Touch Football

Once more touch football promises to be one of the top features of the campus sports program, with six teams lined up for the league play. Supervising the program as student assistants to Coach Sanford will be Gary Henson and Eddie Clark. Persons interested in this or other sports may contact them about competing.

The six teams which have already joined the tag-football loop, with student managers listed after each team, are Kappa Psi Nu, managed by Steve Mauldin; South Hall, managed by Mike Duncan; Smith Number One, managed by Bruce Olson; Smith Number Two, managed by Gary Franklen; Carolina Number One, managed by Tommy Hawkins; and Carolina Number Two, managed by Gary Henson.

Elon placed men on the Little All-American football squad for three seasons in succession from 1949 until 1951. Arnold Melvin won the honor in 1949, and Sal Gero placed twice in 1950 and 1951, both of them being tackles.

HAVE LEAD ROLES IN ELON PLAYER SHOW

ROY EPPERSON

ETTA BRITT

TOMMY ELMORE

Appearing in the three leading roles in the Elon Player presentation of "Angel Street" are the three veteran campus actors pictured above. They are, left to right, Prof. Roy Epperson, who will have the role of Mr. Manningham, who plots diabolically against his wife; Etta Britt, who will appear as the frightened and persecuted Mrs. Manningham; and Tommy Elmore, who will have the part of Rough, the kindly police inspector.

mitted fifteen years ago and that he is preparing to disprove of her. Then starts the game of trying to uncover the necessary evidence against Mr. Manningham. It proves to be a thrilling and exciting melodramatic game.

The role of Mr. Manningham, who is a tall and good-looking man of about 45 years, is played by Prof. Roy Epperson, of the Elon English faculty, who appeared in a number of outstanding roles with the players last year. His suave and authoritative manner, touched with mystery and bitterness, adds much to the play.

Appearing as Mrs. Manningham is Etta Britt, of Burlington, also a veteran of the Elon College stage, who does well the role of the 34-year-old persecuted woman, who shows evidences of almost youthful beauty, which has given way to a haggard, wan and frightened look.

In third major role is Tommy Elmore, also of Burlington, veteran of both stage role and back-stage work with the Players. He appears as Rough, the police inspector, middle-aged, greying, wiry, active, brusque, friendly and overbearing, a man with a low, warm chuckle, who completely dominates the scene from his first appearance.

Filling out the speaking cast is Millie Fletcher, of Audenreid, Pa., as Nancy, the maid, a self-conscious, pretty and cheeky girl of nineteen; and Judith Townsend, newcomer to Elon this year from Charlotte, as Elizabeth, the housekeeper, an amiable servant woman of fifty.

This production of "Angel Street," directed by Professor Melvin E. Wooton, is the first of six major productions for the Player group this year. Later full-length shows will include "Pajama Game," "Ah Wilderness," "Visit To A Small Planet," "Juno and the Paycock," and "Othello." The six shows comprise one of the most ambitious seasonal programs ever attempted by the campus theatrical group.

Chatter Box

In order to join a sorority or fraternity, a student must maintain an academic average of "C" or better. Freshmen are not eligible for membership during the first rush period unless they have attended college prior to that school year.

The purposes of these organizations, as the handbook states, are "for the promotion of brotherhood and good fellowship, and for the cultivation of the social life." The Elon College tradition belonging to any one of these organizations are proud of them and can truthfully say that they fulfill their purposes.

Dean Is Named For Committee

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of Elon College, is one of twenty-two members named recently by Governor Luther Hodges to the Carolina Charter Centenary Commission, which was appointed and empowered to plan proper methods for celebrating the 300th anniversary of the granting of the Carolina charter by King Charles II of England.

The Carolina charter was granted in 1663, with both North Carolina and South Carolina included in one colony. The two states will unite and will invite fourteen other states and the Republic of Mexico to join them in the celebration in 1963, for the original charter boundaries extended to the Pacific coast, embracing territory which now makes up many states and part of Mexico.

Opera Topic As McCants Talks

Prof. Clyde McCants, member of the Elon College music faculty, who conducts a regular program on opera over Radio Station WBBB, delivered an interesting discussion of American Opera on Thursday night, October 8th, as the Elon Players resumed their regular Thursday night programs in Mooney Chapel Theatre.

The Players were forced to cancel their brief Thursday night programs last year after the Mooney Chapel Theatre was wrecked by a fire, but a full program is planned for this year.

Included in the planning for this year are several one-act plays, a student musical-variety show and a number of guest speakers. All programs will be about thirty minutes in length, and the students and general public are invited without any admission charges.

East Carolina

The East Carolina eleven got away for an early lead when the Pirates recovered an Elon fumble of a Pirate punt at the Christian 5-yard line. Jim Speight hit paydirt in one plunge, and Jerry Carpenter kicked good.

The second Pirate score came on a 91-yard drive after Elon's Mike Little had punted dead on the East Carolina nine. The scoring play was a 51-yard pass from Zehring to Bass, and Carpenter kicked good again. The third score came early in the second period when Sonny Baysinger raced 50 yards with an Elon punt.

The field goal, an infrequent thing in North Carolina football, came when Elon halted an East Carolina drive at the Christian ten, and Kwiatkowski dropped back to the sixteen and booted true. The final score in the fourth quarter was a 23-yard pass from Zehring to Speight, and Zehring then passed to Howard Beale for the two-pointer.

