A TIP FOR COBBLERS

It is probable that American shoe factories are equipped to produce at least seven hundred fifty million pairs of shocs, and it is also probable that, some time in their history, these shoes will need mending.

Regardless of its effect upon inquisity in general, this depression has certainly been a stimulus to the shoe mending profession. In fact, if we could get down to down to business vesterate, when rock bottom, we would probably find that it was brought it was smounced that they would rock bottom, we would probably find that it was brought it was smounced that they would rock bottom, and shoe menders. At any rate, Regardless of its effect upon industry in general, on by stock speculators and shoe menders. Al any rate, there is no questioning the fact that the latter are profiting by its continuance; for never before have men turned so wholeheartedly to old shoes. They didn't look so good five years ago, and we threw them back in a corner. But and in these times a half-sole is better than no sole at all.

now they look almost as good as new, and we are pulling them on with pride—we have just had them half-soled; and in these times a half-sole is better than no sole at all. In the composing teams. The shoe mender could add materially to his income, however, it he would recognize one fact. The one great crying need of this depression is that of an all-night shoe shop has shoe shop that would maintain a bedtime call service and an early morning delivery service. In other working has been working and need, words, during this period of intense suffering and need. shop—a shoe shop that would maintain a bedtime call words, during this period of intense suffering and need, debate should be very close. when a man is lucky to have even one pair of shoes, we need a service which would mend our shoes at night while we were in bed, and return them to our doorstep, like the milk man and the paper boy, before getting up timer This system would add materially to our convenience, and relieve us of the embarrassment of admitting that we possess only one pair of shoes. The cobbler wouldn't tell.
