respective sides.

MISS WINIFRED BARNEY SPONSOR FOR ATHLETICS

Since last week we find that there has been another sponsor chosen to add beauty to the pages of the Phipps. Little Miss Winifred Barney has been selected as sponsor for Athletics. She is the daughter of Prof. J. W. Barney, of the college faculty and graduate manager of Athletics.

Miss Barney is six years of age is a very popular child in the community here and is known by a great number of the students. She was chosen by the "E" men's club. This is a great honor to her.

Case Dismissed

A few weeks ago Frank Atkinson, the celebrated film editor, had his machine stolen, and although it was of somewhat ancient vintage, he was tickled to death when it was recovered through the theft bureau of the auto club.

When the case came up in Court, the judge said to the thief: "As I understand it, you not only stole this car, but you drove it over a hundred miles, fully intending to get it across the Mexican border."

At this juncture Atkinson almost brought himself into contempt of Court by crying out:

"Mr. Judge, if that fellow drove that car a hundred miles, I would like to withdraw prosecution. He's a genius."

Cause for Haste

Bill Roarer had a tremendously loud voice. One cold morning he walked into the village hotel and shouted out:

"Good morning, landlord! How are you?"

"Very well," came the reply. "How are you?"

"Oh, I'm about frozen—I can hardly talk."

Just then a nervous traveler who was present ran up to the landlord, exclaiming:

"Please have my horse brought around as soon as possible."

"Why, what's the matter?" asked the landlord.

"Nothing. Only I want to get away before that man thaws!"

BOOSTERS' CLUB MAKES TWO SUCCESSFUL TRIPS

Presents Programs at Stokesdale and at Pittsboro.

On Thursday, March 12, the Boosters' Club journeyed to Stokesdale and gave a very good program. The usual numbers were given with the exception of a piano duet furnished by Misses Clapp and Dillinger of Stokesdale. Perry Smith, Dwight Spence and Frank Alexander were visitors along with the club. Gibbs was out of the gym quartet because of injury and Gordon Holland was missed by the string orchestra. He is now undergoing an operation in the hospital. Mr. L. P. Rippey, a graduate of Elon, and Miss McCollum, a former student, made things very pleasant for the club along with the kind hospitality afforded by others.

Tuesday evening, March 17, the club ventured as far as Pittsboro. The hospitality shown the members there was unusually good. On arriving they were ushered into the homes of the people where a delightful dinner was enjoyed. At 7:45 the program was under way and the members were anxious to put on the best program ever attempted.

Mr. Ford was accompanied by Mr. Stanley in the beginning. On their guitars they set a high standard for those who were to follow.

McNeil, Thomas, Stanley and Williams received encore after encore. The quartet was one of the outstanding features. The members had to lay aside all assumed dignity and "just sing."

Stanley and Thomas were not "too tired" to play "Too Tired." The audience would not let them get away without giving an encore.

The duet by Stanley and Sharpe was much appreciated.

Dr. Alexander gave the address for the evening. His words were very timely, and appreciated by the audience. There is no greater booster of Elon than Dr. Alexander.

At their appearance the regular gym team was present and as usual worked nicely. Gilliam, as clown, was repeatedly applauded. The quartet, as a whole, pulled many new stunts which thrilled the audience from time to time.

Under Obligation

They had both been discharged from the service for many months and had been in civilian clothes long enough to become used to the flappy sensation about the calves, so Vet A became alarmed over his companion's sanity when he observed him snap into it and hand a passing civilian an old-style highball.

"Whatever salutin' that bimbo for?" he demanded.

"He saved my life once," answered Vet B.

"Well, that's all right, then, but how come?"

"He was a medico in our outfit. I was about to kick off, an' they sent for him. Well, he didn't show up."

His Depression Justified

He was a sentimental youth who had been suffering for some time with severe lovesickness. One morning he turned up at the office looking the picture of abject misery.

"What's the matter?" asked his employer.

"I can hardly tell you," the boy replied unsteadily. "I—I—I—have at last proposed—and have been turned down."

"Tut-tut," replied his employer cheerfully. "It will turn out all right in the end. A woman's 'no' often means 'yes.'"

"Perhaps it does," was the sorrowful reply, "but this woman didn't say no; she just laughed."

"Gray is an ungrateful cuss."
 "What's he done now?"

"He won a hundred dollars for a slogan to boost his home town and used the money to move away."

Spring Styles

Full, manly, robust fashions, with the lightest of colorings in the fine wove fabrics, the weaving adding so much to the proper drape and hang. The newer styles now showing at Collegiate Corner, Greensboro, in the Jefferson Standard Building.
