DEAN MOORE AGAIN TO BE 'MESSIAH' ACCOMPANIST

Dean Fletcher Moore, who has for many years served as chairman of the department of music at Elon College, will once more play the organ accompaniment when the Elon Choir presents its thirty-fifth annual program of Handel's "The Messiah" at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Dean Moore has served as accompanist since the annual Yule season program was begun, and his artistry at the organ has added much to the enjoyment of thousands of listeners.

Annual Presentation Of Handel Oratorio

One of the outstanding entertainment features of the year on the Elon College campus is set for Sunday afternoon, when the Elon College Choir and the Elon College-Community Orchestra will join forces for the thirty-fifth annual rendition of Handel's immortal oratorio of "The Messiah."

The Elon Choir presented the program as a vocal rendition for many years, but the College-Community Orchestra joined the Choir in the program in recent years and has added much to the enjoyment of the Yule season presentation.

The Choir, featuring about sixty voices this year, will be once more under the direction of Prof. Wendell Bartholf, and Dr. Marvin N. Artley will direct the orchestra, with Dean Fletcher Moore again serving as organ accompanist.

In addition to directing the choir, Professor Bartholf will also be one of four guest soloists, singing the tenor solo role in the production, as he has done in recent years.

Other guest soloists for the program will be Mary Anne Johnston, of Elon College, soprano; Sandra Walker, of Greensboro, contralto; and Charles Ly-nam, of Greensboro, bass. Both Mrs. Johnston and Ly-nam are Elon graduates, and both have sung with the choir as soloists in previous years.

Two Elon College freshmen from Sanford were fatally injured in an automobile accident which occurred eight miles north of Sanford about 3:48 o'clock on Saturday morning, November 18th.

The two youths were Jesse Joseph White, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.J. White Sr., of Sanford; and Martin Cade Covington, Jr., 18, son of Dr. and Mrs. Cade Covington, Sr., of Sanford. The Covington youth was the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Hook, long-time members of the Elon College faculty group.

Reports of the accident were that White, who owned the car, was driving at the time it ran off the highway and crashed head-on into a tree. The car was demolished.

Young White is survived, in addition to his parents, by one sister, one grandmother and one grandfather. Funeral services were held from the Jonesboro Heights Baptist Church at Sanford on Sunday afternoon, November 19th.

The Covington youth is survived by his parents and five younger brothers, all of Sanford, along with his paternal grandparents of Sanford and his maternal grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Hook, of Elon College. Funeral services were held at Jonesboro Heights Methodist Church at Sanford on Sunday afternoon, November 19th.

Memorial services for both students were held in Whitley Memorial Auditorium on the Elon campus on Tuesday morning, November 21st, when the Elon College student body and faculty paid final tribute. The memorial services were conducted by the Rev. John S. Graves, campus minister.

Elon Shares Fund Grant

Elon College joined thirteen other member colleges of the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges in sharing a recent $2,500 unrestricted gift from the American Oil Foundation.

This grant is the North Carolina share of $100,000 which the American Oil Company has contributed for 1967 in support of state and regional associations of independent colleges throughout the United States, according to a statement from W. B. Patterson, representative of the oil company, who presented the gift to the Tar Heel group.

The initial meeting on November 1st was held in the main lounge on the second floor of the Student Center, with a special feature of the gathering being the showing by Dr. Albert Gminder of slides depicting his travels in Spain. Members of the club also sang Spanish songs to guitar accompaniment and listened to Spanish records.

The next meeting of the Spanish group is set for next Wednesday, December 6th, and a special feature of the program that night will be discussion by Neil Henning and Eleanor Zizzo of their experiences and impressions while traveling and studying in Spain.
