

Pi Gamma Mu Members Attend Virginia Meeting

Smith Speaker At Elon May 1

Four student members of the Elon Alpha Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity, were delegates recently at Longwood College, Farmville, Va., where they attended a meeting of the Institute of Southern Culture, which was sponsored by the Longwood chapter of the fraternity.

Those representing Elon were James Shepherd, of Haw River; Linwood Hurd, of New Britain, Conn.; Wayland Medley, of Greensboro; and John Patterson, of Burlington.

Three lectures on southern culture featured the gathering, including one of "Civil War Comes to the Campus," by Prof. Mary Elizabeth Massey, of Winthrop College; "The Education of the Southern Orator," by Prof. David Wiley, of Longwood College; and "The Education of the Bourbon," by Prof. John Battersworth, dean of Mississippi State College.

Several members of the Elon chapter were invited by the Duke University Law School to serve as guest jurors along with students from Carolina and Guilford for the annual mock jury trials of the Duke school, which were held recently on the Duke campus. Dr. H. H. Cunningham, sponsor of the Elon chapter, also attended some of the sessions. The Elon delegates were met at Duke by Terry Emerson, Elon alumnus, now in his final year of law study there.

The Elon chapter, which is planning its annual banquet in the near future, has also voted to institute next year an annual Pi Gamma Mu lecture on the Elon campus, with the inaugural lecture to be given by Dr. Fletcher M. Green, Kenan Professor of History at the University of North Carolina, who is past president of the Southern Historical Association and present vice-president of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association.

Glasgow Named WAA President

Marion Glasgow, of Grays Chapel, is the new president of the Women's Athletic Association, having been named to the post in the annual election held recently. She succeeds to the post held this year by Martha Langley, of Staley.

Other officers chosen to lead the girls' sport program on the campus next year include Lulu Roberts, of Lawrenceville, Va., vice president; Penny Fuqua, of Elon College, secretary; Marie Butler, of Burlington, treasurer; and Katie Langley, of Staley, reporter. Mrs. Jeanne Griffin is faculty advisor for the group.

be described as "fantastic." There is always someone who can be talked into going down to meet your unwelcome gentlemen callers with appropriate excuses. There is always one who has had a similar problem and who is willing to take off all the time necessary to give expert counseling and advice. There is always one who is willing to "patrol" the library for you in case your latest "crush" drops by to read the paper. After all, if we don't work together, somebody might have the fortune of graduating without having plans for getting a M.R.S. degree.

There is a highly organized grapevine system in the dormitory. Beware, would-be-two-timers!

One of the greatest experiences in the college girl's life is getting dressed for a dance or party. There are at least three other girls on hand to help with zippers, lend ear rings, gloves, or whatever is necessary to complete one's outfit. No one ever has to refuse an invitation because of lack of something to wear. There is always one ready to lend whatever you need.

In the dormitory you will be found someone with whom to share the washing machine, someone who will be more than glad to hear your gripes about lack of heat, lack of water, the strictness of rules, the world situation, or whatever you choose.

There is always a group interested in fellowship, interested in getting together for devotionals or for just sharing thoughts. There is someone who is concerned when you are sick, someone with common scholastic problems. Although you haven't seen their families, you feel as if you know the families of many of the girls.

There is always someone who introduced himself and spoke briefly about the style of basketball that he plays. He is a proponent of the running ball game and stated that he plans to install such a system at Elon College next year.

Recognizing the fact that the North State Conference ball clubs generally play a slow-down defensive game, Coach Miller commented that his Campbellville Junior College squad had bested strong Lenoir Rhyne in one of two practice games prior to last season. It must be noted here that a junior college team besting the NAIA champion of the two Carolinas would indicate that strong material could be forthcoming at Elon next year.

Five boys made the trip down with Coach Miller. Three of them played for Coach Miller last winter, including Terry Kruger, a 6-5 forward star, who has offers to go to Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee; Larry Beale, a 6-2 forward, and Kenneth Smith, a 6-4

The Elon Christians broke loose with a rousing 4-run rally in the eighth to win a loosely played 11 to 7 victory over the Appalachian Mountaineers at Boone on Monday, April 27th. It was the first extra-inning battle of the season for the Christians.

