LOVE!

Love is like a trunk—if you don't check it in time, you have to express it. Love is what tempts a man to tell foolish lies to a woman and a woman to tell the fool truth to a man.

Love is misery, sweetened with imagination, salted with tears, spiced with doubt, flavored with novelty, and swallowed with your eyes shut.

Love is only an episode in a man's life, but the entire history of a woman's life.—The Log.

"I call my girl 'Grapefruit.'"

"Why?"

"Because every time I squeeze her she hits me in the eye."

ZONA GALE ON FREEDOM EXAMINATIONS AND THE OPEN MIND

Zona Gale, author of "Faint Perfume," "Miss Lulu Bett" and other novels, and a prominent liberal, was recently interviewed by a reporter of the "Harvard Crimson."

"Complete freedom," said Miss Gale, "is the goal of education as it is of everything else. Every branch of human activity is undergoing an extension of freedom today. Religion, art, government, education, they are all changing their form, outgrowing them and advancing to a higher plane."

Examinations were going on at Harvard and Miss Gale expressed her opinion of them: "The whole examination system is wrong. It depends too much upon luck and a certain kind of cleverness. It is just another addition to the useless drudging, which keeps education back."

Frankly, she continued: "I do not see any immediate remedy for the situation. But the ultimate solution is the abolition of all examinations and the substitution of class discussions as the only method of testing a student's knowledge. This, of course, will necessitate smaller classes, or more teachers, or both, and that seems hard to realize with the ever increasing growth of our universities. Perhaps the rise of a junior college may help to solve the problem."

"There are a great many practical difficulties in the path of a greater educational freedom, but an open mind and a liberal idealism will do much toward overcoming them."

"Man will always remain man, but he can change just as radically as the carbon, which is always carbon, may change from coal to a diamond, and in this process a free education is essential."—New Student.

HOW THEY ARE KISSED

The Brenau girl bows her stately head,
And fixes her stylish lips
In a firm, hard way—and lets 'em go,
And sips, and sips, and sips.

The Columbia girl has a way of her own,
In a clinging, soulful way;
She takes a kiss that's just as big
As a wagon load of hay.

The Converse girl gets a grip on herself
And carefully takes off her hat;
Then grabs the man in a frenzied way
Like a terrier shaking a rat.

The Chicora girl just arches her eyes
So cool—so cold—so glum;
She sticks out her lips like an open book,
And keeps on chewing gum.

But the Winthrop girl never says a word,
She's too gentle, timid and tame;
But she grabs a young man by the back of the neck,
And gets there just the same.

—The Davidsonian.

I've eaten my chow when I've found it,
I've boned and flunked in my time.
I've had my lessons a plenty,
And some of them were prime.
Oh—some of the profs were boresome,
Others were nice as could be;
While some made me glad, but the most made me sad,
So learn about flunking from me.

Now, I've taken my fun where I found it,

I've dragged and flunked in my time
I've studied like a regular ol' sinner
Till I was thin as a dime.

Now, I've flunked and I'm thinking—
Dreaming of college to see—?
So be warned of my lot (but I'll bet you will not)

So learn about flunking from me.

BLANK VERSE

"The wind is blowing through the trees;
The old gray mare is on her knees;
I feel quite like a piece of cheese—
I have a cold, and cannot sneeze."
