On Monday evening, March 23rd, Miss Jeannette Neiderlander entertained a group of girls with a delicious steak-roast, given at a cedar grove just below Comer field. While the food was being prepared the girls played games and took pictures. Everyone enjoyed watching the preparation of the food as well as the eating of it. Prof. VanCleave carefully watched the coffee while Harvey Boney, Jr., stirred the potatoes! This was one of the jolliest occasions of the year. The guests of Miss Neiderlander were as follows: Anna Virginia Britt, Rebecca Constable, Eunice Boney, Mabel Coghill, Ann and Mary Sue Rawls, Margaret West, "Jeff" and "Polly" Walters, Mary Rawls Jones, Viola Worsley, Mary Rudd, Mildred and Naomi Steed, Frances Chandler, Lucy Caddell, Lois McAdams, Margaret Boland, Dorothy Marlow, Lila Newman, Mabel Barrett, Prof. VanCleave and Harvey Boney, Jr.

Miss Mary Rudd spent the past week-end at her home in Brown Summit.

Miss Doris Bivens enjoyed a visit to her home in Hillsboro.

Mr. Harvey Boney, Jr., is spending the holidays here with his mother, Mrs. Harvey Boney. He is attending Christ School near Asheville.

Misses Margaret West and Rebecca Constable spent last week-end in Graham as guests of Miss Annie Ruth Harden.

Miss Martha Nethery spent the week-end at her home in Brown Summit.

Mr. Sam Whitely had as his guests Sunday, his mother, father and sister; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Whitely and Miss Kate Whitely.

Miss Annie Ruth Chandler spent last week-end at her home near Burlington.

Roy Rollins spent last week-end at Kannapolis at his home.

Miss Jane Kendrick visited in Greensboro during the week-end.

Miss Alta Dick spent the week-end at her home in Greensboro.

The following girls spent the week-end with friends here and attended the Beta Omicron Beta banquet: Misses Alberta Roberts, Virginia Brown, Grace and Mary Stout, Mary Addie White, Malva Hight, and Mrs. Rudy Fonville.

BLOWS HIMSELF TO DEATH WITH PACK OF CARDS

Condemned to death for murder, William Kogut, twenty-six year old California lumberjack, cheated the gallows by committing suicide in a most unique fashion. He actually constructed a bomb from a piece of metal tubing and an ordinary pack of playing cards.

Kogut, awaiting action on his plea for a moderation of his sentence, had threatened to kill himself rather than die on the gallows. Hence jail guards were maintaining a close watch over him to prevent his receiving a gun, knife or other instruments that he might use to foil the hangman.

But one morning at daybreak, San Quentin prison was shaken by a detonating explosion of such terrific force as to hurl convicts from their cots. The startled prison guards, rushing to the scene, found Kogut on the floor, dying, his body horribly mangled, and the right side of his head torn away by the blast.

The only clues to his method were the scattered pieces of some playing cards and a missing strip of metal tubing from his cot. Mystified, the prison authorities consulted explosive experts who after examining the scene soon discovered the diabolic scheme of Kogut's criminal brain. In the April issue of Real Detective Tales, they reveal how simple it was for him to construct the bomb and why it was of such deadly character.

He: "What are you doing with your socks on wrong side out?"

How: "My feet got hot and I turned the hose on them."

The most absent-minded professor is the one who, about to start on a journey, filled his wife with gasoline, kissed his road map goodbye, and tried to shove his automobile into his pocket.

Justice: "How did the accident happen?"

Maness: "Why I dimmed my lights and was bugging the curve."

Justice: "Yeah, that's how most accidents happen."

"Who invented necking?"
(Ans.) "King Solomon. He took the Queen of Sheba into the banquet hall and gave her wine and nectar."

Abernethy: "The wind is rising; we had better hug the shore."

Beryl: "Maybe you will have nerve enough for that."

Waggoner: "What do you think of a guy that would hide behind a woman's skirt?"

Caddell: "I'd say he must have been skinny."

Zeb: "My, how fast your heart is beating, it sounds like a dream."

Grace: "Yes, that's the call to arms."

"Did you hear of the Jew who swindled the Scotchman out of five dollars?"

"No."

"And you never will."

Duke student to Lager: "What do you think of our stadium?"

Lager: "It is certainly wonderful. And now I would like to go through the curriculum. I've heard you have a fine one here."
