A student body that won't be beaten, can't be beaten.

Examinations are only a week off, we wish you well during that period.

—EC—

Reports that we get from the "gymn" are to the effect that our basketball prospects are exceptionally good. What we need to do, as a student body, is to get that old fighting spirit up, and keep it up, too.

A SUGGESTION TO THE ALUMNI

Why don't you write us a few lines about yourself? Are you too bashful to tell us about the good luck you have had since you left college, or how many times you have been married? Well, that's all right. We are always glad to hear from you, so step right up and be the first to tell us how the world is serving you.

MALICIOUS FUN

On last Sunday night in the North Dormitory there was perpetrated a deed of which the students have all been reminded. It is well to use the term deed because that word coupled with an epithet is the only expression that we can think of that in the least describes the thing. For several weeks the joker has held sway and with all due respects for the goats of the jokes we are bound to admit that some very clever jokes have been pulled off.
But when the joking gets to the point that the jokers have to start a fire in a dormitory, full of sleeping boys, we claim that the joke business has lost the joke aspect and become criminal.

The known details of the affair are that some person or persons went to the trouble to get a trash barrel from the basement of the North Dormitory and carry it to the third floor. This trash was then soaked with oil and set afire.
Now, if it had been intended for a joke we feel sure that the jokesters would have stayed around to put the fire out. Instead of that another person who happened to come out into the hall turned the fire extinguisher on the flame. On the other hand we are bound to admit that there is a possibility of any one being in the dormitory or of any one getting into the building who would deliberately start such a thing.

Outside of the fact that such a thing as this is a penitentiary offense in the eyes of the law there is a general feeling that whoever took part in the thing should be given free transportation home, after they have been given a good old-fashioned beating by every boy in the dormitory who can get his hands on him, or them.

Leaving aside the side of the question that was discussed in chapel we speak from the viewpoint of the boys who sleep in that building when we say that any one who took part in that thing would do very well to keep under cover about it and well under cover at that. Any one who has any knowledge of it would also do well to keep under cover about it because it must be remembered that such a person is an accomplice in the eyes of the law.

Now, finally, let us have our dormitory bonfires outside of the buildings. If you were not here during the time of the big Elon fire ask some one who was, before you take part in anything of the kind again. Also ask some one about the power house fire of last year, you will find that even during the noise that was raised that night some of the boys never woke up. What chance would they have of getting out of the North Dormitory were it to catch on fire, or were it to burn? If you don't consider your fellow student's right to sleep and to study, for goodness sake consider his right to live.

Green Onions

The Boosters' Club has returned, after shattering all rules of conduct and etiquette. This has indeed been a wonderful trip. The absence of taking gymn and the chicken, turkey, pie, cake, etc., of Virginia made the earth have a greater gravitation for the boys. Even "Henry" Crymes, "Flos-sies" McLeod, and Clinton Lea who had been given up as hopeless, gained in weight, (though Clinton refuses to tell how much).

While the boys were on the trip, they had the pleasure of visiting the Planters' peanut and candy factory. We are afraid the company ran short of a few peanuts and pieces of candy that day.

—Pussyfoot, Jr.

While we're on the subject, have you heard Gibbs singing: "Somebody stole my gal," and Ruston singing: "Yes, Sir, that's my baby?"

The Optimist

The optimist fell ten stories And at each window bar
He shouted to his friends:
"All right so far."

Students, I shall give a few hints on how to pass your exams:

- 1st. Call them "Dumb-bell," they like it.
- 2nd. Laugh at every wise crack they pull.
- 3rd. Buy them a doll from Lambeth's place and make them a present of it.
I mean one with the respective professors name on it.
- 4th. Make high grades.
- 5th. Study!
- 6th. STUDY!!

Have You Ever Tried It?

You see a pretty girl walking down the street. She is singular, you nominative. You walk across to her, you change to plural, then you become dative. You walk home with her. Her mother becomes accusative and you become imperative. You kiss her and she becomes masculine. Things are tense, her father becomes present, and you become a past principle.

Early to bed
 Early to rise
 And your girl goes out
 With other guys.

We have students here from several states. Even Cuba is represented. But have you seen the latest? Two young shicks from Mexico. More results of the Boosters' trip.

As for Mr Ruston's speech on Elon supporters at the entertainments in Virginia. Possibly the gentleman meant that Manager Cannon had the Boosters to wear elastic above their socks while on the stage—hence the Elon supporters.

To The Dianas of The Chase

Girls, girls, there they go.
 Some are fast, and some are slow.
 Here they meet, with wild elation, Scorching one another's reputation.
 Garrulous, fabulous, fat and lean, Serious, frivolous, and in between.
 All with a purpose plain to see,
 Sent to college after you and me.
 But really they're a necessity, For otherwise we'd not be.
 And life without them is—Hades, Love them? Yes, God bless ladies.

Apologies to Shakespeare

Full many a jam has made a brow serene Grow furrowed with an earnest wish to swear;
 Full many a flour is bread to burn unseen
 And waste its fragrance on the kitchen air.

Diner: (In cafe) "This fish isn't as good as that I got here last week." Waiter: "That's funny, it's off the same fish."

The Freshman comes for sports,
 The Sophomore for knowledge;
 The Junior comes for glory,
 The Senior to run the college.

tion."

"Yes, no family should be without

PROPOSAL IS MADE FOR FOUR-GAME SCHEDULE

render impossible the choice of mythical national and even sectional champions.
Many teams would remain undefeated instead of a few.

"With this aspect removed less publicity would be given the game by the press and the public imagination would not be whetted so that the fever of interest would be forced up within the undergraduate bodies.

"The necessity for spring and early season training would be done away with since the four games would be played on successive week-ends beginning late in October. Practice, as at present could start two or three weeks before the first game.

"The crescendo of interest, at present, extending over eight games, would be limited to four games; and so the large percentage of attention given football now would be lessened by the cutting down of the length of the season.

"Colleges playing teams only in their own class and vicinity would minimize the commercial aspect of schedule making and no college teams would be called upon to sacrifice themselves in order to make money for their institutions as at present. The altruistic motive given for these set-up games."

When our English cousins speak of second hand garments, they say "left off" where we say "cast off." The following advertisement recently appeared in a London paper:

"Mr. and Mrs. Hardy have left off clothing of all kinds. They can be seen any day from 3 to 6 p. m.

Johnny—"Did Moses have dyspepsia like what you've got."

Dad—"How on earth do I know.
Why do you ask such a question?"

Johnny—"Well our Sabbath school teacher says the Lord gave Moses two tablets."

Pride always goes before a good old fashioned licking.

It is not the guns or armament or the more they can pay

It's the close cooperation that makes them win the day.

It is not the individual or the army as a whole,

But the everlasting team work of every bloomin' soul.

A few pennies may save your life!

YOU are exposed to tuberculosis germs every day. The only sure defense against tuberculosis is to stamp out the dread disease entirely. It can be done.

Today only one person dies from tuberculosis where two died before. The death rate from consumption has been cut in half by the organized warfare carried on by the tuberculosis crusade. This organized warfare to stamp out this dread disease is financed by the sale of Christmas Seals.

Buy Christmas Seals. Buy as many as you can. They cost but a penny apiece—but your dollars, added to other dollars, will save many lives and protect you and your family from the spread of tuberculosis.

These seals are to be sold in Elon under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association. They will be sold at the College Store, at the Post Office, and by Individual Vendors. The proceeds will be divided between the National Tuberculosis Association and the Elon Public Schools.
