KAPPA PSI NU BANQUET VERY SUCCESSFUL

Largest Attendance In History of Club.

The tenth annual banquet of the Kappa Psi Nu Fraternity was held in the Y. M. C. A. last Saturday evening from 6:30 to 9:30. The banquet was acclaimed a huge success by all present and was one of the outstanding social affairs occurring on the Hill this year.

At 6:30, some fifty Kappa Psi Nu men with their fair ladies marched out of the West Dormitory and over to the "Y." As the couples entered the banquet hall the orchestra was playing a soft air which made the guests feel at home. As soon as the men had seated their ladies, all of the active members assembled on the stage and gave the Fraternity yell. Then the most serious part of the evening began, the eats. The delicious five course dinner was broken into from time to time by some part of the program.

The program commenced with the welcome by the toastmaster, H. George Robertson, which was replied to by Mrs. Robertson. D. P. Barrett, Jr., gave a very hearty welcome to the old men present. To this welcome M. L. Patrick very heartily and forcefully replied. Miss Ella Marie Keyser, Elon's well known soloist, entertained the group with two beautiful solos. R. S. "Soe" Rainey, with his well known humor and wit, kept the group laughing for some time. He clearly showed that even though he had been away from us for some time, he had not for

SOPHOMORE CLASS WINS IN CLASS ISSUE CONTEST

Maybe it would be an interesting fact to let the student body know that the Sophomore Class won the contest in the Supremacy of Journalism by Classes. A unanimous decision was given the Sophomore issue, as to the best editorials, and general make up of the paper. As to the other three issues, there was a general sameness.

One of the most significant factors was the whole-hearted interest given by the different groups in getting out their respective issues. Never was there such spirit displayed on the campus in the history of Elon College, in endeavoring to accomplish something.

The Freshmen, under the able leadership of Mr. Roy Richardson, demonstrated their earnest efforts by co-operating and getting out plenty of copy with which to fill the columns.

The Sophomores had a little trouble in getting out their issue, due to the culling of many of their news articles, which were considered too radical. Well, you know that the Sophs are always the hottest bunch in town.

The Juniors and Seniors worked as veterans, but only secured mention.

ORGANIZATION OF BOYS' GLEE CLUB COMPLETED

The Boys' Glee Club has completed the organization by the election of the following officers: President, Elbert Rhodes; Vice-President, Levi Wilkins; Secretary, Leonard Doster; Business Manager, E. E. Kipka.

On Thursday of last week, the boys entertained the members of the faculty and student body in chapel. Their program consisted of six numbers. It was greatly enjoyed by all. It is rumored that Dr. Harper was well pleased with the showing the boys made and promised them that as soon as the program is ready they would make a trip. The trip, will more than likely, be into Southeastern Virginia. Prof. Velie, who is director of the club, is working hard to prepare the programs. The boys are likewise taking a great deal of interest in the work by attending the rehearsals regularly. We all hope they will be able to go and wish them success in whatever they attempt, and may it be for the betterment of Elon.

SCENE FROM "THE BOOMERANG"

EXPRESSION DEPARTMENT PUTS "THE BOOMERANG" ACROSS WITH A BANG

All those who saw the play, "The Boomerang," found that even doctors who never have patients employ nurses—especially if they're good-looking, and that almost all doctors can find something wrong with every one, even a "Mother's Boy."

Dr. Gerald Sumner even though he had never had a patient could not resist the temptation of employing Virginia Xelna as his nurse, even though she admitted she had no references. Neither could Dr. Gerald resist the temptation of trying to cure a love-sick boy who was in the last stages of jealousy; and since "All's well that ends well" Dr. Sumner came out all right with his experiments.

While Dr. Gerald was prescribing for his love-sick patient he succeeded in falling in love himself and finally, in curing his patient to such an extent that his patient became engaged to a girl Dr. Gerald had forbidden him to see.

Such was the story of the play that the Expression Department gave so successfully Friday night, March 1.

Each one in the play gave of his very best to make the play a success, and they succeeded. Many of the actors and actresses have appeared before the public many times before and many of you are familiar with their acting ability. But in "The Boomerang"

L. C. WILLIAMS

Society: Philologist.
Fraternity: Iota Tau Kappa.
Honors: President Sophomore Class '28-'29; Intercollegiate Debater '28-'29; Philologist Entertainer '27-'28; Representative State Oratorical Contest '27-'28. Received Philologist Oratorical Medal '27-'28. Freshman Class Debater '27-'28.

L. C. Williams has been an outstanding student since coming to Elon. He came to us with a record as an orator, and since coming he has brilliantly defended his record. We feel sure that as Managing Editor of the Maroon and Gold he will serve as faithfully as he has in the other capacities in which he has made such splendid records.

MR. ANDREWS SPEAKS TO ECONOMICS CLUB

March the first, at 4:30 o'clock, Mr. W. H. Andrews, Assistant Manager of the Jefferson Life Insurance Company, spoke to the Economics Club, using as his subject, "Development of Life Insurance Under the American System." Mr. Andrews talked like a man who knows the life insurance business from experience and brought to the club many interesting and worth-while facts on insurance.

He says insurance companies are devoting much attention to college men and women, employing many of them yearly, and outlined bright prospects for the hustling college man who wishes to enter the insurance field.

He compared the American life insurance system with the English system as this, The English insurance companies sit and wait for business to come to them while the Americans get out and look for the business, this being a great asset to the American system. He also explained how systematic everything is carried on in the insurance business, this being a great saver of time as well as of money.

