The speaker at the Chapel hour yesterday was Mrs. Mildred Morgan of the faculty of Iowa University. Mrs. Morgan is an expert in the field on which she spoke, has lectured at more than fifty colleges and universities, and 100 or more high schools. She is an excellent lecturer, and has led many forums and discussion groups in community, state, and national conferences.

Mrs. Morgan has been on a lecture tour throughout the South under the sponsorship of the Southern Region of Student Christian Associations and was brought to our campus by the local Association.

On Friday night, Mrs. Morgan was guest at a called house meeting of all the girls, in the West Dormitory reception room, where she discussed briefly problems relevant to her subject.

Social Clubs To Meet On Monday Nights

New Ruling Made By Pan-Hellenic Council.

At the meeting of the Pan-Hellenic Council held last week, a new practice in sorority and fraternity activity was decided upon. Because of the difficulty arising out of the groups' meeting on different nights of the week, it was resolved that all the organizations should meet on Monday night. The college will plan its concert series so that there will be no conflicts henceforth, and members of the sororities and fraternities will thus be enabled to attend programs of this nature. This new resolution went into effect this week.

Shakespeareans Make Progress On Play To Be Given Soon

The Shakespeare class is making good progress toward its production of "Much Ado About Nothing," early in December. Several rehearsals have been held, and it is expected that at least two long practices a week will be carried on up until the time the play is presented.

Leading roles are to be played by Walter Fonville, Florine Ray, Archie Israel, and Bruce Thorburn, supported by a large cast of able players. The costume committee for the production is headed by June Leath; staging is supervised by Mary Lou Hayes. Other members of the class who do not have parts in the play will be enabled to take an active part in the production through these committees and additional ones on lighting, properties, and makeup.

Avon Players Not To Appear Here Tonight As Scheduled

The appearance of The Avon Players, expected here tonight, has been cancelled because of the Piedmont Music Association which is holding an all day meeting in the Whitley Memorial Auditorium today.

It is our hope that we may witness their version of "Romeo and Juliet" at some later date.

Burlington Road To Be Closed Till March

Bumming to Burlington and Greensboro is not so easy as it used to be, since Route 100 has been closed. When going to Burlington we have to make a detour which is about two miles longer than the old road, and quite frequently when coming from Greensboro we have to walk from the Greensboro highway back to Elon—another two mile stretch. The question of interest to many of us is: When will the old road be open for traffic? What, six months? Yes, according to rumors traceable to the State Highway Commission, it will take just about that long to get the underpass completed and old hundred once more opened for traffic. During that time, we shall have to be content with our present set-up. Six months is a long time, but we realize that this work which is being done will add much toward the safety of motorists who go over this route.

made two addresses during the meeting. The first was on the subject of "Elon College," and the second was "Mass Evangelism".

The Rev. F. C. Lester, of Elon College, also was one of the speakers on the program. Rev. Lester's subject was "The Christian Sun".

Piedmont District Music Clubs Meet In Whitley Today

The Piedmont district of the North Carolina Federation of Music clubs will hold its twelfth annual meeting in the Whitley Memorial Auditorium today, beginning at 9:30 a. m. Professor Pratt will give a speech of welcome. Mrs. Herbert W. Coble, district chairman, will be in charge of the meeting.

Part of the program consists of a group of spirituals from the Sedalia Glee Club, and a message from the state Federation president; Mrs. J. S. Correll. Professors Pratt, Edwards, and Morgan will present organ, vocal, and piano numbers to the group. Mark Hoffman of Greensboro College will play a group of piano solos.

Many representatives from cities within a large radius are expected here for the meeting.

The District luncheon will be held in the Y. W. C. A. at 1:00 p. m.

After the luncheon the District meeting of the Junior Music clubs will hold a meeting in the Whitley Memorial Auditorium beginning at two o'clock this afternoon.

Siberian Singers To Perform Here Nov. 21

Russian Male Choir To Give Second Concert in Alamance Series.

