

Day Students Collect Day To Be Observed

The College Day Student Organization met last Monday morning in Whitley. President Wallace Kernodle was in charge. Dean Oxford was faculty advisor at the meeting. During the business session, plans for a Day Students' College Day were discussed.

Next Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 6:00 the Senior Classes from all the High Schools in Alamance county and Gibsonville will be guest of Elon College with the Day students receiving.

Wallace Kernodle, president. Fred Lowe, vice president and Virginia Fowler, secretary and treasurer with Dean Oxford, Dean Messick, and Dr. Smith, and all officers of the Student Government for this year and next will receive guests in the Y. W. C. A. at 3:30. Louis Hubbard and his college orchestra will be on hand to work up a musical mood.

Other members of the Day student organization will act as guides to show the high school seniors about the campus.

They will be taken first to the Open House in the Physics building where Professor Hook will receive, then to the Art department exhibit on the third floor of Alamance where Miss Newman will receive. Then they will be the guests of the Business department where Professor and Mrs. Howell, Miss Davis, and Mr. Stewart and their assistants will receive.

After a view of the Business Department they will go to the Home Economics Department where Miss Muse and the Home Ec. girls will serve refreshments and fashions.

Mrs. Johnson will receive next, and show the guests one of the most important places on the campus, the Library. Following this, the group goes to Whitley where they will be shown a motion picture on the campus activities.

During the evening the college is expecting to have about 620 students call.

Gibsonville Theater To Be Opened Soon

A feature which will surely be a definite advantage to our student body is the fact that in our nearby suburban "metropolis" of Gibsonville, there is going to be an entirely new and modern theater building.

The theater will be under the efficient management of W. D. Joyner, veteran theater man. Mr. Joyner came to Gibsonville from Scotland Neck and is an experienced person in the theater management, having been in this work for the past fifteen years.

The new cinema center is expected to be opened within the next few weeks, at least in time for our student body to take some advantage of it during the current year. The building will be a modern, air-conditioned structure with a seating capacity of approximately six hundred.

According to Mr. Joyner, each student will be extended a courtesy pass to one of the opening attractions.

A well-known orchestra has been scheduled for the opening days at which time the management extends a cordial invitation to our student body, faculty, and all townspeople in Elon College.

Kappa Psi Nu Frat To Hold Banquet Tonight

The Kappa Psi Nu fraternity will hold its twentieth annual banquet at the King Cotton Hotel in Greensboro tonight. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Louis Hubbard and the Collegians. Some of the members expected are: Tommy E. P. Ed Per

Year's Summary Of Our Business Department

Students outside the Business departments may at times regard the students of these departments with a sigh of relief. With all this pondering of unintelligible shorthand characters, long hours of struggling with trial balances, and attempts to untangle money and economic theories, theirs must be a dull and wearisome existence. A look into their extra curricular activities, however, dispels this view. This year's program has included movies, field trips, outside speakers, and work experience in offices.

Movies have included such features as "The Story of Gasoline", "The Story of the Tire", "Fifty-two Pay Checks a Year". Others scheduled in the near future are "Championship Typing", and "Business Machines". During the fall semester Professor Howell's class in Economic Resources spent a delightful day in Durham listening to the "chant of the tobacco auctioneer" and touring the Liggett and Myers factory. His class in Cost Accounting was for two afternoons the guests of the Mineola Mills of Gibsonville. Here each departmental foreman painstakingly explained the work of his department, after which the accounting officials discussed with the group some of the cost accounting problems involved. Appearing before Professor Stewart's class in Insurance last fall were Mr. Beatty of Raleigh and Mr. Frost of Greensboro, two of Carolina's leading insurance experts.

In February the Business Administration department brought to the campus Howard Wischaupt for a chapel program and practical demonstration of sales psychology following. Mr. Wischaupt, being a man of outstanding personality, drew from the student body an enthusiastic reception during his brief visit to the campus. The class in Money and Banking was responsible for an interesting program on the evening of April 16. This program included a movie, "Know Your Money," an exhibit of counterfeit money, and interesting talks by Messrs. Padgett and Gold of the United States Secret Service.

For the last two weeks the students of the Secretarial department have been making trips to Greensboro in groups of twenty-five. The firms which this year have generously acted as hosts to these students are the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, Pilot Life Insurance company, the Addressograph-Multigraph Sales Agency, and the Burroughs Adding Machine company.

During spring holidays several of the secretarial students worked in offices in Burlington as a part of their required pre-employment office experience. From now until commencement you will observe them scattered about in the College offices working off their required forty hours of pre-employment experience. After all, theirs is no such a dull existence.

S. C. A. Cabinets Hear McCorkle of New York

Roy McCorkle, general secretary of the Inter-seminary Council, New York, was guest speaker at a call meeting of the Student Christian Association cabinets and guests April 26 from 10 until 11:30 a. m. His talk was centered around the purpose and organization of the S. C. A. In the afternoon he held individual conferences with the officers for the coming year and others interested in "Y" work.

Mr. McCorkle was accompanied by Mr. J. H. Nease, George Webster, James White, and Charlie Amrick.

