

Elon Athletes Get Awards For 1962-63

Fifty-two Elon College athletes have been awarded letters for participation in five varsity sports during the 1962-63 term, with ten of the group receiving double awards for participation in two sports this year.

There were no three-sport participants during the current year, but George Wooten joined the ranks of Elon's three-sport athletes when he lettered in golf this year.

The twenty-five football lettermen included Don Arnos, Howard Arner, Ronnie Bell, Joe Berdosh, Larry Caskey, Burl Clements, Gordon Cox, Scott Crabtree, Ed Fitzgerald, John Gozjack, Rex Harrison, Clayton Johnson, Dan Kelley, Cameron Little, Bill Mahaffey, Wayne Mahanes, Tommy Mitchell, Jim Moore, David Mullis, Gene Stokes, Charlie Strigo, Willie Tart, Richard Thompson, George Wooten and Dean Yates.

Eleven letter winners in basketball included Dewey Andrew, Howard Andrew, Mac Bowman, Jesse Branson, Arthur Davis, Ronald Denhart, Danny Hall, Roland Miller, Bill Morningstar, Sonny Smith and Dave Winfrey.

Eight letter winners in track were Carl Bovender, John Gozjack, Ronald Lancaster, Cameron Little, Ronald Miller, Sonny Pruette and Willie Tart.

Six letter winners in golf were Jimmy Brown, Frank Ciampello, Gordon Cox, Billy Harding, Frank Lawrence and George Wooten.

Award, given each year by the Elon chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity, was presented by Prof. Robert Baxter to Robert Saunders, of Indianapolis, Ind.

The Shackley Music Awards, given in memory of the late Dr. George Shackley, of St. Petersburg, Fla., were presented by Dean Fletcher Moore to Linda Keck, of Burlington, as the student showing most improvement in piano, and to William Whitley, of Tarboro, as the student showing most improvement in organ.

The Shrader Awards, given in memory of the late Jerry Dalton Shrader, of Burlington, long outstanding as a leader in religious, educational and civic life, were presented to Prof. John S. Graves to Doris Anne Morris, of Stanardsville, Va., for achievements in religious education, and to Carol Trageser, of Arnold, Md., for work in dramatics.

A special Student President's Award was presented to James Buie, of Darlington, S. C., for his fine work as president this year of the Elon College Student Government Association. Buie then presented a special Student Government Award to Carol Trageser, of Arnold, Md., for her outstanding contribution to campus life by a student who did not hold a student government office. Buie also presented special cheerleader awards to three senior cheerleaders, Diane Clary, of Lawrenceville, Va., Denyse Theodore, of North Bellmore, N. Y., and Eleanor Smith, of Winston-Salem.

The Burlington Writers Club Awards, given by the Burlington literary group to winners of a campus short story contest, were presented for the first time this year. Mrs. E. R. Gant, of Burlington, presented cash prizes to Marion McVey, of Snow Camp, and Jane Barnwell, of Burlington, for winning first and second honors in the contest. Manly Wade Wellman, of Chapel Hill, then presented the third prize, provided by him, to Beverly Powell, of Arlington, Va. Miss McVey also was given the Alpha Phi Delta Fraternity Award for the outstanding story in the campus literary magazine during the year.

CHOSEN BEST PERFORMERS IN PLAYER SHOWS

who is also an Elon alumnus, and throughout the years their home has always had "open doors" to Elon students. They have four daughters, all of whom are graduates of Elon.

Always interested in athletics, Dr. Hook was at one time graduate manager of athletics for the college for a number of years, and he has been chairman of the faculty athletic committee. He has also been affiliated with the North State Conference (now the Carolinas Conference) through the years, having served as both commissioner and president of the organization.

With the college itself, his service has been varied as well as good, for his many posts of service have included those of professor of physics, head of both the Department of Physics and the Department of Mathematics, dean of the college and registrar of the college, not to mention the many and varied committee assignments.

Outside the college, he has been very active in both his church and in Rotary International. For over fifty years he has devoted time and energy to his church as both member and officer, and he has served the Rotary organization in numerous capacities.

Pirates Top Elon Outfit

The East Carolina Pirates compiled ten hits and elven walks to pile up a 13 to 1 margin over the Elon College Christians in a non-conference diamond battle here May 3rd. The victory gave the Pirates a sweep of the two-game series between the old rivals.

Camels Down Elon 8 To 5

The Campbell College nine pushed over three runs in the ninth to turn back the Elon Christians by an 8 to 5 count here on Tuesday, May 14th. The defeat, which came in the final game of the Elon 1963 season, left the Christians with a season record of 19 wins and 15 losses.

Danny Hall, Mike Little and Art Davis led the Elon hitting with a double and single apiece in four trips. Jack Rizer, Camel catcher, led the visitors with a brace of singles in four tries.

Erlandsen Is Winner Over AC Bulldogs

Little Roy Erlandsen worked a fine five-hit game as he pitched the Elon Christians to an 11 to 2 victory over the Atlantic Christian outfit here Thursday afternoon, May 16th. The victory boosted the Elon Conference record to 10-6.

