Time and tide wait for no man, and the life and spirit of one's Alma Mater is constantly moving onward and will eventually leave its graduates far behind unless they make frequent visits back to their college and keep up with its activities.

In the passing of a very few years numerous changes have occurred at Elon that make it a very different place from which a great many students graduated a few years ago. Chief among these changes is the great increase in the size and number of buildings which alone gives the campus a different appearance and makes the former students feel that they are in a different environment from that of the mental picture which they still treasure.

Other changes have occurred in the social clubs and literary societies, that are about as great as the change in the appearance of the campus. These, with numerous other changes that are not quite so noticeable, have brought a change in the life and spirit of the college that makes the former student feel that he is a stranger; and, if he is not a critical nature, and most of us are, he jumps to a hasty conclusion that things are not as they should be merely because they aren't as they once were.

Therefore, it is the privilege and duty of each member of the Alumni to visit the college as often as possible to keep himself acquainted with the changing conditions in order that he may be a fair-minded judge of the progress that the school is making.

Maroon and Gold

Care P. G. Hook, Editor,
Elon College, N. C.
My dear "Handsome":

We read "Maroon and Gold" every week with great interest. Keep up the good work that you have started. The paper is by far the best that I have ever seen at Elon and I am delighted with the outlook.

With all good wishes for your continued success, I am

Sincerely yours,
Gladys H. Yates,
Office Secretary.

Prof. C. James Velie and Miss Florence Fisher of the Music Department attended a meeting of the Eutorpe Club in Greensboro Saturday afternoon. "Absolute Music" was the subject. From Mrs. A. P. Noell's Music Notes we glean the following:

"A masterly discourse from Prof. C. James Velie awakened interest in this highest form of music which is composed according to established form and is independent of any setting or external appeal or associations for its effects. This music of purely aesthetic beauty never sacrifices form and thus is distinguished from program or operatic music.

"Miss Florence Fisher sweetly sang, "Come Sweet Morning," "Old Sweet Lullaby" by Comer, and "Charmant Papillon" by Campa. Miss Fisher was accompanied by Prof. C. James Velie at the piano."

Our musicians are in constant demand throughout the state by music clubs and organizations, and we want to congratulate the Music Department and the college on having such a man as Prof. Velie as the director of music for our institution.

MAKERS OF MEN

Makers of men, thou teachers fair,
Thy years are covered with hoary hair;
Thy minds are furrowed with learning deep,
Wielding a power that puts us to sleep.

Teachers by nature, teachers by force,
Trying to drag us along through your course,
We have a feeling within our breasts,
That makes us sick when you give your tests.

Despite our seeming dislike for work,
Prone to indifference, ready to shirk;
Mourn not o'er hardships we cause you to bear,
You'll make us men by sympathy and care.

—H. George Robertson.
