

A Compliment To Our Community
And To Us

One of North Carolina's best known druggists paid us a visit a few days ago, and this was his comment:
"Elon College is the only community of its size in this State that affords the services of a Registered Pharmacist, and a Good Drug Store twelve months in the year. Your service offers everything from Prescriptions for the Measles to Art Supplies, and the Best Toasted Sandwiches, and Hot Coffee I ever tasted."

Dear Readers:

Now that you have read Dr. Hokum's stuff, what do you think of it? There are some who declare that the Dr. shows an amazing insight, and that he measures his victims with astounding accuracy. Others, equally vehement, pronounce his work to be a piece of mephitic defamation emanating from the mind of a mere nincompoop. The best and snappiest answers to Dr. Hokum's allegations, handed in before noon on Monday, February 13th, will appear in this column next issue.

Yours, etc.,
Dr. Hokum.

The Nevele Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting in the reception room of West Dormitory Tuesday evening, January 31st, with Mrs. C. J. Velie as hostess. The program consisted of a review of the life and works of Marie Ostenso by Mrs. Walker and also "Wit and Humor" by Mrs. Walker. Miss Johnston read two selections, "Oh, No," and "Home," by Edgar A. Guest.

Plans were made for the tea to be given to the college girls. Refreshments, served by Mrs. Velie, were Bavarian cream, Angel food cake, nuts, mints, and cocoa.

The girls of Elon College will be given tea by the Nevele Club in the Y. W. C. A. from 4:00 till 5:30 o'clock, on Wednesday afternoon, February 8th.

Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Jay entertained at a delightful dinner party Friday evening, February 3rd. After dinner two tables of Rook were arranged. The guests were: Mrs. Frances Ring, Miss Louise Savage, Miss Florence Fisher, and Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Alexander.

Messrs. Hinton Rountree, A. M. Stephenson, Rudolph Corbitt, Lee Meadows, William Walker, and Dorsey Woodlief spent the week-end in Raleigh at North Carolina State College.

Misses Rachel Johnston, Julia Page Potter, Myrtle Teely, and Mary Horne spent the week-end at their respective homes in Burlington, N. C.

Miss Margart Moffitt spent the week with her parents in Asheboro, N. C.

Misses Graham and Birdie Rowland were at their home in Greensboro for the week-end.

Arthur Fowler visited his family in Erwin, N. C., during the week-end.

Mabel Michael, C. P. Thompson, Ollie Deaton, and J. R. Walker are out after being quarantined with measles.

Miss Frances Turner spent the week-end in Burlington with Mr. and Mrs. Barbee.

Miss Frances Sterrett was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Holt of Burlington.

Miss Gladys White spent the week-end at her home in Danville, Va.

ALAMANCE COUNTY CONCERT COURSE WAS HUGE SUCCESS

with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at Carnegie Hall.

Max Rosen's playing is marked for its smoothness and golden tones. In the Press Comments for 1925, the New York American applauds Max Rosen for his refined performance and remarks that, temperamentally, he is inclined less to fire, and more to finesse.

His music touched the hearts of all those present and his final encore, Souvenir, brought tears to the eyes of the care-free students and caused many cases of home-sickness.

The final concert of the series will be given by Arthur Kraft, noted tenor, on March 7, 1928.

LITERARY

INTERESTING MEETING

The Psykaleon Literary Society held its regular meeting on Monday evening, February 6. Miss Alma Rountree and Miss Charlotte Roberts were elected as Junior representatives for commencement speakers. After the business session was over the following officers were installed: Miss Ruth Kimball, president; Miss Idell Jones, Supervisor, and Miss Susie Elder, secretary. The following new members were taken in: Miss Irene Delaney of Reidsville, and Miss Clarice Dickerson of Bunn. We are sure these new members will prove to be worthy additions to our society. We also hope that each Freshman will join one of the Literary Societies, because of the great educational value derived from active participation in the work of a literary society.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER
CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT DUKE UNIVERSITY

(C. P.)

Plans are rapidly maturing for the Student Volunteer Conference which will be held at Duke University from 17-19 of February. At this conference it is expected that more than two hundred delegates will be present, representing every college and university in the state, as well as thirty colored delegates from the various institutions for the negroes in North Carolina.

Prominent speakers have been arranged, as well as many promising social functions. Dr. Edmund D. Soper, speaker at the Detroit Convention during the Christmas holidays, and W. Y. Chenn, graduate of Cornell University, are on the tentative list of speakers. Mr. J. D. Stout of Duke, recently elected chairman of the social committees for the conference, stated here today that nothing would be spared to make the convention a success.

The meeting of this group was held last year at Elon College. Leadership of the volunteer conference will be given over largely to undergraduates from the various colleges in the state, who have already been notified.

HONOR SYSTEM IS STILL INTACT

(C. P.)

Duke University, Durham, N. C.—In a referendum vote here the Honor System was upheld by a vote of 509 to 232. This ballot was rather surprising since many predicted that the Honor System would be voted out. During the examinations just passed eight cases were reported by students, something that is unprecedented here, and more cases than had been reported by students here in the past two years. The shortcomings of the system have been attributed to the lack of knowledge on the part of freshmen.

Already the committee is at work attempting to revise the Honor Code, and very soon officials expect to be able to report one of the most effective Honor Systems in the state.
