I suspect the Elon College Foun der's Day apcoming is none of these. It may be more prestige than promotion, for a U. S. Vice President does not often tralpar under the most noted colorade in Alamance County, At any rate I suspect that some of these oth er colleges near Elon, such as Duke, Wake Forest, the Chapel Hill place and all, may be just little envious of the fanfare association iated with Vice-President Lyndor Johnson's coming to the Elon Founder's Day ceremonies

Yet, I know of another Founder's Day that may strike each of you with considerally more impact. When your ounder's Day will come, I cannot say. Nor can you just yet. It will involve, per haps, a person of lesser stature than Lyndon Johnson. It'll be you. Elon Stars On All-Star Cage Teams

Dewey Andrew, Elon's big pivot star, completed his brilliant junior season with a virtual clean sweep of all-star honors among the small-college teams of this area, for the big boy from Snow-Camp has already been named to the All-Conference, the All-Tournament and the All-District NAIA teams as a reward for his fine play this season.

adrew was joined on the all-Conference team by Jesse Branson, the towering freshman forward, who paired with Andrew in pacing the Christian attack and rebound play through most of the cage season. Branson was the only freshman named to a berth on the All-Conference squad, a team that was named on the basis of regular-season play.

It was the second straight season that Elon had landed two big scoring stars on the All-Conference squad, for Jug Irvin and Ken Smith were thus honored a year ago. Both boys were lost between seasons as unexpected blows, and the honors won by Andrew and Branson come as a special tribute to the Elon outfit this year.

In addition to Andrew and Branon, other stars named to the All-Conference squad included Jerry Well, Tommy Burton and Jim Wiles of Lenoir Rhyne; Bill Otte and Charlie Lewis of East Carolina; Mel Gibson of Western Carolina; and Frank of Pfeiffer. The ton included Andrew of Elon; Gib-