Davis Speaks For Faculty

Dr. J. A. Davis, dean of the graduate school at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, addressed members of the Elon College faculty on Friday afternoon, October 4th, at the group's regular monthly meeting held in the social rooms of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

Speaking on the topic of the grading problem in schools and colleges, Dr. Davis discussed in detail the different systems of grading used in evaluating student achievement in their courses at the various levels of education from the secondary schools through graduate schools.

Citing the fact that "there is no absolute in evaluating human behavior" as the major problem in grading, Dr. Davis presented recommendations for a method of self-study of grading and gave a number of examples of the problems which have arisen in a number of colleges and universities in recent years.

choice given in competition with the stars of Clemson and South Carolina.

The Blue Hose outfit is undefeated thus far this season having turned back East Carolina, Furman, Davidson and Wofford in succession. Both East Carolina and Wofford have already defeated Elon in games this season, and it is well to remember that both Furman and Davidson are members of the Southern Conference, which is rated a major college loop.

Coach Frank Jones uses the Winged-T formation with his Presbyterian outfit, and he has been able to generate a lot of power 'around Pate and Waters. He also has two other very fine backs in his starting line-up in the persons of Dave Morgan, halfback, and Bill Hill, fullback. Both are big, powerful boys, and both have plenty of breakaway speed.

The Christians will counter the Presbyterian attack with a backfield quartet that will show Charlie Maidon, top passer in the North State Conference last fall, at quarterback; Jim Short and Bob McLean, at the halfbacks; and Bob Overton, at fullback.

8 till 12 noon Saturday. He will lecture and demonstrate lab equipment usage from 1:15 until 5:30 tomorrow afternoon, from 7 until 9:30 tomorrow night and from 8 till 10:30 Sunday morning. His final lecture will be from 1 till 4:30 Sunday afternoon.

The Duke Science Building, which houses the various portions of the Elon department of natural sciences, was named in honor of the same Duke family which contributed so heavily to the founding of Duke University.

Trustee Leader Speaks On Campus October 7th

The eight component parts which make up Elon College were listed by North Carolina's Secretary of State Thad Eure, chairman of Elon's Board of Trustees, when he addressed the college faculty and students in chapel on Wednesday morning, October 7th. His appearance was in conjunction with the annual fall meeting of the trustee group, held on the campus that day.

Pointing out that the growth and progress of Elon depends upon the cooperation of all groups, the speaker listed the eight parts of the institution as follows:

1. The Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, under whose auspices the college was founded in 1889 and has been operated since that time.

2. The State of North Carolina, which issued the charter under which Elon was founded and operates.

3. The Board of Trustees, a group of thirty-six members, who make policy decisions for the college.

4. The President of the College, who is elected by the trustees and is responsible for the administration of the institution.

5. The Faculty of the College, the group which is entrusted with the instructional duties of the college and which serves as a guiding body for the students.

6. The Alumni of the College, including thousands who have attended Elon in years gone by, whose loyalty to the institution is of great influence in its growth.

7. The Students of the College, who represent the reason for the college's existence.

8. The Friends and Benefactors of the College, many of whom are not members of any of the preceding groups, who have given freely and liberally in past years to the support of the institution.

A special feature of the chapel program at which Eure spoke was the presentation of individual members of the board of trustees to the faculty and students. The board members present for the meeting were seated on the stage during the program, giving all a chance to see and recognize each trustee by name.

Faculty Wives Club Holds Fashion Show

A program of fashion, entitled "The American Plan" and featuring both functional and flattering day-to-dusk attire, was presented as the Faculty Wives Club of Elon College held its first luncheon meeting of the college year in McEwen Memorial Dining Hall on Saturday, October 3rd.

The fashion showing, which featured members of the club as models, was conducted by Mrs. Boyd Brown, of the Burlington Charm School, with the assistance of Mrs. L. E. Kirkman, also of Burlington.

Club members who served as models for the show included Mrs. J. D. Sanford, Mrs. W. E. Butler, Mrs. William M. Brown, Mrs. Alfred Hassell, Mrs. W. D. Florence and Mrs. Luther N. Byrd.

The program was introduced by a musical interlude, during which Mrs. Boyd Brown sang three songs, "With A Song In My Heart," "Black Is My True Love's Hair" and "One Fine Day," the latter from "Madame Butterfly." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Alfred Hassell.

During a brief business meeting, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Ferris E. Reynolds, president of the club. Special guests were two former faculty wives, Mrs. W. P. Lawrence, who was made an honorary member, and Mrs. James M. Hess, who is moving to California to make her home.

The dining hall was decorated with orange and gold flowers set in a gold background by the hostesses for meeting, who included Mrs. Clarence Carson, Mrs. J. E. Danieley, Mrs. J. D. Sanford, Mrs. M. E. Wooton, Mrs. W. M. Brown, Mrs. H. E. Varney and Miss Eva Wiseman. Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Danieley and Miss Wiseman greeted the guests at the door.

Mr. Funk & Mr. Wagnalls

"In re this matter of Good Taste," said Mr. Funk to his secretary, "take a definition." "Taste: sensations . . . excited . . . by the . . . action of the gustatory nerves . . ." "And add this," put in Mr. Wagnalls. "Taste: the faculty of . . . appreciating the beautiful . . ." "That," said Mr. Funk, "wraps it up. Mr. Wagnalls, will you join me in a Coca-Cola?" "So good in taste . . ." "And . . . in such good taste!"
