A TRIBUTE TO DAD

Here's to the man that flirted with mother, Courted and won her in place of another;

Loving and faithful, toiler of men, Servant of Duty, and Honesty's friend.

In times of great suff'ring, sorrow and sweat,

He's stood by her side, and stands by her yet.

The world may have lured him with riches and fame,

But I've never heard him mention their name.

My nature he trusted as long as he could

And dared to support it with sound Hickory wood.

These muscles he strengthened by labor and play,

Insisting on something constructive each day.

My future's before me,—the race is to run,—

The best that is in me is yet to be done.

The eyes of the world may watch me in vain

For something important to come from my strain,

But nothing can alter the deep-seated aim

To honor and cherish my father's good name.

The highway of Progress these feet may not press,

But here's hoping the devil will have to confess,

He's failed to mislead me from father's old path

By cunning deceit or unpardonable wrath.

The passing of Time has turned his hair gray

But Heaven and Hope have left his heart gay.

I hope it is possible in ages to be,

My son will as justly think upon me, Cherish my dream and labor to show

His children as honestly the best way to go,—

For only by living do men learn to love And measure their lives by standards above.

A pound of honey is produced by the hard labor of over 500 bees working throughout their span of life.

Henry Emmens of Hull, Eng., had Ruth Marley, a servant arrested for stealing his trousers to wear at a masquerade dance.

"BE SURE YOUR SINS WILL FIND YOU OUT"

will have come; and "who will be able to stand?"

Examinations! You know what they are. If you don't, find out now. Hurry it up, or else "woe is me!" This is your warning and the time for "sack cloth and ashes." I am not trying to make you fearful; nor would I have you to become unduly alarmed for your scalp. You are your own true self and probably have an abundance of gray matter in the "upper story." But the first word in this paragraph proves too much for several individuals every year. When the dust of the fray has settled and the spoils are divided impartially, will you still be under the banner of Maroon and Gold, or will you be only a "has been"? A few more days are left for work and—a hint to the wise is sufficient.

The Earl of Tankerville, aged 76, sang a solo and 16 encores at a concert in Chatton, England.

Miss Jane Cox, of Boston, who died at 96, had three sisters who lived to 89, 87, and 84.

A Scottish girl has asked the Mayor of Edinburgh to find her a husband "big and strong, refined and affectionate."

Albert Darville, of Houston, Texas, stole his wife's wig and sold it to take another woman to a dance.