ELON WINS DIAMOND CROWN

FITCH-PITTMAN RULE MAY FETE

The coming of spring was celebrated at Elon College last Saturday with the crowning of the King and Queen of the May. A large number of alumni, friends, and college students witnessed the crowning of Miss Edna Fitch as queen and Mr. Charlie Pittman as king.

A band concert, directed by Howard Brown, opened the program. Selections included "Chicago Band March" by Mader, selections from "H. M. S. Pinafore" by Sullivan, "The Pals" by Benard, and "Dear Old South" by Lake.

The court assembled to the strains of "Marche Militaire" from Schubert's selections, while the king and queen entered the scene to the tune of Meyerbeer's "Coronation March".

Miss Fitch and Mr. Pittman were crowned queen and king, respectively, by Duane Vore, president of student body. The attendants were Misses June Leath, Mary Helen Chason, Florine Ray, and Ida Mae Piland. Their escorts were L. W. McFarland, Carl Jones, Freddy Tysor, and DeRoy Fonville.

The queens of the past years who were back were Mrs. John Robert Kernodle, queen of '36, and Miss Mildred Craven, queen of '39.

Misses Nell Tingen and Nan Daughtry were heralds, while Douglas Bowden was crown bearer. Train bearers for the court were Ann Randolph, Joanne Newman, Clara Everett, Mary Sue Colclough, John Messick, Norval Messick, E. W. Vickers, James Richardson.

After the crowning of the king and queen and the assembling of the court, the audience was entertained by a pageant, which used the story of Hansel and Gretel as its theme.

The story of the wandering of Hansel and Gretel and the final triumph over the witch was acted by members of the gym classes. Groups of girls performed a series of dances relating to the theme, ending with the May Pole Dance.

Miss Helen Pace took the part of Hansel and Miss Frances Frazier was Gretel. Other characters were Miss Viney Sue Ridney, mother; Miss Dorothy McGowan, father; Miss Roberta Martin, elf and Miss Louise Hauser, witch.

The entire program, including the crowning of the May day royalty and the pageant, was held in the front campus of the college, where the newly blossomed trees, flowers, and other shrubbery gave evidence of the arrival of the season which was being celebrated.

Mrs. Horace Hendrickson, Physical education director, acted as director; Mary Claytor and Gladys Wright, costume designers; Evelyn Holmes and Christine Eaves, charge of the dances; Elizabeth Armfield, Estelle Freeland and Lila Budd Stephens were in charge of decorations and May pole.

Whitie Dobbs Elected President of Panviolet

A meeting of the Panviolet Literary Society was held April 24 in the Alamance lecture hall. The president, Mary Lou Hayes, presided over the business session and a treasurer's report was made by Whitie Dobbs.

In the election of officers for next year, Whitie Dobbs was chosen president; Evelyn Holmes, vice-president; Marjorie Cisland, secretary; and Margaret Felles, treasurer.

Harold Maxwell Wins Oratorical Contest

Utt Comes Out Second

The oft-delayed oratorical contest was held in the Society Hall Wednesday, April 24. The contest was scheduled to start at eight, and continued to around nine-thirty.

Harold Maxwell, using as his subject "Propaganda," was awarded a gold key for the first prize. Second prize was won by Kenneth Utt, who used as his topic, "Save Our Democracy". Third prize went to John Hall who spoke on "Our Economic System". The fourth and last of the prizes was awarded to Richard Divers, who spoke on "Crime".

The second, third and fourth prizes were cash awards.

Others entering the contest were Jim Ferris, Joel Scott, Charles Jones, and Bill Hilliard.

This contest was the first annual Oratorical contest to be sponsored by the Dr. Johnson Literary Society. It is hoped by the society that more will enter in future years.

Professors Barney, Sprague and French were judges.

Aeronautics Course Progressing Rapidly

The Elon Aeronautics class is advancing rapidly. The course is supposed to be finished by the first of June. It is hoped that all students will have completed the required work by that time.

Mr. John Nall, Civil Aeronautics inspector for this district, will give a reexamination Tuesday night for the students who last month failed to pass the examination which covered the fields of Civil Air Regulations, Meteorology, and Navigation.

Several of the students are ready for their flight tests. These also are given by a Civil Aeronautics inspector, and the student must pass it before a private pilot's license is issued him. The flight course will include all maneuvers taken up during the course.

If a student should fail to pass his flight test the first time, he will be given another chance to take five extra hours of flying time and is then eligible to go up for another flight test.

WILL WE FORGET?

Four years ago there was a group of us who came here for the purpose of gaining a higher knowledge. Have we accomplished this? Yes! I think we have done so! Some might say no, but down in the lower pits of your heart there is a warm spot that tells you, yes! Stop and think for a moment. Think of those friends you have made in your stay here. Shall we forget them? Shall we forget Elon College? No, Elon College will always live in our hearts!

This has been a battle for some of us — a tough one we think, but not so tough after all. In this battle for higher knowledge there was no blood shed unless it was shed in the defense of some athletic event for our school.