Erlandsen scattered the five Bulldogs safeties well and had a shut-out going until the eighth when Atlantic Christian plated a pair of runs on a double and two singles. Ken Cook blasted a three-run homer over the left field wall in the second inning to start Elon on the victory road, and then the Christians stampeded seven runners home in a big fourth, with Mike Little's two-run circuit clout as the featured blow.

Taylor Leads Baseballers In Batting

Gary Taylor, freshman second baseman, topped the Elon baseball regulars in hitting for the 1963 season, rapping the ball for a .345 average in the 34-game season that saw the Christians win 19 and lose 13 battles.

Only other regular above the .300 mark was Mike Little, All-Conference catcher, who posted a .320 average as he joined outfielder Danny Hall and pitcher Lefty Everett on the All-Conference team. Art Davis, first baseman, led the squad in RBI's as he drove 29 runners home. Little and Hall tied for the home-run lead with 5 each. Jerry Drake topped the pitchers in wins with a 7-3 mark, but freshman Mike Best had a 5-0 mound record.

The batting averages for players with 12 or more at bats follows:

Mountaineers Win 4-3 Tilt

The Appalachian Mountaineers paired six hits with four Elon errors to score four unearned runs and turn back the Fighting Christians 4 to 1 in a Carolinas Conference baseball game at Boone on Monday, May 6th.

Bill Jarrett, ace of the Mountaineer mound staff, worked a steady game on the mound as he let the Elon outfit down with five scattered hits. Jarrett fanned seven and walked only two as he gave the Apps an even break with Elon in their home-and-home series this season.

Jerry Drake, who worked the first seven frames for Elon, also turned in a steady job on the mound, but he was the victim of four Christian fielding errors and had to take the credit for the loss. Mike Little, Christian center fielder, had three of Elon's five hits, one of his blows being a solo homer for the only Elon score.

The Mountaineers scored three of their four runs in the fifth inning when a walk, a sacrifice, an Elon error and a brace of Mountaineer singles plated the three scores. The final App marker came in the seventh on two singles and a pair of Elon miscues.

CATAWBA 14, ELON 6
The Catawba Indians took advantage of a rash of walks by five Elon pitchers as they turned back the Christians 14 to 6 in semi-final action in the tournament on Saturday, May 11th. The win eliminated the Elon nine from the tournament and moved Catawba into the finals against Pfeiffer.

The game was entirely different from Elon's previous lopsided win over Catawba, for Catawba's John McLaughlin threw a four-hit mound job against the Christians, one of the Elon hits being a two-run homer by Mike Little in the third inning.

EDIT MAGAZINE AND ANNUAL

NANCY BUTLER

ELEANOR SMITH

The editors of the Elon College literary magazine and annual are pictured above, Nancy Butler, of Tariffville, Conn., is editor of "The Colonnades," campus literary publication, which was revived this year after being dormant for several years. Eleanor Smith, of Winston-Salem, is editor of "The Phi Psi Chi," the college annual. Both publications are due for distribution before the close of school.

Golf Squad Closes Fine Links Year

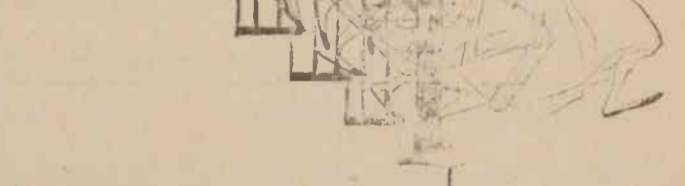

The Fighting Christian golfers, paced by Gordon Cox with an under-par 70 score, wound up their dual meet season with an 11 to 7 win over Guilford here on Friday, May 10th, and closed out with a 7-3 mark for the Conference season and a 7-6 mark overall in the regular campaign.

One of their late-season wins was a highly pleasing 14 1/2 to 12 1/2 win over the Appalachian Mountaineers at Boone on May 2nd, but the Christians were unable to repeat that conquest of the Apps when they entered the annual Conference tournament over the Boone course on May 13th and 14th and wound up in a tie for fifth spot in the title meet.

The Mountaineers, playing on their home course, posted a team score of 625 to grab both the Conference and NAIA District 26 crowns, and Appalachian's Austin Adams ran off with individual honors with a 146 score. The other teams trailed with Guilford, Pfeiffer and Atlantic City in order. Elon and Catawba tied and Lenoir Rhyne last.

Lynn Ryals was installed on Tuesday, May 13th, as the new president of Sigma Mu Sigma social and service fraternity. Other officers are Larry Biddle, senior vice-president; Ron Hiddinkson, junior vice-president; Skip Paska, treasurer; and Ken Harper, secretary.

Also installed were Adrian Bromirski, guide; Sonny Murray, guard; Fred Stephenson, corresponding secretary; Pete Fisk, historian; Rick Turner, chaplain; and Mike Herbert, athletic director.