The Siberian Singers, under the direction of Nicholas Vasilieff, will present the second concert in the series of the Alamance Concert Series, Monday evening, November 21, at 8:15 in Whitley Memorial Auditorium.

The Siberian Singers, a Russian male chorus, represent a high degree of achievement in choir singing. They have been praised by critics and public alike for their precision of attack, sensitive musicianship, beautiful tonal blending, and interpretive ability.

The program which they will present in Whitley Auditorium is one that will appeal to everybody. The first half of the program will be devoted to sacred music of the Russian church, and second part of the program will be devoted to Russian folk and Gypsy songs. The Siberian Singers use authentic Cathedral vestments and national costumes for their programs.

Russian church music has long been considered some of the finest choral music known, and listening to a performance of this church music by a great Russian choir is an experience never forgotten.

Before the World War, the enormous size of Russia, and the many points of difference between the various parts of the country, gave an endless variety of local color to the Russian songs. Each event in the life of the Russian peasant from birth to death, his occupations, his oppressions and sorrows, his pleasures and his hopes, are all reflected in his folk songs.

Nicholas Vasilieff, the director of the Siberian Singers, is a distinguished young musician, and an outstanding vocalist. All students of Elon College will be admitted to this concert without tickets. The committee hopes that a large percentage of the student body will attend, and guarantees that those who do attend will take away with them an unforgettable memory of the beauty of Russian music, both church music and folk music.

Delta Psi Omega And Dramatic Club To Produce "Winterset"

Presentation Of Current Play To Be Given Before Christmas

Shortly before the Christmas holidays, the Delta Psi Omega Dramatic Fraternity plans to present Maxwell Anderson's three act play "Winterset". The group met last week and decided upon this play, as their first production for the year.

Directed by Dr. Collins, the play will have a large cast, taken from the members of the fraternity, and also from the Dramatic Club. The leading roles will be portrayed by Duane Vore, Kay James, Walter Fonville, Charlie Hamrick, Tom Perry and Jack Neese, with a supporting cast including Maxine Hudgins, Juanita Waugh, Gwen Tillmanns, H. Warrington Sharp, Finley Lee, Rufus Underwood, Kenneth Utt, William Spence, Millard McDade, Robert Stephenson, Emerson Sanderson, and Tommie Gaylord.

"Winterset" is probably the most difficult play attempted by this group in some years. It is generally considered one of the modern plays most likely to survive the test of time. Other members of the Dramatic Club will be pressed into service to help to make the production a success. Any students who have not had the opportunity of joining the Club, and who wish to help with the presentation are urged to offer their services.

Arrangements about royalty charges on this play are now being made, and the fraternity hopes to be granted permission to produce the play for much less than the usually heavy royalty on such an outstanding drama.

Marketing Class Sees Tobacco Industry In Action At Durham

Sixteen members of Mr. Howell's Marketing Class went to Durham Thursday, November 3, to see the principles of marketing procedure in action, in the tobacco industry.

The group first visited a warehouse, and discovered that this was a fascinating aspect of the business, but not a very efficient way for the farmer to sell his product. The processes involved in the sale of tobacco were explained fully by the warehouse man, describing the ways in which the warehouse acts as a go-between between company and farmer.

When the group called on the Liggett and Meyers Tobacco Company, they discovered that not more than six at a time were taken through on a tour of inspection. Working conditions were found to be much cleaner and more sanitary than had been expected. This company is not affected by the wage laws, because their wages are already higher than is required by law. Several of the group brought back souvenirs in the form of cigarettes 36 inches in length.

Campus Reporters Visit City Cousins

Seven members of the Maroon and Gold staff and Journalism class visited the publishing offices of the Burlington Daily Times-News last Tuesday. The group reached Burlington in time to see the afternoon paper roar off the presses. In their tour of the plant they were conducted by the editor of the Times-News, Mr. R. M. Hodges, who showed the group the teletype machines, linotype apparatus, and viewed the process of the casting of type in stereo leaden sheets the size of a page.