The Apps were away in front with three runs in the first, and they were leading by a 4-2 count as late as the seventh inning, but Elon tied the count with a brace of markers in the eighth. The tying rally came on a walk to Gil Watts and successive singles by Steve Wall, Eddie Clark and Ted Eanes.

Each team added single runs in the eleventh and both scored twice in the twelfth to keep the score tied. Then came the thirteenth when singles by Joe DelGais and Wall, followed by doubles off the bats of Clark and Eanes, produced four markers for Elon's victory.

Both the Christians and Apps used four pitchers during the marathon battle, with Watts gaining credit for the victory as he worked the final two and one-third innings.

The score by innings:
Elon 001 010 020 012 4—11 17 5
App. 300 000 100 012 0— 7 10 5
Thompson, Mangrum (10), Watts (11), Van BenSchoten (11) and Hughes, DelGais; Green, Newton 7; Dellinger (11), Lee (12) and Costner.

Lynchburg Is Track Winner By 72 To 50

Eddie Burke, who won firsts in both hurdles and the high jump and took third in the 220 yard dash, counted 16 points to lead the Elon scoring. Other Elon firsts were by Gail Stuckey in the pole vault and by the Elon relay team.

Sahlmann Recital

The second half of the recital opened with Granada's Spanish Dances, Op. 5, played with the proper spirit of abandon appropriate to this suite, which should and did sound spontaneous, just as if the dances came at once to the pianist.

Three short piano pieces composed by Prof. Patrick Johnson, of the Elon music faculty, offered an interesting change of pace. The compositions themselves are unpretentious and delightful, and Sahlmann played them with feeling and sincere simplicity. The closing selection was Prokofiev's Toccata, Op. 11, performed with a super-abundance of technical facility to surmount the many difficulties of this demanding work.

The large and enthusiastic audience demanded and received an encore. Scriabin's Nocturne for Left Hand, a work of unashamed romanticism, which, in this sensitive performance, was assurance that Prof. Sahlmann's art is expansive and ample to the requirements of any aspect of the vast piano literature.

The recital was rich and rewarding. Prof. Sahlmann has always performed in the past with great distinction, but the recital of May 5th was a triumph in every sense, an unqualified triumph of mind, technique, understanding and maturity which will not soon be forgotten.

The male quartet from Southern Union College, Wedley, Ala., visited the Elon College campus on May 2nd and 3rd and appeared as guest singers at a family supper at the Elon College Community Church on Sunday night.

WILL STUDY CHEMISTRY

DR. PAUL CHEEK

PROF. ROY EPPERSON

Two Professors Granted Funds For Summer Study

Dr. Paul Cheek and Prof. Roy Epperson, both of whom are members of the Elon College chemistry faculty, have received grants from the National Science Foundation for summer study during the coming 1959 summer vacation period. Dr. Cheek is to study at the University of North Carolina, while Prof. Epperson is to study at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Cheek's grant is for a six-weeks institute, which is to be conducted at Chapel Hill from June 8th through July 17th, with objectives listed to improve the subject matter competence of the participating teachers, to strengthen the capacity of these teachers to motivate students to consider careers in science and to bring these teachers into personal contact with the highly productive scientists who make up the staff of the institute with a view to stimulating their interest and increasing their prestige.

Prof. Epperson's grant is for attendance at the two-week summer conference in inorganic chemistry for college teachers of under-graduate chemistry, which is to be held at the University of Wisconsin from August 3rd through August 14th. The aims of this conference are to acquaint the participants with recent developments in inorganic chemistry, discuss effective methods for

It's a rare bird indeed who doesn't care for the good taste of Coke! In fact, you might even call him an odd ball. After all, 58 million times a day somebody, somewhere, enjoys Coca-Cola. All these people just can't be wrong!