A year or two from now when we all gather back here on the campus for a little form of celebration I hope we all can answer for ourselves and praise the success of Elon College to the highest.

No program was presented, in order that those wishing to attend the Oratorical Contest could do so.

Louie Hubbard And His Collegians Broadcast

The Elon Orchestra, better known as Louie Hubbard and his Collegians or Cornians, were doped up to the fullest capacity possible and knocked out as usual when they broadcasted over WBIG last Tuesday afternoon from 2:00 to 2:15, a part of the time allotted the college each week. The program started with "Benny" Steverson taking the pick-up on the theme song "Just For A Thrill". The numbers played were "In The Mood", "Moon Ray," "With The Wind and The Rain In Your Hair" featuring Fred Gintiam who administered the vocal very nicely but "omphly" as if to the one and only, "Last Night's Cardenas," and "Swinging The Blues" ended the program.

"The orchestra is in no way connected with the music department of Elon College."

SIGMA PHI BANQUET

In cooperation with the efforts of the College to bring the alumni back to the campus, the Sigma Phi Beta fraternity is seeking to bring as many back to the campus as possible.

The banquet will be held at the King Cotten hotel in Greensboro at 6:45 p. m. Saturday, May 11. The banquet program will consist of speeches by both alumni and active brothers, with Mr. A. N. Green of Charlotte and Mr. Brown of Hillsboro giving the main speeches of the program.

Following the banquet, moving pictures of the alumni brothers taken during this year will be shown. These pictures were taken at many different points throughout several states and promise to be of considerable interest to the fraternity.

THE LOST COLONY

To Open Fourth Season

"The Lost Colony," Paul Green's historical drama, will open its fourth summer season at the Waterside Theatre near Manteo June 29 and run through September 2, according to official announcement.

Produced on the site of the first English colony, this great outdoor historical spectacle tells in a most effective style the epic of 121 men, women, and children who were sent over by Sir Walter Raleigh to settle the American wilderness. Shortly after the birth of Virginia Dare, the colony disappeared leaving only a single trace of its existence — the word "Croatan" carved on a tree.

Because of nation-wide popularity and the historical significance of the play, the officials of its production have decided to produce it henceforth in connection with the local anniversary celebrations.

Originally presented in connection with the 350th anniversary this play has been seen since then by more than a quarter of a million spectators and expects more than 100,000 for this summer's presentation. Accommodations for 5,000 nightly are now available on Roanoke Island.

The cast of 150 actors and dancers will again be composed mostly of native islanders and fishermen, supported by a chorus of thirty from the Westminster choir of Princeton, New Jersey, who will again supply the musical background.

Yesterday, Friday, May 3, was a red letter day for Elon College. For yesterday marked the first time in 6 years that Elon has won a North State Conference baseball championship. This year's sensational club has reeled off a string of 21 consecutive wins.

This includes 14 Conference victories; the remaining seven have come at the expense of strong outside foes, highlighted by the explosive 18-9 victory over Wake Forest, and the 2-1 defeat of Cornell. And Co-Cap's Hardison and Fuller have every right to be proud of the team they have led to the championship.

The greatest individual victories, excluding those over Wake Forest and Cornell, were probably the High Point and Catawba games. Although all games were well played, the last two Conference victories were the most satisfying.

For then, with the pressure definitely on, the Elon club showed the greatness of champions as they knocked off first High Point.

Elon's club has shown a definite tendency to rally when the going is toughest. Time and again they have snatched victory from seeming defeat.

For example, in the Wake Forest game, although six runs down in the third inning, they came back with successive innings of four, seven, and three runs to defeat the hitherto undefeated Deacons. This victory showed conclusively that we had the right to rank with any of the so-called Big Five clubs.

Naturally, some players have been outstanding. However, this has been a team triumph. It is an exceptionally well rounded ball club, having strength on the mound, infield, and at the plate. There are no weakness in the entire lineup and this all around excellence, rather than any individual performances make this club great.

Our boys have won the greatest award that could be given any team in the state. Asking no quarter, and giving none, they met the supposed best teams in the state, and defeated them. And neutral experts, after seeing all teams in action, agree in calling Elon, "The best college baseball team in North Carolina, and probably one of the best in the South."

Student Council To Sponsor Style Show

In Spring a young lady's fancy turns to what she has been thinking of all winter — new clothes in bright and gay colors.

Next Thursday, Elon College Student Council will sponsor a fashion parade for the co-eds, faculty wives and members of the Book Club. Meyers Department Store of Greensboro will use their own models in displaying the fashions which they have in stock. This parade will include styles for Spring and Summer street wear, formal-informal, sport and beach costumes.

Mrs. Johnson, of Meyers' clothing department, will be in charge of the program. After the parade she will lecture to the members present on the trends of styles. For example, types of costumes for different occasions, and what the well-dressed girl should wear. Members will be allowed to question the lecturer on any questions pertaining to fashions.

A cordial invitation is extended to all the co-eds. We feel it will be beneficial to each and every one as well as helpful in judging the "well-dressed-lady".
