

Elon Fighting Hard In Conference Series But Catawba Leads

The Elon Christians opened the season in the North State Conference April 4 when they eked out a close 9-8 decision in 10 innings at Guilford College. LeRoy Fones led the Elon team to victory in the role of a pinch hitter. He singled to center, stole second, advanced to third on an out and scored a moment later on a wild throw by the catcher.

Wallop A. C. C. Twice

Elon scored its next victory on the following day when the Elon batters hammered the offerings of two Atlantic Christian College pitchers to all corners of the park. The game, which was played at Wilson, was featured by the heavy hitting of Fowler and Roach.

Elon returned home to play its next conference game with A. C. C. on April 12. Elon won the contest 12-0 as Roland Longest wielded the white wash brush for the teams initial shutout. Roach and McCraw led the Elon Attack.

Guilford Taken Again

The Christians scored their fourth straight conference victory in Burlington April 13 when they turned back Guilford 6-4. A seventh inning rally that netted three runs gave Elon its second victory of the season over Guilford. Andy Fuller stood out for Elon in the victory as he fielded the Quakers to seven hits. He also singled home a couple of runs in the fourth inning to give Elon the lead.

Down We Go

Elon lost its first game in the conference April 15 when the Catawba Indians defeated the Christians 5-3 at Comer field. Bob Hampton opposed Tommy Williams on the mound for Catawba and hurled a great game against the Elonites as he held them to three hits and struck out 11 men. Williams gave only six hits during the game, but costly errors by his mates cost him the game. His teammates kicked in four of the five runs that Catawba scored.

Quakers Revenge

Guilford's Quakers defeated the Christians April 19 at memorial stadium in Greensboro to the tune of 9-3. The game was played in mud and Guilford held the advantage throughout the listless contest. The game was marked by many errors due mainly to the wet field and slippery balls, and neither of the teams could be expected to play the brand of ball that they are capable of playing.

Harry Nace led the attack of the Quakers as he cracked out a home run in the first inning with two men on base and singled Lentz home with Guilford's fourth tally in the second inning. Boles exhibited rare form on the mound for Guilford as he allowed only five hits and struck out ten men.

McCraw led the attack of the Christians with a brace of singles in five trips to the plate. Andy Fuller did not hurl as poor a brand of ball as the score might indicate; and the score might have been somewhat different if the fielding behind him had been better.

SOFTBALL TEAMS IN BIG LEAGUE FORM

The softball tournament started early last week, and from the present appearance of things, by the time the finals are reached there will be a home-run king to be crowned as well as tournament champions. Some of the boys seem to be getting on to the knack of slugging out long runs with the overgrown apple of the distinctive underarm delivery.

This year the teams are divided into two leagues. The fraternities are in one league and the dormitories and day students are in the other. This system eliminates much of the confusion which has accompanied the tournaments in the past. These leagues might be compared to the American and National leagues in the big time loops of professional baseball.

After winners are determined in each league, the winners will play for the championship in the local worlds' series. Hal Watts and Ike Fesmire are acting as directors and umpires. Each team has a manager-coach who looks after the duties of such an office. In this way the teams move along under management like any well organized professional team.

Coach Power held a conference of the directors and managers before the games started and taught the rules of the game so that there would not be so many different interpretations of the rules and subsequent beefing about results of umpiring. Coach Power has evolved a mighty good system and it is working well so far.

At this writing the North Dormitory and I. T. K. teams are leading, each in a separate league, and we wouldn't be at all surprised if these two teams aren't the ones who will fight it out for the tournament champion-

Senior Reflections

By "Snuzzle"

The following is a rambling group of thoughts by a senior during the recent Senior dinner, so generously given by President and Mrs. Smith. (Editors.)

(The impromptu toasts begin.) I can make a speech. I know I can. I know some very clever things to say. Gee I hope they don't call on me, though. Wish my knees would behave. I'll bet my food isn't digesting. I've never made a speech here, but I can, I know I can, if Milton Cheshire and Tommy Williams can. Maybe they won't call on me though, I hope.

I wonder if he thinks he has to be longwinded because he is going to study law. Ooo! What lousy grammar. (After several other so-called speeches) Wonder why everybody says the same thing.

As freshmen they couldn't remember George Colclough's name, and everyone was met at the station by Leslie Manchester. Why don't we call George Colclough Mr. Jones, for the freshmen's benefit, and make Manchester assistant to the head of the freshman meeting committee; he could then finish his education at his leisure?

Contrary to the too often ex-ship. The standings, as this article goes to the linotype machine, are as follows:

Team	Won	Lost
North Dorm.	2	0
I. T. K.	2	0
Day Students	1	1
East Dorm.	1	1
Publishing House	1	1
Kappa Psi Nu	1	1
Alpha Phi Delta	0	2
Sigma Phi Beta	0	1

pressed opinion in the impromptu speeches, I don't think we need any more women on our campus. We don't appreciate those few we have. That little bee crawling slowly and laboriously over the wide stretch of artificial grass, spread in the center of the table, reminds me of one in the process of getting an education. It's a slow trip, and you feel more ignorant at the end than at the beginning. The bee is probably smarter, for he may know where he is going. Some of the boys don't hesitate to stuff their pockets with nuts and mints, so plentifully supplied. Dr. and Mrs. Smith certainly are clever at repartee, on well, maybe they had rehearsed it.

Tommy Williams' proposal of a swimming pool and Golf course is a noble idea. I would like to play three or four holes on Sunday. Maybe by the time Junior is old enough to come to Elon, we will have an aeronautical department. Of course it's practical! It wouldn't cost the students who took the course any more than it does sundry ones to play the piano, violin, organ, and typewriter.

O'my, if they should call on me now, after listening to such illustrious speakers as Jimmy Wilburn and Wimpy Fowler, it would be like trying to read by the light of a lightning bug, after sitting in the noonday sun.

I'll bet Howard Jones wishes he could get out of here, to go run the picture. This is the best decorated room and most beautiful banquet I have attended at Elon, and I guess all beautiful things should be taken slowly. What! Not time for coffee? I've enjoyed it so much. Goodnite.

Currin and Hay Give Weekly Awards To Elon Baseballers

The firm of Currin and Hay, a leading men's shop in Burlington, is doing its share to see that Elon baseballers get those very nee-dee base hits, by awarding a Manhattan shirt to the leading hitter each week. Needless to say, the boys are running out those puny rollers and taking off on close fouls these days, trying to collect one of those coveted shirts that Matt and Pat have to offer.

The recipient of the first Manhattan was Cocky Roach, hard hitting third baseman. Amos Shelton won the second one by virtue of his hitting streak that lasted through the games of the following week. The third week saw Roach off on another hitting spree, and he tucked his second shirt under his belt. The usual procedure of award was altered last week, when Roland Longest walked off with the honors. He, however, did not come in possession of the prize through any outstanding work with the willow, but because of shut-out pitching. Roland did a fine job of white washing Atlantic Christian College, and well deserved the award.