Mr. Andrews' talk will long be remembered by members of the Economics Club as one of the best that has been given.

Miss Malva Hight, a former student here, was on the hill for the B. O. B. banquet Saturday night. Miss Hight is now working in Raleigh.

STUDENT RECITALS ATTRACTING ATTENTION

The program given on Thursday, February 28, showed the improvement that has taken place in the work of the students of the Music Department. One of the most interesting features of these recitals is the opportunity that they present of noticing the progress made by music pupils.

Miss Mary Rawles Jones represented the Expression Department by giving a charming little musical reading, "The Youngest in the Family."

Those taking part on the program were: Mary Nell Jay, Helen Barney, Elizabeth Barney, Virginia Jay, Cornelia Troxler, Merrill Caviness, Lala Patterson, Bessie McKinney, Jewel Pressnell, Mary Rawles Jones, Paul Magee, and Ruth Smith.

Some of the best work being done in school this year is being accomplished in the Music Department. Perhaps the best way to show that we recognize the fact is to attend these recitals.

The New Co-ed Editor

ALMA KIMBALL

Alma is always faithful to every trust. Her loving disposition has won for her many friends in Elon. We feel sure that with Alma as Co-ed Editor the Maroon and Gold will hold its own with other college papers.

STUDENT RECITALS ATTRACTING ATTENTION

The fortnightly recitals given by students of the Music and Expression Departments are attracting visitors from outside the Conservatory. Much favorable comment has been received concerning last week's recital. The recitals are of unusual merit and a high standard of performance is being set. These recitals are held in the chapel, and everybody is cordially invited to attend. The next will be given Thursday afternoon, March 14th, at 4:30.

Miss Eassie Mae Cotten, '24, was present at the B. O. B. banquet. Miss Cotten is assistant pastor at the Christian Church, Burlington.

The persistent ringing of a doorbell aroused the members of a family in Holyoke, Mass., and averted what might have been a disastrous fire. Defective wires in the cellar had caused the blaze, which in turn made the short circuit that rang the bell.

A. A. RODRIGUEZ

Society: Clio.
Fraternity: Kappa Psi Nu.
Honors:

Certificates in Bookkeeping and Typewriting, respectively, '28; Clio Improvement Medal '28; Critic of the Clio Literary Society '28; Class Marshal '28; Dramatic Actor '28 and '29; Church Usher '28-'29; Clio Literary Society Reporter '28-'29; Member Economics Club '28-'29; Member of the Board of Directors, Economics Club, '29; Maroon and Gold Reporter '28-'29; Clio Entertainer '29; Clio Literary Society Treasurer '28-'29; Clio Program Committee '28-'29; Managing Editor Maroon and Gold, Sophomore Issue, '29; Business Manager Maroon and Gold '29.

"Roddy," as he is commonly known on the campus, came to us about two years ago. Previous to this time he had taken his B. S. Degree in a college in Havana, Cuba. His chief purpose in coming to Elon was to learn the English Language.

After taking Special English under Prof. Barney for a while, Roddy took up the regular course in Freshman English in the Fall of '27. The grades which he made on this course are much higher than those of many students who had spoken the English Language their entire life.

Roddy has received quite a few honors at Elon, but not one of these has been bestowed without being deserved. This young man is a good friend to every one, likes to see things done in the right way and does his uttermost in the interest of co-operation in all College Activities.

EMORY AND HENRY DEBATING TEAM BOWS TO ELON

In what was probably one of the most hotly as well as ably contested debates ever heard here, the Elon College debating team, composed of Messrs. Clyde Foushee and David Shepherd, emerged victorious by a two to one decision over the exceedingly strong arguing lads from Emory and Henry College, February 27. The query was: Resolved, That a substitute for trial by jury should be adopted. Emory and Henry presented the affirmative side in a seemingly faultless style, but the

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET PLEASANT OCCASION

On Wednesday evening, February the twenty-seventh, the Juniors and Seniors met in the Y. M. C. A. hall of Elon College to enjoy the annual banquet from 6:00 until 9:00. The tables were arranged in true banquet fashion. Yellow candles in crystal candle-holders which were tied with purple ribbon, added to an enchanting scene. The nut cups, programs, and flowers on the toastmaster's table carried out the color scheme of purple and gold.

Cameron Weightman, the toastmaster, cordially welcomed the Seniors. This toast was responded to by Phalti Lawrence. Messrs. Levi Wilkins, Allan Laxton, E. E. Kipka and E. F. Rhodes sang a quartette. "Question Mark" was the topic of the talk made by Prof. Van Cleave. Other interesting and much enjoyed items on the program were a solo by Miss Ella Keyser; The Junior by Miss Newman; the Senior by Dr. Newman; Humorous Reading by Miss Stout. Then last, but not least, was the talk made by our president, Dr. Harper.

After the program was over, the banquet was made an informal affair; and although it was raining on the outside, there was only merriment and enjoyment on the inside.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB PLANS FOR SPRING TRIP

It is very probable that a good many of the Elon students are not aware of the existence of a Girls' Glee Club. It is in existence and is now beginning extensive practice for work in the Spring. The club has been organized since the latter part of the fall semester but has not, as yet, given a program.

On Tuesday, March 12, the club will make its first appearance. The chapel period will be given over to a program to be given by it.

A trip to Asheville in April serves as an incentive to the members of the club to keep working. The club will sing in the State contest to be held there.

There are sixteen members in the club, the greater number of whom belong to the Voice Department. Under the efficient direction of Professor Velie the club should give some successful programs.
