

May Day Program Will Use 'Peter Pan' Theme

One of the most interesting and colorful May Day pageants of recent years is being planned for the annual observance on Saturday afternoon, May 7th, with a program featuring the "Peter Pan" theme.

The pageant itself will be built around the coronation of Mary Sue Colclough, of Eon College, who will reign over the festive weekend as May Queen. Ruling with her as king and escort will be Charles Crews, of South Boston, Va.

Chief attendants for the royal pair will be Peggy McKee, of Rougemont, as maid-of-honor, and Luther Barnes, of Portsmouth, Va., who will be her escort.

Other members of the May Queen's court will be Peggy Miller Michaux, of Fayetteville, and Arlene Stafford, of Burlington, escorted by J. C. Disher, of Winston-Salem, and Stacy Johnson, of Dunn, representing the senior class.

Representing the junior class in the group will be Jo Ann Wright, of Burlington, and Shirley Cox, of Eon College, escorted by Nick Theos, of Charleston, S. C., and Nick Thompson, of Burlington.

Miss Louise Moseley, director of physical education for girls, who will supervise the May Day program, stated that the Peter Pan theme will offer choruses that will include Indians, pirates, fairies and elves, with a number of solo dances by principal characters in the Peter Pan story. There will also be the traditional May Pole dance.

The pageant, as has been the case in past years, will be staged by the girls physical education department, with the cooperation of the music department. Tentative plans call for the Eon Choir to furnish special music for the 1955 program.

BADMINTON PLAY

Sixty girls participated in the recent badminton tournament, sponsored by the Women's recreation association. The final twelve contestants in the tournament included Margaret Boland, Martha Walker, Frances Knight, Betty Garrett, Jane Davis, Betty Delaney, Ann Puckett, Kathy Lambert, Carolyn Abernathy, Polly Payne, Joyce Perry and Janet Crabtree.

Chemist Speaks Tomorrow Night

Dr. Earl H. Brown, a member of the TVA staff at Muscle Shoals, Ala., will speak on the campus at 8 o'clock tomorrow night under the sponsorship of the Chemistry Club. He will take for his subject "The Way Of A Research Chemist," and all interested persons are invited to attend.

Dr. Brown, who was graduated from Kalamazoo College and received the Master of Science and Ph.D. degrees from Brown University, has taught at both Wabash and Antioch Colleges. Prior to assuming his present post he held a number of posts in the industrial chemistry field.

Baseball Nine Cops Victory Over Williams

After grabbing a 4 to 1 lead over the Williams College nine here Monday afternoon, the power-laden Eon Christians unleashed a barrage of base knock in an eighth inning uprising to swamp the invading New Englanders 11 to 1 in the first of two inter-sectional baseball battles between the two teams.

Hall worked the first six innings and, except for a slight tendency to wildness in the early frames, kept the situation well under control. He allowed three safeties, two in the second rack when the Williams lads scored their lone run. The big Eon right-hander struck out six and walked five as he chalked his first win of the year.

Henderson, the husky freshman from Pennsylvania, a reserve end in football last fall, then took over and held Williams to a single hit in the last three innings.

Bobby Green, All-Conference outfielder a year ago, pounded a single and triple as he came to bat twice in the big eighth. Six other Eon singles and one Williams error figured in the uprising.

ELON STUDENTS TOP 'MISS BURLINGTON' CONTEST

Commercial Group To Burlington

On Friday each student will give a complete oral report about the office visited, and as a result the students will have an opportunity to hear of the duties of the secretary in the office of 35 types of businesses. Such would be impossible through the uses of textbooks and instruction. An added value of this program is the fact that for one day Eon College will be represented in 35 different types of businesses. Rarely is this possible.

Through such visits in the past the Business Education Department has had numerous phone calls from the offices visited to offer secretarial positions.

This department is no longer called commercial. It is now the Business Education Department, the new name which is prevalent throughout the country.

Students of business education this year include Marion Boswell, Rebecca Bradley, Joan Elder, Barbara Fairchild, Mary Lee Hoot, Fayne Jones, Helen King, Marion Lorimer, Mary Anne McVey, Bill Porter, Carol Stanfield, Katherine Sees, Freda Tate, Mary Walker, and Jane Williamson, all of Burlington; Judy Clark, Sylvia Grady, Shirley Sorrell and Janet Crabtree, of Durham.

Louise Hughes, Delaine Routh and Ellen McFayden, of Greensboro; Sara Johnston and Becky Stuckey, of Graham; Jo Allsbrook and Jean Overby, of Franklin, Va.; Alice Madren and Virginia Walker, of Eon College; Elizabeth Beckwith, of Morristown, N. J.; Pat Christmon, of Reidsville; Webster Hill, of Robbins; Don Holt, of Mehane; Jane Everett, of Lynchburg, Va.; Jane Luce, of Riverhead, N.Y.; Frances Sessoms, of Roseboro; and Jackie Williamson, of Townsville.

ATKINSON HONORED

Dee Atkinson, who was an All-Conference basketball center for Eon's Christians in 1952, was recently picked as "Athlete of the Week" at Fort Jackson, S. C., where he scored 55 points for the Fort Jackson quintet in the two final games of a service team cage tourney. Atkinson scored 340 points for the Fort Jackson team during the regular season.

Golfers Win; Netters Lose

The Eon golfers rolled for a 13 1-2 to 4 1-2 victory over Guilford in their opening meet here on Monday afternoon, but the Christian tennis squad dropped its second meet of the year to the Quakers by a close 4 to 3 margin. The netters had lost their opening meet to the Wake Forest freshmen by an 8 to 2 count last Thursday.

Bobby Loy, Number One golfer for Eon, was medalist for the Guilford meet with a 75 for the Alamance Country Club course. Richard Cooke copped his singles matches in both tennis meets, Benn Barr and Jimmy Luke were double winners in both meets, and Hugh City and Ray Whitley also won a doubles decision against Guilford.

ELON PITCHERS

The following tabulation shows the number of hits, bases on balls and strikeouts chalked to the credit of each. The average in the final column is the average number of hits allowed for each full nine innings pitched.

PITCHER	H	BB	SO	Ave.
Hamrick	90	73	143	5.8
Hall	99	58	108	6.1
Conger	112	93	121	6.8
Swicegood	118	64	109	6.8

It will be seen from the tabulation that Hamrick leads in the number of strikeouts, having averaged better than one strikeout per inning. Hall has allowed the least walks in the three years, but Conger was able last year to overcome the wildness that plagued him the first two seasons, and he allowed only 17 bases on balls in 63 1-3 innings. Hall also allowed only 17 walks last year in 46 innings.

Such has been the record of the Eon "Big Four," perhaps the finest pitching staff in the history of college baseball in North Carolina. The excellence of this staff was responsible for the scheduling difficulty experienced by Coach Mathis this season, and Eon fans hope that its members may wind up their careers this spring in the same brilliant fashion set during previous seasons.

GOLF-TENNIS

by Loy, Don Holt and Bobby Robertson, all of Burlington; Jimmy Layton, of Durham; Roy McGriff, of Winston-Salem; and June Allston, of Reidsville.

Losses from the 1954 tennis quad include Captain Charlie Schrader, Bayard Hovedesven and Bus Borjes, and no less than ten boys have been battling thus far this season for the starting posts on the Christian net team.

Most likely tennis candidates include Jay Cleary, of Martinsville, Va.; Gordon Ward, of Suffolk, Va.; Chick Leitch, of Cambria Heights, L.I., N.Y.; Leslie Johnston and Jimmy Luke, of Holland, Va.; Ben Barr, of Taftville, Conn.; Russ McGee, of Franklin, Va.; Richard Cooke, of Norfolk, Va.; Ray Whitley, of Winston-Salem; and Hugh City, of Reidsville.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

Although no signs have been erected as yet, the college officials have recently made an appeal to students to use the campus walks and refrain from walking on the grass. Such an appeal, usually with signs, is a sure sign of spring.

A number of music recitals, including one faculty program and several student appearances, are scheduled for the month of April. Miss Elizabeth Nelms will appear in a faculty voice recital in Whitley Auditorium on Monday evening, April 18th. Gwen Coyner is scheduled for a piano recital, and Shirley Cox will appear in both piano and organ recitals.

Group piano recitals will feature Al Wittschen, Fred Prior, Ann Wilson, Stanley Carey and Margaret Patillo.

Jan Williams is one of the students who will appear in a student voice recital.

A quartet has just been formed to present Brahms's Gypsy Songs in one of the forthcoming recitals. The members are Mary Sue Colclough, Laura Seamon, Donald McDaniel and Robert Phelps.

The Choir is planning a banquet for members and guests in the near future, and all members are urged to attend.

LIBRARY NOTES

The librarians this week call the attention of the students to one of the most interesting and most useable books on the library shelves, devoting the entire column to the one volume.

Although the book is not a very recent one, it is one that will never go out of date. It is "Great Novelists and Their Novels," written by William Somerset Maugham, complete with attractive pen-and-ink sketches of the novelists done by Robert W. Arnold, well known young artist of Philadelphia.

Maugham, who has quite a reputation himself as a novelist, selects what he considers the ten greatest novels of the world and tells in very interesting style why he thinks these are the world's greatest.

In his vigorous and discerning style he also describes the personalities of the ten outstanding novelists. He also gives his reason for choosing the ten novels, pointing out the perfections and the imperfections as he explains why the stories have remained memorable throughout the years. He reviews each author's purpose, explores each novel's background, and analyzes the methods used.

The reader must admit that few persons, if any, are better qualified to write such a book. Maugham has made the writing novels his business and has been one of the most prolific and most famous of modern fiction writers. His works have included novels, plays, biographies and short stories. This book, however, is one of his finest works, and it brings out his own philosophy of novel writing. The readers for whom the book was written will find it useful, informative, and easily intelligible. Certainly, it should be a valuable source of information for the student of literature and more than valuable to the would-be writer.

TOURNEY FINALS

The Eon Stars, composed of Eon students from the varsity and intramural cage squads, recently battled their way to the finals of the Class "A" division of the High Point Gold Medal Tournament, losing to Kannapolis in the final game by an 85-81 score. Ed Juratic had 26 and Dave Maddox 25 to lead the Eon scoring in the final game.
